Biggest battle in Lebanon civil war rages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Right-wing Christians launched fresh assaults Saturday afternoon against two Palestinian refugee camps in the biggest battle of the civil war and fighting continued with "unprecedented ferocity," Beirut Radio reported.

The five-day battle over the refugee camps on the southeastern fringe of Beirut has left the hillside zone littered with decomposing bodies.

Moslem-controlled Beirut Radio said Palestinian guerrillas and Moslem leftists, trying to relieve pressure on the camps, attacked Christian positions in the mountains eight miles east of Beirut and there were artillery, mortar and machine gun duels.

It reported that Libyan Premier Abdel Salem Jalloud met with leftist leaders and was making other contacts to try and arrange a new cease-fire.

An overnight missile duel set dozens of apartment buildings afire elsewhere in the city. A rightist radio report said "casualties are high" and the Palestinian refugee camps of Tal Zaatar and Jisr El-Basha were "under a thick pall of black smoke from raging fires."

A leftist radio report said at least 50 Christian fighters were killed and 135 wounded in a morning attack on the camps where about 25,000 Palestinians live surrounded by Christian controlled territory.

Trails of fire across the sky from the shelling contrasted with Beirut's near total blackout. The city has been without electricity, water, telephones or telegraph communications for three days.

Radio reports, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, told of "an acute shortage of bread" in Beirut, and reported urgent appeals from both sides for outside Arab intervention to end the bloodshed.

"The tragedy stems from the fact there is no force capable of enforcing an agreement," declared Pierre Gemayel of the rightist Phalange party, which fields the largest Christian force.

The commander of the breakaway Moslem "Lebanese Arab Army" called on the new Arab peace force to stop the attacks on the camps.

The guerrillas said they repulsed an attack by an estimated 6,000 Christian militiamen and 130 tanks and armored cars trying to overrun the Palestinian camps.

A spokesman said the assault, lasting 14 hours, involved some of the "ugliest hand to hand combat" of the long war, which has taken 28,500 lives by conservative estimates.

Warring sides estimated at least 600 combatants and civilians had been killed so far in the refugee camp battle.

Christians said they opened an artillery barrage setting the stage for a new offensive. "Capture of the camps proved harder than anticipated," admitted a spokesman for Camille Chamoun's National Liberal party militia.

"The guerrillas turned both areas into forts complete with an underground tunnel, communication system and huge arsenals of all kinds of weapons and ammunition," the spokesman added. "We are still determined to take them to ensure safe communications routes in Lebanon's Christian areas."

Ford warns Cuba on meddling; arrives for economic summit

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — President Ford said Saturday he hopes the seven-nation economic summit conference opening here today "will give a new impetus to the growth of our worldwide economy and improve international cooperation."

Ford also warned against outside intervention in the affairs of Puerto Rico following a promise of demonstrations by proindependence groups.

Aides said he was clearly referring to Cuba, although he did not name it. Ford said interference in the "freely determined relations" between the United States and Puerto Rico "will be an unfriendly act which will be resisted by appropriate means."

Ford read his statement after being welcomed by an honor guard, a 21-gun salute and the playing of anthems at San Juan International Airport. He was the first summit participant to arrive.

Others attending the two-day summit will be the leaders of Britain, Japan, Italy, West Germany, France and Canada.

Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Miki and Italian Premier Aldo Moro were the next arrivals. They were taken by helicopter from the airport to a temporary landing pad on the ninth fairway of the golf course at the Dorado Beach Hotel complex, 17 miles south of San Juan, for the conference.

Greeting them were Ford and U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived aboard the government jet that flew him directly to San Juan from London. He had conferred with British officials following a midweek meeting in West Germany with South African Prime Minister John Vorster.

After the helicopter flight to the Dorado Beach complex he told reporters the summit delegations "will review the international situation, with particular emphasis on the economy.

The British and West German delegations were en route.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau were expected Sunday morning for the conference opening.

After the island's few independence groups promised demonstrations, White House officials decided to transport reporters from San Juan to the meeting site by helicopter rather than bus, as earlier planned. Ford also flew to Dorado Beach by helicopter, as had been planned.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "Nothing is anticipated beyond peaceful demonstrations."

Ford's top economic adviser, Alan Greenspan, told newsmen the nation's Gross National Product probably will be lower in the April-June quarter than originally estimated.

He indicated GNP growth may be below 5 per cent at an annual rate, down sharply from the economy's 8.7 per cent annual growth rate in the first quarter.

But Greenspan, chairman of Ford's Council of Economic Advisers, told reporters GNP growth will not accurately reflect the period's real economic growth, which he said may have been about 6 per cent.

SLA pair convicted in attempt at jailbreak

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Two Symbionese Liberation Army members already serving life terms for murder were convicted Saturday in an attempted jailbreak and the assault of two sheriff's deputies.

However, the six-man, six-women jury acquitted Russell Little and Joseph Remiro of a robbery charge in connection with guard keys stolen during the March 1, 1975, escape bid from the Alameda County Jail in Oakland. The robbery charge carried the heaviest possible sentence.

It was the third trial for Little and Remiro since their arrest on Jan. 10, 1974. Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was kidnaped by the SLA about a month after the arrests in an unsuccessful plan to offer her release in exchange for theirs.

Santa Clara County Superior Court Judge James Wright set sentencing for July 9.

Little and Remiro argued that they tried to escape because they feared for their lives. They were awaiting trial at that time in the Nov. 6, 1973, assassination of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster. They were later convicted in Sacramento after the murder case was moved on a change of venue.

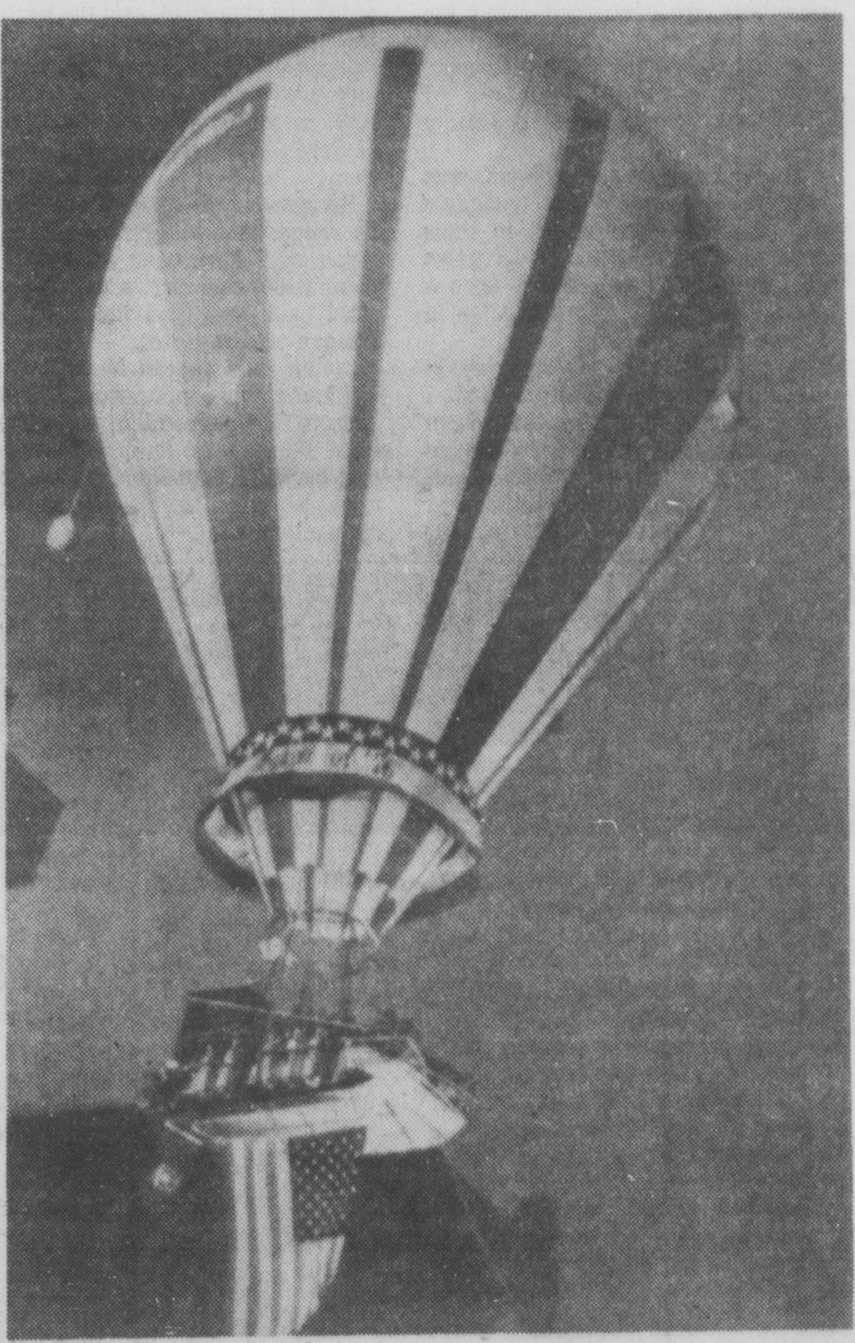
Financial crises of cities are spreading



BALLOONING OVER ATLANTIC

Karl Thomas, 27, of Troy, Mich., cooked a lobster dinner aboard his helium-filled balloon Saturday and predicted he would be floating across Europe by Tuesday. Thomas' goal is drift across the Atlantic and land in Paris. He took off from Lakehurst Naval Air Base Friday.

Conditions worsening; mayors put blame on inflation, joblessness

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The nation's cities will continue to face severe financial difficulties unless the federal and state governments assume responsibility for such things as education and welfare, according to the president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Moon Landrieu of New Orleans released a 136-city conference report Saturday showing that the financial crises which plague many large Northern cities are spreading to suburban communities and to the nation's "Sun Belt."

In opening the 44th annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Landrieu said city financial conditions have worsened considerably in recent years due to unemployment and inflation. The New Orleans mayor said the fiscal traumas "are now starting to affect the suburban areas."

Landrieu said states should pick up costs of education in an effort to equalize the quality of education between wealthier suburban areas and some struggling urban centers.

He also said the federal government should assume full costs of welfare and Medicaid, lifting a huge burden from some city budgets, especially in financially troubled New York City. New York begins its new fiscal year Thursday, and its final city financial plan is being polished for the Emergency Financial Control Board.

New York and Denver are the largest cities now paying part of their welfare bills. Local governments, usually counties, pay 25 per cent of the total welfare cost.

The conference reports say austerity city budgets are being submitted coast to coast by mayors struggling "to deal with the problems of spiraling inflation and recession."

The study indicates that such communities as Beverly Hills, Calif., and Phoenix, Ariz., are confronting harsh financial realities that earlier had brought massive layoffs and cutbacks in cities such as Detroit and New York.

"It's unfortunate, but predictable, that suburban areas are facing fiscal difficulties," Landrieu said. He told reporters that suburbs are extensions of cities "and are beginning to develop some of the same problems."

Landrieu said in seeking a solution to their financial plight, mayors should ask that a set percentage of the federal budget be set aside for disbursement to state and local governments.

He said the current revenue-sharing bill, now before the Senate, provides funding of $6.6 billion a year for the next 3¾ years, assuring annual cutbacks in city services as inflation cuts the worth of each dollar.

The mayors will focus this week on finances and party politics, with Jimmy Carter, Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., of California, and two Republican Cabinet members speaking to the city officials this week.

While about 400 big-city mayors convened, Mayor Abraham D. Beame didn't. He remained in New York polishing the financial plan the city will implement on Thursday when the city's new fiscal year begins.

Beame faces an imminent crisis with labor contracts covering 120,000 workers about to expire. The conference report indicates more cities than ever also may be facing personnel and spending cutbacks.

"For the first time, cities of every size and representing every geographic area, including the sunbelt, are being forced to review budgets and financial positions to determine if they have sufficient revenues to avoid financial crises," said the report.

Crowned Miss California

Miss Orange is the winner

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Linda Michelle Mouron, an 18-year-old brunette from Orange, laughed jubilantly Saturday night as she was crowned Miss California.

Miss Mouron, who portrays Snow White at Disneyland in Anaheim, competed as Miss Orange County and swayed the five-judge panel with an original tap-dance routine during the talent portion of competition.

Miss Mouron, a green-eyed sophomore at Santa Ana Junior College majoring in theater arts and dance, outdistanced first runner-up Laura Ann Melton, 20 of Canoga Park, who competed as Miss Los Angeles County.

Second runner-up was Carolyn Louise Miller, 22 of San Francisco, competing as Miss Pacifica, and third runner-up was Linda K. Snook, 18 of Sacramento, competing as Miss Sacramento County. Laura Youngdahl, 18 of Sonoma, competing as Miss Sonoma, finished fourth.

Miss Mouron was awarded a $2,000 scholarship, while first runner-up was given a $700 scholarship. Second runner-up was awarded a $500 scholarship, third runner-up was awarded a $400 scholarship, and fourth runner-up was awarded a $300 scholarship.

Lisa Ann Erickson, 20, competing as Miss Santa Clara County, was selected Miss Congeniality.

Three contestants selected to receive talent awards of $150 in scholarships included Scheheredade Zia, 19 of San Francisco, competing as Miss South San Francisco; Christine Direl, 18 of Anaheim, competing as Miss Anaheim, and Debra Gale Spiller, 18 of Livingston, competing as Miss Merced County.

Homes in Via Verde left without water

Much of the Via Verde area of San Dimas served by the California Cities Water Co. was without water Saturday night and residents could be without water again today.

Switchboard operators for the company reported receiving dozens of calls about the problem Saturday night, but could only tell residents that workmen were attempting to restore water service as soon as possible.

The water pressure in the area has been a problem during the current heat wave and the situation was seriously aggravated Saturday afternoon by a fire in the Covina Hills. (Story of fire on page 2.)

Ford, Reagan in offsetting delegate wins

By The Associated Press

Ronald Reagan collected four delegates in Idaho and appeared on his way to winning all 21 of New Mexico's delegates Saturday to offset President Ford's near-sweep in Minnesota.

Reagan won the first eight delegates chosen in New Mexico Saturday night. Only three Ford backers remained in the race for the state's other 13 seats.

Reagan was also expected to do well in Montana, where 20 national convention delegates are being picked at the state convention this weekend.

The President now has a total of 1,001 national convention delegates. That is 129 votes short of the number needed for nomination, with only 131 delegates stil to be chosen. Reagan has 943 delegates, and there are 182 uncommitted delegates.

The President won 17 of the 18 delegates chosen in Minnesota early Saturday morning after a marathon night session at the state convention. Reagan got the other delegate.

Minnesota will send a total of 42 delegates to the national convention: 33 supporting Ford, six backing Reagan and three uncommitted.

Woman killed in canyon fall

A 58-year-old San Clemente woman apparently fell to her death while hiking in the East Fork of the San Gabriel Canyon Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff's deputies said the woman, whose identity was withheld pending notification of next of kin, was dead when found by a helicopter search team called in by a companion hiker after they had become separated.

Senseless robbery brings death and despair

ALONE AFTER $5 SLAYING

Tawya Sesi, 19, cradles her baby as she recovers from the shock of seeing her boyfriend, 21-year-old Stephen Picinini, shot to death by robbers who got only $5 and two bottles of soda pop. Times had been tough for the young couple, but they planned to move out of the city's skid-row Cass Corridor into a better area when Stephen started pre-med studies. But since the killing Miss Sesi says, "I don't see any future."

DETROIT (AP) — The robbers' net gain: $5, two bottles of soda pop and some diapers.

The net loss: Stephen Picinini's life and dreams of going to medical school, and Tawyna Sesi's chances to take her baby, Elysa, out of the slums.

Police said that Tawyna Sesi, 19, who has been living with Picinini, gave them this account of the incident.

Picinini, 21, and Miss Sesi were walking on the edge of the Wayne State University athletic field, carrying Miss Sesi's baby, when a gunman and two companions approached them and demanded money.

Picinini, who was holding the baby, pleaded with the gunman. "Hey man, we don't have any money. I have a baby here, man."

When the man reached for Picinini's knapsack, Picinini pulled a small penknife in a futile attempt to defend himself but was shot in the chest. The bullet missed the infant by inches and the gunman and his two companions ran off with the knapsack containing $5, diapers for the infant and two bottles of soda pop.

"When the bullet hit him, Steve dropped the baby and spun around, falling face down," Tawnya said Wednesday. "I started screaming and turned him over.

"He looked at me and said, 'I'm going to die.'"

By the time help arrived, Picinini was dead.

"I don't see any future. I don't see anything," Miss Sesi lamented.

She said she and Picinini met 10 months ago when they occupied separate apartments near where he died. She was pregnant, but the father had left her.

"Steve said he'd take care of me," she explained. The couple moved into an apartment on the second floor of a building at the core of the decaying, neardowntown area called the Cass Corridor, which serves as a home for derelicts and the poor and also borders Wayne State, Michigan's third largest university.

She lived on welfare and he took a part-time job as a handyman at a nearby hotel. But at night, Miss Sesi said, Picinini read books by Joseph Conrad and dreamed of attending Wayne's medical school.

Those dreams began while he was a medic with the Army Medical Corps in Germany in 1971. There, his commanding officer wrote to his mother, he distinguished himself as a "positive morale boost for the entire company."

After leaving the Army, Picinini worked in Detroit General Hospital's emergency ward and tried to join the city's ambulance corp, the Emergency Medical Service. He scored well on tests, but his mother, Sharon Picinini, said Wednesday he didn't get the job because the city was only hiring minorities and was cutting back due to financial problems.

In March, though, he wrote to his grandmother that things were looking up. "I plan to enroll at Wayne State University. I've made what I feel is the most major decision of my life and have been accepted in the premed program there. Naturally, I'm very excited."

Miss Sesi said they had planned to move to a better section of town as soon as they could find the money. "Now I don't know what I'll do," she said Wednesday. "I don't know where my mother is. I just remember foster homes. "Most of all I remember Steve. But he's dead now."

Brush fire in Covina Hills destroys $50,000 home

A fire, possibly caused by children playing with matches, blackened 30 acres of brush in the Covina Hills Saturday afternoon and destroyed a $50,000 home.

Firemen said the blaze broke out at about 2 p.m. near Oak Canyon Road north of the San Bernardino Freeway.

A total of about 30 units from Covina, Los Angeles County and surrounding communities fought the blaze, aided by water drops from a helicopter.

The home lost in the fire was located at 1251 Covina Hills Road.

The fire was brought under control at about 4:30 p.m. although firemen continued to fight hot spots for several more hours.

Down-to-the-wire Ford-Reagan fight worries GOP national committeemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Republican National Committee members say privately they are discouraged and worried about the impact on the party of a down-to-the-wire fight for the GOP presidential nomination.

Ten of the 150 committee members who ended a threeday meeting Saturday said in interviews they and other members are concerned about the sometimes-bitter fight between President Ford and Ronald Reagan, and the early elimination of challengers to Democrat Jimmy Carter.

Some of that bitterness was evidenced Saturday by Reagan's criticism of late changes in rules governing the selection of delegates at state party conventions. Such a change cost him five delegates in Minnesota.

"I have found to my surprise, in virtually every convention that I have visited so far, that there have been desperate attempts to change the rules, and usually to my disadvantage," the former California governor told the Montana Republican convention. "That certainly hasn't increased my spirit of unity."

Besides the Ford-Reagan rivalry and Carter's domination, concern also was expressed at the national committee meeting about the party's finances and recent public opinion polls.

Some of the members, who did not wish to be identified, said the party's best chance in November is for Reagan to agree to run as Ford's vice presidential running mate. Most RNC members are firm supporters of Ford for the presidential nomination.

Reagan has said in recent weeks he would be unwilling to run on a ticket with Ford. And a New York committee member who supports Ford said he would fight to keep Reagan off the ticket.

In the final speech heard by the RNC members preparing for the Kansas City convention, the party's chief fund raiser Saturday warned that the GOP is so short of money it might be forced to go out of business by election time.

Jeremiah Milbank, GOP finance chairman, said unless Republican officials around the country get busy raising money for the fall campaigns, "we may not have the chance to fight back successfully again."

For the first time, he said, Democrats running in federal elections will outspend Republicans.

Unless there is a repeat of 1972 when wealthy Republicans were solicited for millions of dollars, he said, "this country could indeed then be facing the end of the two party system ..."

His appeal was for solicitations of major contributors. "The vast majority of those Republicans who have the wherewithal to give a major contribution are holding back," he said.

Milbank said last fall a goal was set for the party to raise $25 million before election day for congressional, senatorial and presidential campaigns. With four months to go until the election he said another $16.5 million has yet to be raised.

Other speakers at the RNC meetings referred to Republican polls showing that only 18 per cent of voting age Americans consider themselves to be Republicans.

Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., said of the 18 per cent, "11 per cent are wishy-washy."

Of a possible Ford-Reagan ticket in November, one RNC committee member from a key southern state said, "It's been the only consistent subject I've heard everywhere at these meetings."

The topic came up at a regional caucus of GOP committee members from the Northeast, where there was a minority view.

George Hinman, a committee member from New York where Reagan is not popular among GOP party officials, said his delegation might withhold convention votes if the former California governor is placed on the ticket, sources said.

Hinman reportedly urged Republicans from the Northeast to agree to work against the Ford-Reagan idea, but no formal action was taken on his proposal.

Hinman appeared to be in the minority among RNC members.

BEATING THE HEAT

Stacey Bryant of Pomona has found perhaps the best way of cooling off from record 100-degree temperatures that scorched the valley this weekend. Ms. Bryant was relaxing at Puddingstone Lake in San Dimas. The heat was expected to continue through Monday, according to forecasters. People thronged beaches and lakes to escape the hot weather.

California Demos conclude selection of all delegates

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Democratic delegates to the national convention in New York city next month finished electing all 280 California delegation members Saturday, with only a modest amount of political bickering.

In a hotel near the airport, many of the 152 Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. delegates already picked in congressional district caucuses quickly endorsed by voice vote the democratic presidential contender's 52 choices for at-large delegates.

The voting for former Gerogia Gov. Jimmy Carter's 18 at-large delegates, which are apportioned according to the June 8 primary vote, went slower, with an attempt by some delegates to suggest nominations other than a Carterbacked slate.

But a 29-18 vote eventually ratified the at-large choices presented by Carter's California steering committee — a list that was notable for its exclusion of Jesse Unruh, the state treasurer who campaigned for Carter in the Maryland primary.

Across town, a meeting of the California Republican delegation went much more smoothly, since all 167 delegates are committed in any case to former Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan's choices for GOP national Committeeman and committeewoman, Michael Curb of Los Angeles and Virginia Rice of Hanford, were elected without opposition. Reagan appeared briefly at the meeting at the conclusion of a five-state campaign swing.

At the Democrat's meeting, Grover McKean, an Unruh aid, said Unruh rejected a Carter campaign request that he be a delegate alternate after his rejection as a delegate. McKean added Unruh had received a committment from Ben Goddard, Carter's western campaign chairman, that he would be a delegate.

McKean added that Unruh would not stop backing Carter because the former assembly speaker was not chosen as a delegate.

During the day, the most hotly debated issue was the Brown camp's successful move to elect a slate of 15 national committeemen who will serve the four-year term. Only one of those persons, Norma Sublett of West Sacramento, was a Carter delegate.

The rest were Brown delegates, something that made Goddard, Carter's aide, say that a "fair" share of committeemen for Carter should have been at least four, based on primary results.

In other action, Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, the California legislature's most powerful lawmaker, was voted chairman of the California delegation to the convention beginning July 12.

The San Francisco democrat defeated Los Angeles Rep. Yvonne Braithwaite Burke, co-chairperson of the Democratic convention in 1972.

One humorous note to the session — which focused mainly on the at-large delegate selection — was a caucus meeting for Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall, who won two delegates in the California primary.

"It took longer than I thought it would," said William Harvey, an Oakland resident who was the only Udall delegate present at the session. The other Udall delegate, Jeffrey Klein of Los Angeles, was in Israel on vacation, but 15 Udall supporters showed up to discuss issues and the selection of one alternate delegate with Harvey.

A contingent for Idaho Sen. Frank Church, who picked up seven delegates in the California primary, selected delegate alternates, as did other caucuses, who go to the convention and sit in when regular delegates leave the floor.

Neither Church nor Udall was entitled to any at-large delegates, because neither received the legally required 10 per cent of the vote statewide.

The 18 Carter and 52 Brown at-large delegates selected Saturday make up 25 per cent of the delegation.

Spotlight on crime

Under the layer of onions — $250,000 worth of marijuana

Sheriff's deputies Tom Fitzsimons and Jerry Trueman had a strong suspicion that there was something more than green onions packed into 400 crates in a truck parked in Azusa.

They were right. The green onions only amounted to a thin layer on top inside each crate. Beneath the onions and a layer of ice was marijuana, totaling up in all the crates to two tons, with a street value of more than $250,000.

Fitzsimons and Trueman had gone to 16533 Laxford Ave. to investigate the report of a burglary at 10 p.m. Friday. Inside the house they saw a quantity of marijuana inside an onion crate. Then they noticed more onion crates in the truck parked in the driveway.

After checking out the contents, the officers arrested three men — Richard Martinez, 32, Louie Morales, 33, and Patrick Kerwin, 36, addresses unknown.

The suspects were booked at the San Dimas substation on charges of possession of marijuana for sale. Bail for each was set at $10,000.

6 jailed in bingo raid

Pomona police and Los Angeles County Sheriff's vice squad officers broke up what they termed a large scale, commercial bingo operation and arrested six persons in Pomona.

The raid occurred Friday evening at what is known as the "Church of All Faiths," at 3240 N. Garey Ave.

About 150 persons were playing bingo at the time of the raid, said police, although only the alleged operators were placed under arrest.

Among the six persons arrested was Victor Michael Barbish, 40, of 2177 Silvertree Road, Claremont, well-known to local authorities for his connection with bingo operations in the past.

In 1972 and 1973 Barbish had a running battle with police and City Council in La Verne for operation of a bingo parlor at the Le Chaim Restaurant (also known as Vic's Steak House) on White Avenue in that city. He was arrested several times before the city was finally able to close down the game.

Arrested with Barbish in Pomona Friday were Sally Mae Adamovich, 31, of 1430 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland, Caroline Dianne Morrett, 35, of 13957 Foothill Blvd., Fontana, and Ralph Arthur Allen, 54, Selma Allen, 50, and Lee Carlton Allen, 21, all of 3610 N. Bender, Covina.

All were charged with operating an illegal lottery.

Authorities said the operation would be illegal even if Prop. 9, recently approved by the state electorate to allow some types of bingo operations, was in effect.

Authorities said the patrons each paid $10.60 for a Bible and a number of bingo cards with which to play for over $1,000 in prizes.

Crowd pelts police

Pomona Policemen were pelted with rocks, bottles and beer cans and arrested five persons early Saturday morning durina a disturbance involving about 100 persons in the area of Sharkie Park.

No major injuries were reported as a result of the 1:30 a.m. incident, although police officer Ron Kelly was treated for bruises to the chest area at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

According to police, the incident began when patrolmen responded to the Towne Shoppe Liquors store, 1201 S. Garey Ave., where an argument involving three or four persons was in progress in the parking lot.

While investigating, the officers saw a large group of 20 or 30 youths in an alley heading toward the area of Grand Avenue and Thomas Street.

The officers attempt to contact the youths was met by a barrage of rocks and other objects. The group of youths moved toward the Sharkie Park area where a party was going at a nearby residence, with about 100 persons in attendance.

Persons at the party also pelted police with objects as the entire gathering was declared an unlawful assembly and the crowd was ordered to disperse.

Those arrested in the ensuing melee were Edward Eugene Linnett, 20, for assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer, Ismael Moreno Templos, 18, 1071 W. Phillips Blvd., for battery on a police officer, and a 17-year-old, 16-year-old and 14-year-old for failure to disperse.

Moore, ballet in supplement

Mary Tyler Moore and the Bolshoi Ballet will be the subjects of stories in Sunday's edition of TV Week, a supplement in the Progress Bulletin.

Miss Moore will be the hostess for the General Electric Theater Special "The Bolshoi Theatre: 'Romeo and Juliet'," which will be seen on Channel 2 Sunday from 8 to 10 p.m.

Mars wind report helps in landing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists were elated Saturday over the first Martian weather report, a wind velocity reading from Viking 1 that may help in the tricky process of selecting a landing site amid the craters and other hazards on the Red Planet's surface.

The orbiting craft's most recent pictures, taken on its once-a-day orbit, showed what scientists called a "gingerbread man" formation, a cloud of ice crystals pushed along above the planet by Martian winds.

By comparing the position of the cloud in photographs taken three minutes apart, the landing site team here at Jet Propulsion Laboratory figured the approximate speed of the winds.

"It is moving at approximately 30 meters per second (67 miles per hour)," said the chief of the landing site team, Dr. Harold Masursky. "It is the first measurement of the movement of an air mass, and is an extremely critical measurement for site certification."

The rarified Martian atmosphere would reduce the effect of a 100 mile-per-hour wind to the equivalent of a 10 m.p.h wind on earth, but it is thought that wind as high as 60 m.p.h. could wreck the lander.

Masursky said the Viking lander, due to touch down July 4 to begin a search for signs of living organisms, could easily withstand winds as high as those measured by the newest photographs. Until Saturday, Masursky had described data on Martian wind velocity as uncertain.

LANDER ENTRY PROFILE

This is an artist's conception of the sequence of events prior to landing life-detection laborabory on Mars July 4. At right, Viking spacecraft has been in orbit around Mars since June 19 taking pictures of planned landing site to ascertain its safety before releasing lander, top left, for its descent. Lander, protected by aeroshells, hurtles into the Martian atmosphere at about 10,000 miles per hour, to be slowed first by aerodynamic drag until the shell is discarded, then by parachute and finally by retrorockets.

Will we hit cosmic jackpot on July 4?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The most elaborate skyrocket of them all, a shot at Mars, is scheduled for a Fourth of July landing on that intriguing planet to tell us whether anybody lives there.

Actually, two such rockets are on their way, each an ingenious, expensive, remote-controlled laboratory in miniature. The labs, built at a cost of $50 million, have been programmed to carry out a series of tests on handfuls of soil that will be scooped from Mars' surface by a 10-foot-long robot arm.

This is providing, of course, the Viking landers that contain the labs are able to come down on the rugged Martian surface — one July 4, the other about Sept. 4 — without being smashed to bits. Previous Soviet soft-landing attempts failed; this is the first U.S. try.

The Vikings, launched last fall, are controlled by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here. They will conduct three major experiments.

Packed into the breadbox-sized labs are instruments designed to detect life — even if it exists on the red planet in tiny-quantities and in the most primitive forms.

"If life exists at all," said Dr. Fred Brown of TRW Systems, manufacturers of the automated labs, "the likelihood is that it is very, very primitive, perhaps single-celled organisms, like fungi."

Speculation during the last hundred years that Mars might be inhabited by a civilization that constructed artificial waterways collapsed under the weight of modern spacecraft observations. Unmanned probes flying past the planet over the past several years showed clearly that Mars has no cities, no canals, no vegetation, probably no liquid water, not much of an atmosphere and temperatures drop nearly 200 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

Expectations of any life whatsoever were almost nonexistant in view of those findings. But the Mariner 9 mission in 1972 revealed previously unseen mountains, volcanoes, winding channels and a huge gorge that would dwarf the Grand Canyon. Only running water could have carved these features, scientists believe.

Anxious as scientists and other Mars-watchers are to see the results of the tests, they will have to wait weeks or even months. The first scoopful of soil is scheduled to be dug up eight days after the landing and dropped into the experiment hopper. It takes 12 days to analyze the experiments. Then even if positive results are obtained, the lab will be required to further analyze a control batch of soil, one that has been sterilized to obliterate any life. Only if that control batch tests negative, while the first sample was positive, can results of the first experiment be considered.

In fact, the earliest a conclusive showing of life could be announced would be Aug. 11. That may even be too early, since Martian organisms might take a lot longer than 12 days to yield signs of metabolism or growth.

"We possibly will not have a conclusive answer about life until extended mission data is returned," said Brown, referring to Viking experiments beginning in early 1977.

Here is a brief explaination of the Viking's three major biological experiments:

—Pyrolytic release: Life as known on Earth depends on the conversion of carbon from the atmosphere into organic matter, using sunlight. A portion of the Martian soil sample is deposited into a sealed chamber together with radioactive carbon. After an incubation period, during which organisms in the soil would presumably have assimilated the carbon into organic matter, the sample is heated. The resulting gas should contain radioactive carbon if it has been ingested by the organisms.

—Labeled release: A test seeking any signs of metabolism by Martian orgamisms. Another portion of the soil is dumped into a chamber containing a fluid nutrient designed to be consumed by living things present in the soil. This nutritent also contains radioactive carbon — Carbon-14 — which could be detected if given off by the organisms during metabolism. Of course, Martian metabolism might be different from that process on Earth, but since we have only one example — Earth's — the experiments are based on that assumption.

—Gas exchange: A test to detect either plant or animal forms. A soil sample is dunked into a liquid nutirent and exposed to a mixture of gases simulating a Martian atmosphere. If there are any living, growing, breathing organisms in the soil, they should give off gases as byproducts that could be detected by sensitive instruments.

A positive result from the experiments would be a good indicator of Martian life. A negative answer would not necessarily mean that there is no life on Mars, only that the Vikings did not find it.

CARD OF THANKS

Brethren: We will not have you ignorant concerning those who sleep that ye sorrow not, as even the others who have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, so also those who are asleep through Jesus, God will bring with him. For this we say to you on the word of the Lord, that we who are alive, who remain to the coming of the Lord, shall not precede those who are asleep. For the Lord himself, with command, and with the voice of Archangel and with the trumpet of God, shall come down from heaven. And the dead who are in Christ shall rise first. Then we who are alive, who are left, shall be caught up with them in the clouds to meet Christ in the air, and so we shall be always with the Lord.—I Thess. 4.

Thanks to you, brothers and sisters in Christ, for your concern, generosity, your support, and prayers in sincere gratitude.

—John Princiliano Cortez and family, Mrs. Mary Cortez and family

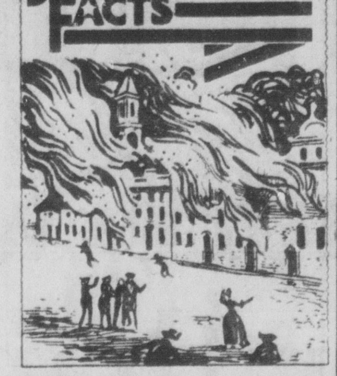
BICENTENNIAL FACTS



Signer of the Declaration of Independence Francis Hopkinson lived in Bordentown, N.J., and his home has an interesting legend connected to it. When the house was occupied by the British during the Revolutionary War, an officer decided to burn it down until he looked over Hopkinson's extensive library and could not bear to destroy it. The order was countermanded. The World Almanac notes that the officer did, however, carry off the signer's telescope!

Game varies

American checkers and English draughts are identical, but there are other versions of this popular game. All 64 squares on the board are used in playing Turkish checkers, while in Spanish checkers all pieces move backward as well as forward.

Editor reveals secrets of publishing industry

By NICHOLAS POLOS

INDECENT PLEASURES: The Life and Colorful Times of William Targ, by William Targ. The Macmillan Co., $14.95.

(Nicholas C. Polos is professor of history at La Verne College.)

William Targ is a legendary editor, and I am glad the book jacket told me so, because to the general public Targ is virtually unknown.

What we have here is a kind of literary lowdown of the "soft underbelly of book publishing," as revealed by what Mario Puzo calls "the hit man of publishing."

The average reader who likes to read — often an ingenious device for avoiding any thought — will not find this book exciting. It is an inside story for the book "aficionados" or the literary set.

Targ describes his experiences with all kinds of literature: erotic, neurotic, and tommyrotic. In his honest confessional he attempts to reveal what the public wants to know, or at least he thinks they want to know, about best sellers, the nature of High Schlock, the lifestyle of editors, the sexual side of publishing (a novel idea for book editors), and some valuable insights into some of the famous authors such as Simone de Beauvoir, Samuel Beckett, Saul Bellow, Carl Sandburg, W. H. Auden, and many others if one is interested in this esoteric phase of life.

This is primary a "bookman's" memoirs. It has a basic theme — A humourous, anecdotal attempt to capture the mystique of the book world. Herbert Gold called Targ: ". . . bibliomadman, he's secure where he belongs — among books," and Jerome Lawrence called him: Mr. Publishing."

There is no doubt that William Targ is held in high regard by the authors and writers who live in the nether-world of authorship or that Targ's book is written with dignity, honest revelation, and humor. However, it is an inside insight of an inner circle. Inner circle is defined in literary circles as that group "tres select" that has its coffee later instead of with the meal!

A small public may enjoy Targ's "crackle of civilized discourse" with its mini-anthology of inphrases and the classic colLateral phenomenon of nuts-and-bolts advice to writers and editors, and disclosures reminiscent of Henry Miller but the public at-large, and it is a large public, would find this book irrelevant.

Indeed, if one is not sympathetic to the antics and Byzantine mores of writers, and movers and shakers of the literary world, this would be a boring adventure filled with eerie nuances.

In a sense, Targ with his narrow canvas bears out again that truth, of which daily reminding is none too often that Thornton Wilder summed up: "Wherever you come near the human race there's layers and layers of nonsense."

LANGUAGE CLEANSED BY RELIGIOUS AUTHOR

CLEANING UP THE CHRISTIAN VOCABULARY: Words that Confuse and Divide, by Vernard Eller. Brethren Press paperback, $2.95.

Words aren't always the most satisfactory form of communication, especially when they have come to mean something different for each person who uses them.

This is the premise of Eller's latest book.

Author of eight other books dealing with religious issues, Eller attacks a list of 30 words used frequently in the Christian vernacular. Each word is discussed in terms of its emotional, connotative, denotative, and etymological meanings.

Eller describes his undertaking as a necessary evil, because of the misdirected and wrongly motivated ways in which words are used. His purpose is "to make a careful examination of the words regularly used in categorizing different varieties of the Christian faith, differing emphases within that faith, and different people who have different ideas regarding that faith."

Eller also bemoans the fact that the etymological meaning of many of the words have been lost.

"Amusing as it must seem" he says, "if Fundamentalists were truly 'fundamental' and Radicals were truly 'radical', they would both be at the same place; etymologically, the two words are virtually synonymous. But, unfortunately, the name of a group has no necessary relationship to its reality."

Other words taken to task include anabaptist ("ana" not "anti" Eller points out), antidisestablishmentarianism (a stupefying word usually used for that purpose), and catholic (it would mean the same thing as ecumenical if it hand't been incorporated into the name of a church).

Eller, a professor of religion at La Verne College, is the author of many religiously oriented books including "The Most Revealing Book of the Bible: Making Sense Out of Revelation," and "The Simple Life."

REFLECTIONS

The face of Dr. John Wilcox, left, is reflected in the plaque presented by Dr. Richard Mabie. The plaque, which expresses appreciation to the retiring physician for his service to all children, will be placed in the pediatrics wing at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Dr. Wilcox, a member of the medical staff since 1938, was honored by his fellow physicians.

Popular valley physician going into semi-retirement

One of the valley's best known physicians is giving up his private practice but is not, in any way, retiring from medicine.

Dr. John Wilcox, pediatrician in Pomona and Claremont since 1938, was feted recently by the medical staff of Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Dr. Richard Mabie presided at ceremonies in which a large plaque was unveiled. The plaque will hang in the hospital's pediatric wing in honor of the physician.

But in spite of the retirement ceremony, Dr. Wilcox has already committed himself to a number of projects, ranging from serving as a hospital consultant to founding a pediatrics clinic for Spanish-speaking migrant farm workers' families.

"At least I won't have as much weekend and night work," explained Dr. Wilcox.

The entire Pomona Valley had a population of under 60,000 when Dr. Wilcox started his practice in 1938. He had graduated from Pomona College and Harvard Medical School and completed residency training programs at Boston Children's Hospital, Massachusetts General Hospital and Los Angeles Children's Hospital.

During World War II, the physician was assigned to the U.S. Army Air Force with duty as a contagious disease ward officer and as chief medical officer administering a program for a rehabilitation center.

After the war, Dr. Wilcox's jeep parked outside a home meant he was making a house call to a sick child. It was a familiar sight to the influx of young families moving to the valley.

He has always been identified by his casual clothes, wearing short trousers and attractive Latin American shirts during the summer.

Fluent in the Spanish language, Dr. Wilcox established a series of well baby clinics in the valley's barrio areas where Mexican workers in the citrus groves could be served.

"We held the clinics in garages, chicken coops or any place we could find, in the early days," Dr. Wilcox said.

"The clinics operated until there was no longer the need. Families bought cars and were able to drive to the county health center."

Dr. Wilcox also conducted clinics in Latin America and has written and lectured in Spanish.

His teaching assignments have also included instructing at USC Medical School, College of Medical Evangelists, the UCLA Medical School and on the Hospital Ship Hope.

Currently, Dr. Wilcox is chairman of a committee on mental health, mental retardation and learning and behavior disorders for the Southern California Section of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

He is also chairman of a committee of the California Council on Children and Youth now in the process of formulating a model screening test for use in nursery-school age children, designed to discover potential learning and behavior disorders before school age.

Dr. Wilcox's schedule in the future includes working two days a week at Casa Colina Hospital, teaching at Loma Linda University Medical School and serving as the physician for the Pomona Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society.

In addition, he recently started a weekend pediatrics clinic in Coachella for migrant Spanish-speaking workers.

Dr. Wilcox and his wife will continue to maintain a home in Claremont but will also spend many weekends at their 65-acre ranch near Devore.

Bonelli Park plans opening ceremonies for new facilities

A two-day observance is planned next month at Bonelli Park to mark the opening of several new recreational facilities there, Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum announced.

The festivities are planned July 10 and 11, and will highlight the reopening of Mountain Meadows Golf Course, which has been shut down for the past three years to allow relocation and improvement of the county links.

But Schabarum said the county will not allow any play on the new links until Aug. 9. He said landscapers want a month to allow the freshly laid turf a chance to strengthen.

Other newly completed projects to be noted during the two-day opening include:

— A 189-space recreational vehicle campground built on three knolls overlooking Puddingstone Lake.

— An equestrian complex including practice rings, stables and a horse rental concession.

— Extensive additional picnic areas on the south shore of the reservoir.

Also to be introduced are the new sailboat launching ramps, three fishing piers, the new headquarters building, boat rental facilities, group camping areas and a network of new equestrian and hiking trails.

Activities during the two-day observance at the 2,000-acre regional park include an art exhibit, water events on the reservoir, free boat tours of the lake area, and dedication ceremonies.

Dedications are scheduled July 10 at 9 a.m. at the golf course and 10 a.m. at the equestrian centers. There will be a parade featuring antique cars and equestrian groups.

Pomona schools superintendent's contract viewed

Approval of a contract for Pomona's new superintendent of schools Charles C. Carpenter is the lead item on the agenda for a special school board meeting scheduled Monday at 12:30 p.m. in the Education Center board room.

Carpenter, superintendent of schools in Holyoke, Mass., was hired for the top position here on June 15.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services who is serving as acting superintendent this week while Sidney G. Moses is on vacation in Hawaii, said other agenda items will include:

— The extension of 12-month Emergency School Assistant Act (ESAA) personnel.

— Action on liability insurance for 1976-77.

— Scheduling a reception for Carpenter.

— A review of the contract for the assistant superintendent of educational services, a position held by Moses, who had functioned as acting superintendent since last October.

— Consideration of a request from administrators for direction concerning further consolidation of the cafeteria system.

Administrators will present information on budget planning for next year and on the establishment of a safety officer position.

The board will meet at noon for an executive session before opening the meeting to the public.

Roamers plan Mammoth trip

A trip to Mammoth Lakes is being planned by the Roamers Club, a senior citizens group sponsored by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department, from July 6 to 9.

Seats are still available for the trip. Persons may make reservations or obtain information by calling 620-2321 by Thursday.

Bells will be ringing in valley

The ringing of bells will herald the start of America's third century on July 4 here in the valley and across the country.

In a nationwide program organized by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, the Liberty Bell in Freedom Hall in Philadelphia will toll at 2 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time (11 a.m. local time) and bells all across the country are to toll simultaneously from schools, churches, homes, town halls — everywhere.

Locally the program has been endorsed by the Pomona, La Verne, and Claremont Bicentennial committees and the Pomona Elks Lodge. All valley residents are being urged to participate.

The bell ringing is to last for two consecutive minutes, symbolizing the United States' two centuries of freedom.

"Let the sound of every bell in the country ring out to declare our freedoms and signify our unity," said John W. Warner, national chairman, recently in announcing the program.

Pomona council considers adopting city's new budget

Pomona's $20.4 million budget for 1976-77 will be considered for adoption Monday night by the Pomona City Council following a public hearing.

The budget contains a proposed property tax rate increase of 39 cents, which would increase the total city property tax rate from $2.495 to $2.885 per $100 of assessed valuation.

During Monday's hearing City Administrator Jerrold Gonce will give the council his recommendation on possible ways to strike use of reserve funds from the budget, which total about $116,000.

Let's show our colors

Residents of Hillcrest Homes in La Verne are setting a splendid example for all valley residents in the continuous display of the American flag from now through the Fourth of July.

It's all part of a national effort to produce tangible evidence of the country's faith in itself and the principles upon which it was founded.

In the forefront of that effort is the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The Pomona Elks Lodge recently sponsored a flag raising ceremony at Indian Hill Village that launched this area's 21-Flag Day Salute, as proclaimed by the mayor and city council of Pomona.

This is a special period for acclaiming pride in our country. Therefore, all households in possession of an American flag should break out the colors and display it proudly in front of their homes. We would like to see every street in the valley become an avenue of flags.

Making nuclear haste slowly

The recent referendum in California on the future of nuclear energy in that state may turn out to be a contest in which everybody won.

By a two-to-one margin, Californians decisively rejected Proposition 15, which would have mandated impossible safety and performance standards for nuclear power plants and, according to opponents of the proposition, have stopped the development of nuclear energy in its tracks. Both sides expended millions of dollars in promoting their arguments.

Contributing to the defeat of Proposition 15, however, was the action by the California legislature on the eve of the balloting in passing three measures relating to nuclear plant safety, and signed by Gov. Edmund Brown, which greatly counteracted the scary vision of atoms gone wild conjured up by the antinuclear forces.

Thus while Californians have signified that they want nuclear energy, the industry has been put on notice (if it were not already well aware) that the public is intensely concerned about this issue and will demand the closest monitoring of nuclear development from here on out. The industry still faces similar referenda in other states.

Actually, the questions of reactor safety, the disposal of radioactive wastes and the possibility of sabotage or theft of nuclear materials have been grossly distorted, not only in California but elsewhere in the country where nuclear plants have been built or are planned.

The real problem facing the industry in the immediate future may be a shortage of uranium and prohibitively high prices for the ore, which have already escalated from $8 a pound in January 1974 to around $35 or $30 today.

So much uranium will be needed soon just for currently operating reactors that some industry executives are convinced the U.S. won't get by without substantial imports, the Wall Street Journal recently reported. "It is probably too late to avoid an important uranium export program," it quoted the president of Exxon Nuclear Co. as warning.

It would indeed be ironic if nuclear energy, which is being counted on so heavily to help alleviate this country's dependence on foreign petroleum, were itself to become dependent upon foreign supplies.

But this should not necessarily be cause for alarm, says another authority. After all, there are very few natural resources in which the United States is totally self-sufficient, points out William Jackson, a vice president of Babcock & Wilcox Co., which builds power generating equipment for both the nuclear and fossil-fuel industries. Fortunately, some of the largest known deposits of uranium in the world are not in the volatile Middle East but in Australia and Canada.

As for the cost of uranium, he believes the previous going market price was too low and is now about where it should be to stimulate exploration for new deposits. Uranium, anyway, is a relatively minor factor in the ultimate cost to consumers of nuclear-generated electricity. The price of coal has also escalated in the past two years, he notes, even though the United States has abundant supplies of this fuel.

If Americans don't suddenly begin making inordinate energy demands but maintain an annual increase in energy consumption somewhere around the current five per cent, Jackson foresees an orderly, crisis-free growth in the coming decades both in nuclear energy, as more efficient reactors are developed, and in alternate energy sources, such as the much-discussed solar power.

The nation, in other words, should make haste slowly as we enter more deeply into the long-promised age of nuclear energy — neither expecting it to be a cheap and easy panacea for all our energy needs nor straitjacketing its development with unrealistic and unnecessary restrictions.

Making nuclear haste slowly is, in effect, what the voters in California have wisely opted for.

Jim Lloyd works hard

Dear Editor:

On the front page of the June 6 issue of the WASHINGTON STAR, I read an article which indicated that Congressman Jim Lloyd's opponent in the 35th District of California is using the anti-Washington trend, and the Wayne Hays mess in particular in an attempt to unseat him.

I have known Jim and Jackie Lloyd for many years, in the Navy and out, and was pleased to hear he had been elected to Congress. Shortly after his arrival in Washington, I met with Jim and have maintained close personal and business contact with him since. Beyond being pleased for an old friend achieving a difficult goal, I am delighted for Washington, the Congress and the country that he is attacking this present assignment just as he has always done in the past with enthusiasm, concentration and, most refreshing, the guts to stand up and be counted. In fact, my prime concern about his re-election prospects hinged on his failure to say "yes" enough.

Jim works hard at representing his District and the country. Even a cursory review of his voting record will bear this out. He spends a lot of hours learning about a lot of things most of us don't even consider. As has always been the case, his primary concern is with people. In this session alone he has voted for Land and Water Conservation, Vocational Education, Solar Energy Research, Public Health Service, Young Adult Conservation Corps, improved benefits for Senior Citizens, Emergency Employment and even to remove the penalty for refusing to answer census questions.

A good portion of his midnight oil is used in researching ways to cut down on public spending. He voted against increasing the debt limit and for amendments to several bills which reduced the total outlays. He believes we need top defense forces, but not at any cost. When his feet were hardly wet, he led a floor fight to purchase fighter aircraft to fill out our fleet requirements at slightly more than half the price of another model being considered and voted to release funds for a badly needed aircraft carrier. He voted for the Maritime Authorization bill, but only after voting for an amendment to remove some frills. His efforts helped to remove an aircraft from the budget which had a questionable role. The saving was close to a half billion dollars. He has proposed hearings on close air support and duplicated weapon systems which could save another several billion dollars.

Not being a constituent of Jim's I have no idea whether or not his record suits the folks back home, but here in Washington, many of us who are concerned about the future of our country and the widespread lack of ethics in government and business by so many individuals, feel that Jim Lloyd is an essential part of the way out of the morass. If his opponent is a better man, let him prove it — but not by using guilt by association as a plank and capitalizing on the overreaction to a bad situation.

I'm embarrassed for my country and incensed by the individuals who have betrayed our faith, but I think it is stupid to sink the whole ship to get rid of the rats in the galley.

Staffers buttress Butz

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz has always been the kind of public speaker who could make the Gettysburg Address sound like a crop report.

But lately, he has been gathering steam on the stump. His flat, Midwestern monotone has risen to new rhetorical heights on behalf of President Ford's campaign

Unfortunately, Butz's new-found eloquence has dubious roots. Career civil servants, who are barred by law from political activities, have been writing the secretary's speeches. They have also been compelled to prepare background papers on agricultural issues for the Ford campaign staff.

The man who has been orchestrating this misuse of the civil service is Butz's deputy undersecretary, Paul Theis, whose specialty is political campaigning. For more than 16 years, he was director of the National Republican Congressional Committee, which is devoted to electing Republicans to Congress.

In 1974, President Ford brought Theis into the White House. He moved early this year to the Agriculture Dept. where he has now pressed three reluctant career employes into service churning out campaign material for Ford, Butz and company.

A GS-14 civil servant, for example, wrote Butz's June 12 keynote address before the Michigan state Republican convention. It was entitled, "The Republican Revolution."

In his droning monotone, Butz read the words prepared for him at the taxpayers' expense.

"It was in the cold light of a New England spring morning," he began dramatically, "that the American Revolution began just over 200 years ago." That revolution continues, declared Butz, "under the clear light of reason within the Republican party. And under the leadership of President Gerald R. Ford."

Having thus aligned Ford with the founding fathers, Butz moved to the climax of his speech.

"What I'm going to do," he intoned, "is tell you flat out: President Ford deserves the Republican party nomination because he is the best possible candidate — and he is a winner."

Butz always includes a pro-forma attack on the overgrown federal bureaucracy in his speeches. But he doesn't mention that he keeps at least three bureaucrats busy writing illegal political speeches and papers.

Footnote: Theis acknowledged that a career civil servant worked on the June 12 speech. But Theis insisted that he added the language calling for Ford's nomination. He feels this is not improper since he is a political appointee. He also conceded that the Agriculture Dept. has prepared background papers for Ford but contended that the department has prepared similar reports for past presidents.

Sex in the State Capitol

By EARL G. WATERS

Quickly, before some eager "investigative" reporter "uncovers" sex scandals at the State Capitol this column can tell you it's all true.

Frankly, political writers should have enough sensational things to report in just covering the daily activities of state government without prying into the private lives of the solons and bureaucrats.

But the fact that the media on the national scene has zoomed a tawdry alleged incident into a laundry full of dirty linen in an effort to rival Watergate will encourage newsmen elsewhere to snoop into the closets on their beats.

So it is all bound to come out anyway. And the turth is that sex in Sacramento has been rampant for many a year. Truth is it is commonly known, especially to the State Police.

For, unlike the Washington case (or cases) the reported incidents have not taken place in legislative offices or secluded apartments. Rather they have been more open. Most of the encounters have been under the bushes in the beautiful and spacious Capitol Park.

The park is regularly patrolled by the State Police whose duties are to guard the state buildings and grounds. And, although the trysts are usually nocturnal affairs, the park is well lighted. Thus, romantic huddles in the darker recesses are not completely screened from observation.

Still the Capitol police have been reluctant to interfere. As one of the force stated when questioned, "It's not against the law." Asked if such things have been reported to higher officials, he said: "Report what to who? Everybody knows about it."

His answers reflect the general attitude shared by all of the members of the State Police. The agency is supervised by the Department of General Services and its budget is closely scrutinized by the Legislature.

The members of the force are well aware of the awesome power of the solons. More than once when a state policeman has ruffled the bushy tails the force has been threatened with the loss of status. As one Senator remarked, "If they get too officious we'll take their uniforms and badges away and put them in watchmen's overalls."

A spokesman for the agency, puzzled by the inquiries about moonlight affairs, said: "So, what's new? What's all the fuss? Sure, we're out there to protect anyone from being attacked. What you are talking about is something else. Those are willing couples and it's none of our business. Anyway, the public knows about it. It's been in the papers many times. It's an accepted fact of nature."

Come to think of it, he's right. Nobody wants anything done about it. In fact the only effort ever made, sometime ago, to remove these lovers from the park brought angry reactions from the lawmakers. Assemblyman Gene Chappie even introduced a resolution to protect the sanctuary.

One of the more enterprising reporters, Tom Horton, wrote about it often, couching his tales in his delightfully humorous style. He eventually became discouraged and left town for the more fertile islands of Hawaii.

Our story therefore seems much ado about nothing. Maybe the same is true of those spilling out of Washington.

We, of course, are referring to the little grey squirrels which abound in Capitol Park. We don't know what kind of squirrels the Washington reporters are writing about.

Just in jest

"Today's youth," according to one Senior Citizen who was letting off steam the way many Senior Citizens do these days by writing a Letter to the Editor, "are undisciplined, ill-bred, ill-mannered uncivilized, noisy, rude, destructive, dirty, lazy horrors."

A rather interesting summerization, I thought, but one that definitely called for an equal time rebuttal or maybe even a Modern Youth version of what is wrong with Senior Citizens. So I made that suggestion to the newspaper's Editor.

"Fine, fine!" he said. "I quite agree. But if a faculty task force appointed by the Trustees of the California State Universities and Colleges is right, how many young folks are we going to find these days who are capable of writing a coherent, even half way gramatically correct rebuttal? After all, that faculty task force found 60 percent of the system's students deficient in writing skills — some to the point of functional illiteracy."

Slightly soiled White Hope

FLORESVILLE, Tex. (NEA) — The autumn's presidential campaign will undoubtedly be the peanuttiest in history. There will be James Earl Carter on the one side, likely. And on the other, if folks here in the goober capital of Texas get their wish, will be John Bowden Connally, the local legend who may be the best vice presidential material the Republican party has had in this century.

To be precise, Connally is not a peanut farmer himself. Peanuts grow on his ranch here, but he leases the land to a sod buster. As has Carter, Connally, too, has been heavily influenced by the legume. So honored is the industry locally that a statue of a nut — not Lyndon Johnson — sits in the community square. Growing up then, Connally, the son of a bus driver, the natives say that "Mr. Johnny learned about George Washington Carver before he learned about George Washington."

Not that the man's political education was injured. The locals insist that Connally knows more about democracy, government and constitutional leadership than anyone in either party today. As such, they add, he is the only man in America who can save the GOP. The reasoning is that neither Gerald Ford nor Ronald Reagan has the personal image necessary to carry the election. But with Connally? Says Charles Fuller, former Democratic chairman of this region:

"Mr. Johnny could put life into the Ford campaign. Or he could add a moderating influence to Reagan's bid. He is simply a remarkable politician. I think he could help a jackass get elected this year."

Increasing numbers of Republican officers across the country agree.

Particularly when they are referring to Ford. The opinion is that the Texas rancher is everything that the Michigan lineman is not. He is a most effective campaigner, he appeals to both conservatives and moderates, he is charming and witty and bright. Actually, says a Republican committeeman, "John Connally should be running today instead of Ford. If it hadn't been for that milk trouble, Nixon would have chosen Connally as his vice president when Spiro Agnew resigned. Ford would still be in Congress. And John would be the Man."

The "milk trouble" was, of course, the charge against Connally that he accepted $10,000 from a dairyman to influence price support legislation. The case against Connally was as weak as a bruised udder, and Connally was acquitted in a federal court. But, after a lifetime of public service, he was dropped from the company of the nervous Washington establishment. Even today, to some, he remains something to be kept at arm's length. A risk. A political no. Few feel he was or is dishonest but the smell of suspicion is not easily washed away.

And this is the chief reason why the Floresville hopes for Mr. Johnny are not likely to be realized this year. Neither Ford nor Reagan would easily select a running mate who, however wrongly accused, was tied to the Watergate era. He is the only certifiably innocent man in national politics today, but the times are tough for politicos who have been indicted. Even proof of purity is often not enough. Perhaps half of America still suspects Connally is a cheat.

And so there are at least a few people in Floresville who feel the nation no longer deserves Mr. Johnny's services. Charles Fuller says he has asked the former governor and former Treasury secretary to "come home for good, settle down, relax, and let the ingrates go to hell."

But Connally respectfully declines the notion. In fact he has become the most active noncandidate in the country. Using $350,000 raised by friends, he is averaging three speeches a week in an energetic attempt to raise political consciousness from Orlando to Olympia. One of his themes: every young man and woman should be required to spend one year in the service of his government. Democracy is shaky, he insists; what we need are 200 million born-again Americans.

It's not a bad thought, considering the mood of the electorate. Jimmy Carter could get the Jesus vote, John Connally the patriotic. At least that way there would be a contest. And the lusterless GOP could offer the voters something more than President Clean or Governor Mean.

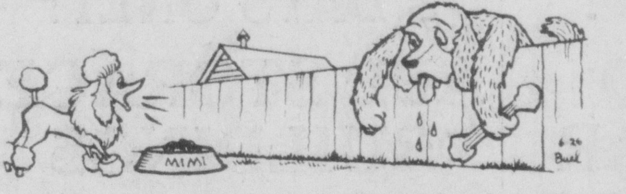
Dr. Miller

New dog not a good neighbor



DEAR DR. MILLER: The new dog who's moved in next door, well, he's not the kind of neighbor you'd pick. A real slob. Uses our yard, eats from our garbage can, you know the type. Roams everywhere, picks up anything and everything probably. Worst of all, our little Mimi, well, she could get anything from that one. We've got to build a fence right away. The question is, how high? We figure four feet will do it. — T.H.

DEAR T.H.: Depends on how high "that" dog is — and goes. A long, low breed (doxie, basset types) would usually be dissuaded by a four-foot fence. So would a squatty English bull or a bigger, semi-squatty Newfoundland. Some Terrier types, more athletically inclined and with considerably shorter dogs than the Newfie, might simply climb it. For most breeds, think tall. Six feet with some overhang out at the top will be required for many (and a few could even top that). In the interests of the entire neighborhood and his own interests, too, for that matter, your next-door four-legged free spirit should be leashed or otherwise restricted. Just what it will take to accomplish that will depend on owner cooperation, if any.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're using those little bait bottles of a sweetened syrup containing arsenic to fight invading ants. Of course, we keep these bottles out of the way of our cat, but even if she should encounter one, am I right in assuming she wouldn't be interested in it? Cats are not tempted by sweet things, are they? — S.A.

DEAR S.A.: While pussycat preferences seldom include sweets, it would be foolhardy to depend on that. There are exceptions. Besides, movements of ants near such poison could lure her to it. It's hard to find really safe spots to place poisons. Cupboards can inadvertently be left ajar, or cats can often open them anyway. It's far safer to find a less deadly (to cats) ant eliminator than arsenic.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've seen the goldfish in our pond eating insects. I was wondering if they ever eat fish? My other question, how warm does the temperature of the water have to be for goldfish to spawn? —N.S.

DEAR N.S.: Goldfish may feed on fish if their prey is small enough. If not overcrowded and conditions are otherwise right, adult goldfish start spawning when the water temperature rises to 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

Ann Landers

So you're older...say 'yes'

Dear Ann: I won't bore you with unnecessary details. He is almost 26 and I am 32. He wants to marry me. Will it work?

I've always been a self-reliant gal — chose a career over marriage and motherhood. I was sure I had made the right decision until a year ago. Suddenly, all my cool indifference melted under the warm gaze of a pair of very brown eyes. I felt like the teenager I never was.

I have kept him at arm's length — rejected his proposals a dozen times. My common sense tells me not to make a fool of myself. But my heart tells me I want him more than I've ever wanted anything in my life. I keep saying, "You idiot, when you're 40 he'll be 34. When you're 50 he'll be 44," etc. I know he loves me and I love him. Is that enough?

My doctor (a wonderfully intelligent man) married a woman eight years his senior. That marriage has lasted 37 years. It gives me hope. What do you say, Ann Landers? — Still Hesitating In Brandon, Manitoba

Dear Still: Say "Yes" — and soon — or one fine day, instead of playing the numbers game you'll wake up and say to yourself, "I am 34 and the man I love married somebody else."

With women outliving men from four to six years, it makes sense to marry a younger man. Happy orange blossoms, sweetie! Send me a postcard from Lake Louise!

Dear Ann Landers: Five months ago my hubby surprised me with a beautiful fur jacket for my birthday. I thought it was all paid for. Yesterday a man from the finance company showed up at the door. It seems my husband still owes $210 on the jacket. The finance man said I had to come up with the money within 10 days. He wasn't very nice about it, either.

I've worn the jacket a lot and showed him it could never be passed off as new, if that's what the furrier has in mind. I also told him we don't have the money right now and he can't get blood out of a turnip.

What can the finance company do, Ann? — Mad

Dear Mad; They can take the turnip's fur jacket.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my father said: "If a person tempts and causes another person to sin, then one is just as guilty as the other."

The example he used was that if a person puts cash money into an envelope and mails the letter, and the person who handles the letter in the Post Office opens it and takes the money, then both are guilty.

I disagreed because the person who handles the letter in the Post Office has a free will to take the money or leave it alone. Who is right, Ann Landers? — Strongly Opposed To Unearned Guilt

Dear Strongly: You are. Temptation is all around us, every day of our lives. The person who INTENTIONALLY tempts or tries to entrap is as guilty as the lawbreaker, but in most instances of wrongdoing, entrapment is not a factor.

Anyone who sends a significant amount of cash in the mails may be foolish, but he does not deserve to be branded a crook.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teenage Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Erma Bombeck

Janet Guthrie was a slowpoke

Everyone seemed amazed that when the traditional "Gentlemen, start your motors" resounded at Indianapolis this year, Janet Guthrie was stomping to start hers.

Janet made racing car history by being the first woman to survive the time trial for the 500.

As a woman who once belonged to eight car pools, I find Janet's 171.429 miles per hour on a wet track rather unimpressive.

I could name dozens of women who have topped that with one arm on the wheel and the other pulling a kid waving like a flag from the radio antenna.

There's Wanda Fletcher, who averaged 210.057 on a dirt road when it was discovered one of her passengers checked the soft drink bottle on the way home from camp . . . and the snake was missing.

There's Phyllis Startle, who braked a car going 55 m.p.h., on an expressway when a kid in the back seat announced she was going to throw up in the door pocket.

And who could forget the cool driving skill of Beth Grit, who drove eight Girl Scouts through traffic at 5 p.m. with a wad of chewing gum in her ear and an open umbrella in her kidney?

I personally volunteered to drive six boys home from a ballgame one night, which makes Miss Guthrie's 20 laps around a two-and-a-half-mile track seem like she was standing still.

One swore his house had moved. Another knew a short cut which took in three states. Another said we had passed his house three times, but he didn't mention it because he didn't want to miss a story his buddy was telling. By the time I got home my clothes had gone out of style.

The old myth about women not bing able to drive as well as men has been stamped out. If there was a speck of truth to it, car pools would have annihilated over half of our adult population years ago.

Naturally, I'm delighted that auto racing has finally gone coed.

But the real breakthrough in driving skill will come when one day a man with courage and stamina and an uncommon amount of guts will climb into a station wagon with eight preschoolers on a rainy day and hear a voice from the back seat exclaim, "Oh, oh! Raymond should have gone before he left home!"

Dr. Lamb

On avoiding low blood sugar

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read The Health Letter on Low Blood Sugar: Hypoclycemia. On page four it states, " — if a person eats or drinks a lot of sweets on an empty stomach the level of glucose rises sufficiently to cause an overproduction of insulin."

Would I be correct in assuming that consumption of a non-nutritive sweetener, such as sodium saccharin, would not cause an over-production of insulin? What harmful effects could be anticipated if a person used sodium saccharin for sweetening one's coffee, lemonade and pop of all kinds?

DEAR READER — Your basic assumption is correct. Through a complex mechanism, as the amount of various sugars is increased suddenly in the first part of the small intestine where most food absorption takes place, the pancreas increases insulin release.

That is part of the mechanism that causes low blood sugar attacks in people who eat sweet rolls, sweetened coffee or other sweets and starches as the only components of their breakfast. Sweet liquids pass directly through the stomach. A person who has had part of his stomach removed as for surgical treatment of an ulcer dumps food immediately into the intestine because the stomach is so small it is no longer a storage pouch. These people are particularly prone to low blood sugar attacks if they are not careful about their diet.

You can avoid this form of low blood sugar attack by avoiding excessive use of concentrated sweets, particularly sweet liquids such as sweetened coffee. The emptying of the normal stomach can be slowed by eating bulky food which includes most of the vegetables, proteins as found in lean meats, poulty and fish and the inclusion of fat in the meal. Fat delays the emptying of the stomach. This is about the only situation in which I recommend increasing the fat in the diet and that has to be on an individual basis as needed.

Saccharin does not contain any carbohydrates or sugar. It follows that it cannot raise the level of sugars in the small intestine rapidly and will not trigger an attack of low blood sugar. There is no reason why you cannot use it as a sugar substitute in beverages or foods.

Its safety has been questioned for several years, particularly after the scare about the possibility that the artificial sweetener cyclamate caused cancer (now it seems that it may not). But saccharin has escaped all the attacks on it and seems to be safe at least in reasonable amounts.

I should add that in the current zeal to eliminate anything suspected of causing cancer from our life there must be some thought to the benefits of agents such as artificial sweeteners. These help prevent obesity and in turn then help prevent high blood pressure, heart attacks and strokes. It is short sighted to lose these benefits to prevent the remote possibility of a rare case of cancer. In short we must get back to basics and understand you shouldn't throw the baby out with the bath water.

Other readers who want The Health Letter 3-9 on low blood sugar can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

What people say

"Mr. Hays has been accused and I hope the accusations are wrong. Nevertheless, and in no way wanting to prejudice the case of Mr. Hays, it is my belief that any man in the Congress of the United States who finds himself in the same circumstances should step down temporarily from his duties as chairman of his committees, in fairness to his fellow colleagues, until the case has been adjudicated."

— Rep. Thomas ("Tip") O'Neill (D-Mass.), House majority leader, calling on Rep. Wayne Hays to relinquish his committee chairmanships until the Elizabeth Ray affair has been resolved.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One of my first advanced lessons in play was when my father wrote me from Korea and explained the value of giving your opponent a problem. He said: "Sometimes they go wrong."

This hand is from a rubber bridge game at Notre Dame. I led the eight of diamonds against South's ironclad four-spade contract. At least it was ironclad with trumps breaking 3-2.

South went right up with dummy's ace of diamonds and cashed dummy's ace of trumps. I dropped my queen. Not that I expected anything good to come about, but just see what did happen.

South played a second trump. My partner followed again. The wheels started to go around in South's head. He finally decided to guard against four trumps in my partner's hand. He finessed his eight. I took my nine, put my partner in with a diamond and made my jack of trumps by overruffing the third diamond lead. My partner's ace of clubs was the setting trick.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader wants to know if the late John R. Crawford was ever the best player in the world.

In our opinion he was during the late '40s and early '50s. He was certainly the best in North America at that time and the Italians had not taken over as yet.

Lady dentists on the increase

The number of women who signed up to study dentistry in this country during the last five years has climbed by 489 per cent. Some climb, that. Chances are pretty fair your grandchildren will go to lady dentists. Prediction is that within 10 years three out of 10 dentists will be women.

April evidently is the cruelest month, after all. A University of Minnesota researcher, who checked out numerous medical cases nationwide by computer, says in no other month do so many people seek treatment for ulcers, or complain to psychiatrists about depression, or just flat out kill themselves.

WELFARE

How many people on welfare in Illinois would move out of that state for at least three years, if they were offered $5,000 each in cash to do so? Who knows? But if only 3 per cent accepted such an offer, that would save the state $137 million in said three-year period. So says Republican State Sen. David Regner who has sponsored such a legislative notion there.

It's a simple trick for a grownup woman of medium bone structure to compute her ideal weight. She just multiplies her height in inches by 3.5 and from that subtracts 110. As for a man of medium bone structure, he multiplies his height in inches by 4 and subracts 130. Simple, what?

GUNSHOT

Among the quick bits that the usual Hollywood actor most enjoys to portray is the scene wherein he gets shot down. Generally, it's quite a study. Whether to throw up the hands, or lurch over backwards, or clutch at the midsection, or stumble through 60 seconds of dust and agony. In fact, however, a man who is shot will rarely do anything except slump forward no matter from which direction the bullet comes. A frontline combat veteran of three wars told me that.

No doubt you know that hoboes traditionally scrawl signs on rocks or fences or woodwork to tell other hoboes who come after them something about the place. One of those customary signs is a dipper. If it's drawn upright, it means liquor is legal thereabouts. If inverted, it means no drinking allowed.

You've heard of that ailment once known as water on the brain. But were you aware about 80 per cent of your brain is water, if typical?

Think on these things

It has been my good fortune for many years to own a little terrier named Pandora . . . or maybe it is the other way around . . . but one thing for sure she never leaves any doubt about what she likes or doesn't like . . . and her loyalty to me is unquestioned . . . for however much she may like someone else or something else . . . I get top billing and that is a lesson in loyalty.

When I think of all the abused children and old people . . . and people in general, I think also of the animal world . . . how they are abused to make some human being feel superior . . . I wonder where is the loyalty and where is the kindness that animals know more about than a lot of the human race . . . and I know we will have to pay the bill sometime . . . but where loyalty is concerned, some are already bankrupt.

To beat inflation

Save a bundle with rug cleaner

By NORMAN H. STARK

Even if you have wall to wall carpeting, many folks like throw rugs put in strategic high traffic areas over the carpeting. And for this very reason, the rugs take quite a beating.

Of course you can send them out to a cleaner and pay the price if you've a mind to, or you can clean them yourself and "save a bundle" if you're so inclined. If so, here's a formula that I find works well.

You'll need one cup isopropyl alcohol, five cups white vinegar and one-quarter teaspoon lauryl pyridinium chloride. Mix the alcohol and vinegar together and stir in the lauryl pyridinium choloride until dissolved. Store in plastic or glass bottles. To use, brush mixture into surface of rug, let dry and remove residue with vacuum cleaner.

Besides the satisfaction you get by making your own products for personal or home care, most formulas are real money-savers that enable you to beat the prices of store-bought items.

Like any chemical product you use at home, you should store this one safely, label it, listing ingredients and noting any cautions — and keep it out of reach of children.

(There has never been a how-to book so practical and helpful as THE FORMULA BOOK. Hundreds of easy recipes put savings and fun into the making of your own personal and home care items. Over 200 pages of recipes, diagrams and instructions on ingredients and equipment, in a large paperback format, for only $5.95. Send to THE FORMULA BOOK, c/o Pomona Progress Bulletin, P. O. Box 2218, Shawnee Mission, Kan. 66201.)

Almanac

Today is Sunday, June 27th, the 179th day of 1976. There are 187 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in History:

On this date in 1950, President Harry Truman ordered the U.S. Air Force and Navy to help repel an invasion of the Republic of Korea by North Korea.

On this date:

In 1844, Mormon leaders Joseph and Hyrum Smith were killed by a mob in Carthage, Ill. Brigham Young became head of the church.

In 1847, New York and Boston were linked by telegraph.

In 1893, prices collapsed on the New York Stock Exchange, setting off a major depression.

In 1942, the FBI diclosed the capture of eight Nazi saboteurs who had gone ashore on New York's Long Island from a submarine.

In 1943, American bombers attacked the German-occupied city of Athens.

In 1963, President John Kennedy received an enthusiastic reception on a visit to Ireland.

Ten years ago: U.S. Navy jets attacked a large underground fuel dump in North Vietnam, sending a fireball and thick black smoke more than half a mile into the air.

Five years ago: Vice President Spiro Agnew left on a diplomatic mission that would take him around the world.

One year ago: A number of arrests were made and civil liberties were curtailed under a state of emergency in India.

Today's birthdays: Television actor and producer Bob Keeshan — Captain Kangaroo — is 49. Retired airline executive Juan Trippe is 77.

Thought for today: Getting married, like getting hanged, is a great deal less dreadful than it has been made out — H.L. Mencken, American writer and editor, 1880-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, American Lt. Joseph Davidson reported to George Washington in New York that a captured English sailor had disclosed that Britain's General William Gage had arrived at Sandy Hook near New York from Halifax, Nova Scotia.

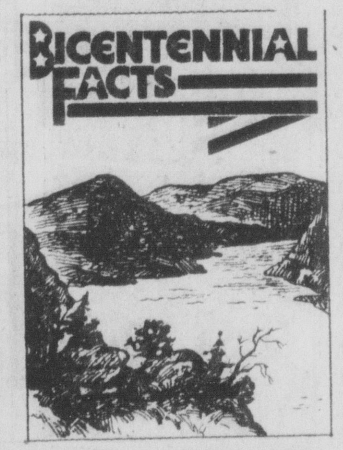
Rattlesnake precautions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Area health officers are warning that drought conditions are expected to drive hungry rattlesnakes out of the hills toward residential areas.

They are urging rural residents to keep their land cleared of such snake-attracting items as piles of leaves and rubbish, and they suggested woodpiles be propped at least 18 inches off the ground.



While the American colonies began fighting Britain for their independence, Spain was spurred to colonize California by Russian fur-trade and exploratory intrusions along the Pacific coast. Military posts were established and Franciscan missionaries were sent to convert the Indians. The World Almanac recalls that beginning in the early 1770s, Fr. Junipero Serra founded 21 missions, among them, the missions of San Juan Capistrano and San Francisco Asis, both founded in 1776.

Ganesha graduate now in Kenya

Elizabeth Stern of Diamond Bar is in Nairobi, Kenya, South Africa, as a participant in the American Field Service (AFS) International Scholarship Students Abroad program.

She is a June graduate of Ganesha High School in Pomona.

She will live with the Owili family outside Nairobi, according to Gerald Algozer, Pomona AFS chapter president. The father of the host family is associated with the Kenya National Hospital in Nairobi, Algozer said.

The exchange student sponsored this past year by Pomona AFS chapter is Stephen Osieyo of Lake Victoria, Kenya. He was a June graduate at Pomona High School. He has been living with the Roger Rusler family since last August and will return to Kenya July 22.

The education system in Kenya staggers three months of school and one month of vacation. Miss Stern will receive about one month of schooling in Nairobi. She hopes to learn some Swahili, official language of the republic since 1973.

She will return home the first week in September.

Pines' mother is charged with gambling

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — The 51-year-old mother of Los Angeles City Atty. Burt Pines is among 43 persons who have pleaded innocent to misdemeanor gambling charges.

The defendants, who entered the pleas Wednesday, were ordered by Beverly Hills Municipal Court Judge Leonard Wolff to appear at a Aug. 17 pretrial hearing.

Ruth Pines was charged with the others in a June 3 raid at the Cavendish West Game Club, where she was allegedly playing bridge at the time.

Authorities said the raid climaxed a five-month investigation and reported finding tables for backgammon, gin rummy and contract bridge at the club.

State rejects bid for funds

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The city says the state has turned down its request for funds to train a few women to be fire fighters.

Deputy City Manager Ray Blair said recently that Sacramento has rejected the San Diego's request for some $300,000 to help finance an 18-month training program for up to a dozen potential women fire fighters.

The fire department has not tried to hire female firemen since 1974.

Hail woman bus driver for life-saving action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A bus driver may be nominated for a commendation for steering her bus with 47 children into a retaining wall rather than let it go down a dangerous hill with its brakes failing.

Authorities said Mrs. Clarie Foster may have averted a disaster by her actions.

"She did a hulluva fine job," said Battalion Chief Sam Crisa of the Los Angeles City Fire Department.

"Rather than let the bus go down the hill and possibly killing or badly injuring a bunch of children, she elected to steer it into the curb."

Mrs. Foster reportedly steered the bus into a parked car first to slow it down, officials said. The impact of the crash into the wall resulted in minor injuries to 11 children, officials said.

Declaration has withstood test of time well

Worcester State College

When the Continental Congress approved Richard Henry Lee's resolution that the colonies ought to dissolve our union with Britain, the elated John Adams wrote to his wife: "The second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable ephocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated, as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty."

It so happened that it was two days later that Congress approved the powerful Declaration of Independence that Thomas Jefferson had drafted. The fourth of July, the day when Congress informed the world that an independent United States of America was being formed, was therefore chosen to be the day of celebration.

A great debate over independence had been raging for months — in private circles, in Congress and in the press. The role of newspapers in bringing the debate to culmination had been great. John Holt of the New-York Journal wrote that "It was by means of the newspapers that we received spread the notice of the tyrannical designs formed against America, and kindled a spirit that was sufficient to repel them." Without the active and determined patriot press the movement toward independence would certainly have been delayed and perhaps shunted aside.

When action had finally been taken, news of the Declaration (as well as the text) was printed in the papers as soon as it was received. Usually there was little or no explanatory comment as publishers allowed Jefferson's eloquent document to speak for itself. The press did, however, note the ceremonies and celebrations in many places — military parades, cannon fire, the pealing of bells, civic banquets, and bonfires.

While Americans celebrated the Declaration of Independence, British authorities at first paid little attention to it. They regarded it as merely another piece of rebel propaganda, which the declaration was in considerable part. Gen. William Howe was waiting at the time to engage in talks to effect reconciliation with the colonists; and the successes of British forces around New York City in the summer and fall of 1776 inclined him to belittle any American pronouncement. Similarly when news of the Declaration reached London it was not taken seriously.

Thomas Jefferson worded the Declaration of Independence in firm and solemn terms that made it a literary masterpiece. Announcing the determination of Congress to form a new government for a sovereign nation, Jefferson wrote in general and not always accurate terms. But this was necessarily so.

There were uncertainties of the time that forced the author of the Declaration, for the sake of its effect, to use a number of unhistorical statements. For example, the document was called "The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America," but not all colonial delegations to Congress had voted for the Declaration and the signing of it dragged on for nearly six months.

In his treatment of George III as a tyrant "unfit to be the ruler of a free people," Jefferson was weakest of all. No serious historian pictures the British king in that light today; he was a rather dull monarch who was trying to wield power by manipulations in Parliament. The American colonists, having disobeyed Parliament's laws, were declared to be outside the king's protection. These facts did not indicate, however, that George III was trying "to establish an absolute tyranny over these states," as Jefferson stated in the Declaration.

For a number of years the colonists had been complaining about the legislative acts of Parliament and the policies of the British ministry. In their opposition patriots had argued that the English legislature did not have the right to pass laws regulating the internal affairs of America; Parliament was an older legislature in the British empire, but it was not superior in power to the colonial assemblies. Opposition to British rule prior to the Declaration of Independence had been directed mostly against Parliament, and expressions of affection for George III had been common.

In stirring up support for a cause, and the Declaration of Independence was in considerable part trying to do that, Jefferson realized that it was wiser to direct attacks against the king rather than against the impersonal legislature. Jefferson, a master propagandist, did this by accusing George III of many crimes. "He has," the Declaration reads, "abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us." Did this not constitute sufficient reason to break away from Britain?

In making his case against George III, Thomas Jefferson also drew upon the doctrines of natural rights and the social contract. These ideas, laid down by John Locke and other political theorists, were popular in the eighteenth century. In a state of nature, the argument ran, men were endowed with certain "unalienable rights" including "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Theoretically, a contract between the ruler and the ruled protected these rights; and subjects owed obedience to a government that safeguarded these rights. If the ruler should break the contract by acts of tyranny, it was the right and the duty of subjects to rebel. Following this line of reasoning, Jefferson asserted that the colonists — after much "patient sufferance" — were not obligated to "throw off" the government of George III.

Most Loyalists and the British ridiculed this philosophy of natural rights and the contract theory; later political scientists have discarded it as invalid, too. But for the patriots in 1776 Jefferson's assertions were an attractive and logical way to justify the American War for Independence.

In Britain the ministry found nothing logical about the Declaration of Independence, but the British public — increasingly annoyed by the American conflict — soon referred to the war in America as the "king's war." Other European monarchies, for all that they were happy to see Great Britain embarrassed, could hardly look favorably upon Jefferson's justification of rebellion.

Here in the United States there was mixed reaction. While some rejoiced when the Declaration was adopted, and many lukewarm patriots were encouraged to support the cause, there were others who were bitterly opposed to the formal break with Great Britain. Few Loyalists, if any, were persuaded to support independence, either by the Declaration or by the threats, attacks in the press, tarring and feathering and social ostracism. Most stubbornly clung to their beliefs, sincere in their attachment to Britain.

It is quite true that all of the charges against George III could not be proved, and that some of them had little or no basis in fact. Equally true is the fact that Jefferson's political theories have not stood up under the scrutiny of modern scholars. If the Declaration was partly defective in content and argument, it has nevertheless stood the test of time and been found to be morally valid.

For the patriots of the revolutionary period, for countless school children and other Americans over the years, the Declaration of Independence has come to be regarded almost as holy writ. Those who have believed that traditions had been broken, American rights violated, and justice threatened, Jefferson had stated the case brilliantly.

Although the Declaration did not make clear what kind of government the Americans would create, it did assert unequivocally that they were not going to tolerate injustice. After a period of trial and error, the people did learn more of what was needed to establish a government that would guarantee the human liberties promised in Thomas Jefferson's immortal Declaration of Independence, made known to the world 200 years ago.

Fashion for fall

The latest word is movement

NEW YORK (AP) — Come this fall, the big word in fashion will be movement, some of it in a rugged outdoor look, some peeking from under a hood.

After endless seasons of fitted garments that hugged and restricted, Seventh Avenue designers have provided easy-to-wear clothing that drapes the body rather than restricts it, permitting women to move about naturally and with comfort.

This season's fashion shows feature soft and casual man-tailored suits for day and a sexy and feminine look for evening. One in-look was from Stephen Burrows and Scott Barrie who both showed tunics over skinny pants.

And everywhere there were hoods, some huge, some all-engulfing cowls that doubled as wraps.

The rugged sports clothes seemed to come from catalogs of outdoors mail order houses and not from Manhattan's fashion centers. Coats, rainwear and ponchos also emphasized the hooded or cowled look.

Bill Blass used leather and tweedy fabrics in his men's look ensembles. One outfit was suede-patched tweed jodhpurs with a matching vest and a shetland riding jacket. Anne Klein used a twill in her jodhpurs, displayed with a short brown suede jacket. Rafael had a gray suede pencil-striped suit, complete with matching vest.

Knickers worn with socks and comfortable, heavy walking shoes were among designs by Anne Klein, Ginala, Don Sayres for Gamut and Ralph Lauren. Jaunty, tailored jackets or longer coats were worn with them.

Calvin Klein showed a one-piece sweater-hood. The hood was actually a continuation of the thigh-length gray shetland sweater.

Bonnie Cashin in her designs for Philip Sills presented a drawstring bubble cape in canvas. A hooded tent-like jacket by her had side pockets. Kasper, in his clothes for Joan Leslie, designed a large, roomy jacket and a tweed-hooded duffle sweater.

Gil Aimbez's hooded floralprint coat was cut wide and reversible. Don Sayre's hooded coat in camel was tied at the side.

For evening, Halston showed a cut-out V-neckline, dipped at one side, in both a white silk tunic and a black crepe long-sleeved dress.

Ronald Kolodzie showed pajamas under a black silk halter dress in his evening collection.

Geoffrey Beene extended the hoods and cowls of his day and sportwear into the evening clothes. His roomy, two-piece rust-colored pajama set had a removable hood, trimmed in mink. One highlight of his show was a gray halter-top gown, backless with an incredible knob of fabric at the base of the spine.

Sandal art takes prize

CHICAGO (AP) — Young people, busy creating "one-of-akind" personalized fashions by embroidering their jeans and stenciling their T-shirts, are now decorating their sandals with everything from bandanas to stars and stripes.

The many moods of "sandal art" surfaced in a national design contest in which high school students submitted hundreds of ideas for decorating the wooden-sole exercise sandals that have become a popular accessory with casual jeans and cut-offs.

Winning entry in the contest was a tasty serving of colorful fruits painted on the sandal strap and wooden sole — including a partially eaten piece of watermelon on the toes.

Creator was 17-year-old Laurie Van Sant of Trenton, N. J., who was awarded a college scholarship by Scholl, co-sponsor of the event with Seventeen Magazine's At-School publication.

Another student took off on the current ethnic fashion looks by designing a "needlepoint" look of embroidery for the strap, then engraving the sides of the sole. This design won second place honors for Norma Salvatto, 17, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Other entries reflected the popular Western influence by using hand-tooled leathers, calico prints and even a cotton bandana. In fact, third-prize winner Holly Hopke, 17, of Florence, Ky., actually tied up her sandal strap with a dimestore bandana.

Other teens celebrated the nation's 200th birthday by going patriotic with red, white and blue designs. Sandals were decorated with stripes, emblazoned with stars and etched with the "Spirit of '76." To honor the military, one student went further and covered his sandal with infantry insignia.

Natural fabrics received a good share of attention among the sandal decorating ideas. Nubby textures like tweed and burlap were suggested for the sandal strap. Hand-tooled designs and Indian symbols were other popular looks.

An interest in the environment also predominated in the teenagers' sandal designs. Students used sunshine or blue sky and cloud motifs, along with a variety of flowery variations on both the strap and sole. But probably the most authentic of these was an outdoor scene of woods and stream, topped off with "fake" shrubbery (the kind used to build model train sets).

Joyce Brothers

King of the castle

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My daughter married a man who wants to be king of the castle. He must approve every decision. He won't let her drive a car because she's supposedly too scatterbrained, and he even picks out her clothes for her. My daughter says he is a good husband and ignores my advice to stand up for her rights. — H.R.

Dear H.R.: Has it ever occurred to you that your daughter likes her domineering husband?

While most persons would describe the ideal marriage as one in which responsibilities are shared, some couples are obviously content with a less equitable arrangement. In many marriages one partner very clearly dominates, while the other is cast in a helpless, childlike role. Usually, it is the wife who plays the ultra-dependent, submissive role of her husband's lordly manner.

Both partners in such a marriage are really insecure, the dominant one needing the apparent incompetence and dependence of the other to feel confident of his own capabilities, and the impractical, "scatterbrained" partner being willing to exchange self-reliance for attention and care. Often, there are emotional problems that make a more balanced union impossible.

Such marriages can function well as long as there are no major crises. If the dominating spouse is no longer able to function as director, because of illness or other incapacity, the supposedly helpless spouse may be forced into a more competent, independent role that neither of them wants.

As long as your daughter seems happy and considers your son-in-law a "good" husband and herself a "good" wife, I think you would be wise keeping opinions and advice to yourself. Otherwise, you might precipitate a crisis in which your daughter would feel compelled to choose between her husband and you.

Eventually she may tire of the cozy security she apparently now relishes and begin to press for a more independent, active role.

At any rate, this is their problem, not yours.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I have a son and daughter in their late teens. Their personalities are different in almost every way. He is quiet and introverted while she is quite outgoing. My son finds it difficult to express anger and pain even though my husband and I have encouraged him to be open about feelings. Do you think he will change as he grows older? — W.P.

Dear W.P.: I doubt it. Since you and your husband have not insisted on your son's repressing his feelings, as many parents do with male children, and he still is emotionally inhibited, I would assume this part of his temperament is not likely to change.

When an introvert is faced with an emotional conflict or with severe stress, he's apt to turn his frustration and anger inward, while an extrovert will direct these emotions outward.

Males, generally, are more apt to be introverted than women. Women tend to be more sociable, impulsive and more interested in other people.

I'm sure both of your children have benefited from your awareness and acceptance of their fundamental differences.

Chavarria es presidente de comite de padres

RAFAEL CHAVARRIA

Un intenso programa de orientacion para miembros del Concerned Bilingual Parent Advisory Committee del distrito escolar de Pomona, relacionado a fondos federales y estatales, ha sido programado por Rafael Chavarria, nuevo presidente del comite.

El programa esta directamente conectado con los fondos federales titulo VII, y el propuesto programa de fondos estatales AB 2284, para los anos 1976-77.

Se evaluara el programa bilingue-bicultural establecido en el distrito de Pomona bajo el titulo VII para asegurarse que cumple con las reglas del estado de acuerdo al proyecto de ley Chacon, dijo Chavarria.

Chavarria sucedio a Cecilio Diaz como presidente. El nuevo jefe del comite ha vivido en Pomona durante el ultimo ano. El Sr. Chavarria, y su esposa Rosario, son los padres de siete ninos. El es graduado del Our Lady of the Lake College de San Antonio, Texas, donde recibio su titulo de bachiller en trabajos sociales.

Otros miembros que sirven en el comite son: Roberto Marquez, vicepresidente, Marcela Ortega, secretaria, Susana Armstrong, tesorera, y Esther Landin, representante de relaciones publicas.

San Antonio College, autor de "The Vintage Years", Esther Boulton Black, con "Rancho Cucamonga and Dona Merced", Maxine Strane, con "Tomo of Kukumongo Village," Don Clucas con "Light Over the Mountain," Alta Visnack con "A Bicentennial Salute", y Pflueger mismo, con "Charles C. Chapman — Career of a Creative Californian."

Tambien se encontrara disponible "Thirty-two Adobes in California," libro escrito por Isabel Lopez de Fages de Pomona.

El asado, respaldado por el club Cal Poly Circle K, se llevara a cabo desde mediodia hasta las 17 horas. La cena a servirse costara $3.50 por adulto y $1.75 para menores de 10 años.

Las contribuciones, que son deductibles, se utilizaran para renovar la mansion.

Invitados especiales a la reunion, seran los graduados en el año 1926 de las escuelas secundarias de la region.

Se oponen aumento de los impuestos

La necesidad de aumentar la tasa de impuestos, y la manera apropiada de usar fondos federales recibidos, fueron el topico en el Consejo de la Ciudad de Pomona el lunes a la noche, durante la primer audiencia publica para considerar el presupuesto de $20.4 millones propuesto para el ano fiscal 1976-77.

El ex-alcalde de Pomona, Ben Lawing, solicito que la junta no implementara los 39 centavos de impuesto a la propiedad, incluido en el presupuesto.

"Quizas los habitantes estan dispuestos a sacrificarse, con menos servicios," dijo Lawing.

Sugirio que el consejo considerara una reduccion en las fuerzas trabajadoras de la ciudad, si es necesario, para anular la necesidad de aumentar los impuestos. Dijo que los propietarios se encaran con un gran aumento en el asesamiento de sus propiedades este ano.

Los 39 centavos propuestos en el presupuesto, incluyen 5 centavos para el fondo general de la ciudad, y 34 centavos para los fondos de retiro de la ciudad. El total aumentaria los impuestos a $2.885 por cada $100 de valuacion. No se han propuesto aumentos en los impuestos de parques y recreaciones, biblioteca o bonos.

En anos recientes, los fondos de retiro han sido suplementados con ingresos federales pero el consejo adopto una nueva poliza esta primavera, que prohibe el uso de dichos ingresos para gastos actuales.

El alcalde, Ray Lepire, urgio que el consejo reconsiderara el aumento a los impuestos cuando y si el programa de ingresos repartidos federales son extendidos el ano que viene por el Congreso.

"No puedo ver que la ciudad construya un nido mientras aumentan los impuestos", dijo Lepire. Urgio que los ingresos federales se utilicen de alguna manera para prevenir los aumentos.

Los concejales Adrian Wright y Charles Bader se opusieron inmediatamente, diciendo que le uso de esos fondos solamente crearia mayores problemas en el futuro.

Bader critico el presupuesto propuesto, y que incluye $750,000 en ingresos federales ya recibidos, asi como $250,000 en reservas.

"Asi es que el presupuesto no esta balanceado. Estoy preocupado por el ano que viene, aun estamos en una situacion muy seria."

Se espera la aprobacion del presupuesto el lunes que viene despues de otra audiencia publica.

UPSTART Unranked Vitas Gerulaitis of New York returns a shot to defending champ Arthur Ashe, whom Gerulaitis upset at Wimbledon Saturday. Gerulaitis won, 4-6, 8-9, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Ashe upset by Gerulaitis

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis knocked out defending champion Arthur Ashe in the biggest upset of the Wimbledon tennis tournament Saturday and led a four-man American charge into the quarter-finals.

Gerulaitis, 21, of New York, came from behind for a 4-6, 8-9, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 victory. He had never previously survived the first round at Wimbledon.

The other Americans in the quarter-finals are Jimmy Connors, Roscoe Tanner and Charlie Pasarell.

Ashe had been struggling all week to find his 1975 form. The last time a defending champion failed to make the quarters was in 1970, when Rod Laver went out in the fourth round.

The heat wave was intense, with the temperature reaching 106 degrees in the sun-baked bowl of the center court. Ashe, looking weary and disspirited after his defeat, said he was a victim of the heat and tension.

sun, his opponent's punishing forehands became stronger. Gerulaitis ended the match with a series of devastating forehand returns to break Ashe's service for the last time.

"Those forehands of his were unbelievable," Ashe said. "I got three good first services in, yet I trailed 15-40."

Gerulaitis said Ashe was aiming at his forehand, which had been his weakness earlier in the match.

"In that last game he served wide to my forehand," Gerulaitis said. "I guessed what he was going to do, and I guessed right each time."

Ashe's exit left Connors, the 1974 champion from Belleville, Ill., and Ilie Nastase of Romania as favorities to reach next Saturday's final.

Connors destroyed Stan Smith, the 1972 champion from Sea Pines, S.C., 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Nastase eliminated Onny Parun of New Zealand 7-5, 6-4, 6-3.

Neither Connors nor Nastase has dropped a set in four rounds thus far.

Smith could make no impression against Connors' serve-and-volley game. The supercharged left-hander lost only four points on his service in the first set, and only three in the second. In a one-sided second set, after Smith had taken a 1-0 lead, Connors yielded only five points in winning six straight games.

Tanner, the cannonball server from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., thundered to a 6-3, 6-4, 64 triumph over Nikki Pilic, Yugoslavian left-hander. The American did not lose a service game.

Pasarell, of Puerto Rico, pulled off another marathon come-from-behind victory. After trailing by two sets, he came back and defeated Phil Dent of Australia 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 60, 7-5.

In the previous round, Pasarell did the same thing, recovering from two sets down and overcoming Italy's Adriano Panatta.

Bjorn Borg, despite a groin injury, hit top form in demolishing Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-2, 6-2, 7-5. Earlier in the day, the Swede asked for the match to be postponed and even talked of pulling out if he did not get his way. He decided to play after a doctor had examined him.

Oeanwhile, Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat bearded Bernie Mitton of South Africa 9-8, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1 and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina ousted the last Australian hope, Tony Roche, 6-4, 3-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

In the quarter-finals, it will be: Gerulaitis vs. Ramirez, Nastase vs. Pasarell, Vilas vs. Borg, and Tanner vs. Connors.

Marise Kruger, 17-year-old South African starlet, led Britain's Virginia Wade 5-2 in the final set and was within range of creating the sensation of the day in the women's singles. But the hard-hitting English player rallied to win 2-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Title favorite Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defeated Betty Stove of The Netherlands 6-2, 6-2. It was a comparatively hard match for the American, who previously had lost only three games in three rounds.

Three-time champion Maria Bueno of Brazil, now 36, made a sentimental return to the center court after an absence of eight years. She showed much of her old-time grace and magic before Sue Barker of Britain beat her 2-6, 6-2, 6-1.

In the women's quarter-finals, the lineup will be: Miss Evert vs. Olga Morozova, Soviet Union; Martina Mavratilova, Czechoslovakia, vs. Miss Barker; Kerry Reid, Australia, vs. Mrs. Wade, and Rosie Casals, San Francisco, vs. Evonne Goolagong, Australia.

Carlos Monzon shows that he's the best middleweight

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Carlos Monzon brought his insolent style and devastating reach to settle an old bet hard by the Monte Carlo Casino Saturday and in 15 rounds he gave a brutal lesson in why he is the best middleweight in the world.

Monzon, the World Boxing Association middleweight title holder from Argentina, won back the World Boxing Council half of the title he abandoned two years ago, knocking down Rodrigo Valdes of Colombia when the Colombian seemed to be gathering strength in the 14th round, and winning a 15-round decision.

"I've done what I wanted to and what I said I'd do," Monzon explained in his hard, chopped way after the fight. "Now I am content."

Valdes said he thought the decision by a French referee and two French judges was unfair, and his manager Gil Clancy complained that Monzon took advantage of loosened ring ropes to lean away from Valdes in a kind of gaucho adaptation of Muhammad Ali's rope-a-dope trick.

But Monzon was only using his remarkable physical gifts, particularly the heigh and reach—he was almost four inches taller than Valdes—that made it near impossible for the Colombian to sneak inside and land his fast combinations.

Throughout the fight, Monzon seemed as relaxed as a boxing instructor, holding on to catch his breath and scoring points with short, debilitating rights and lefts. Valdes started slowly and may have been affected by the psychological fallout from the death of his brother last weekend. Monzon fought his worst bout in 1973 a day after his brother was killed in similar circumstances.

Monzon had said before the fight that Valdes was an upstart who would be given a lesson. He said he was taking bets on the outcome, and he collected easily in the Louis II Stadium, just across the railroad tracks from the Monte Carlo Casino.

Monzon was stripped of his WBC half of the title in 1973 when he failed to give Valdes, the designated challenger, a fight as directed by the boxing group.

Jose Sulaiman, secretary of the World Boxing Council, said referee

It was a deceptively easy fight for the 33-year-old Argentine, who used his advantage in reach, his strength and his insolent style to take an early advantage over the Colombian and consolidate it with a 14th round knockdown.

Valdes rushed Monzon through most of the fight but wore himself down in the tangle of Monzon's arms and in punching short when Monzon used his reach to keep him at arm's length on the ropes. Monzon, the World Boxing Association title holder, now takes back the World Boxing Council's half of the championship.

"It was the ropes that beat us," said Gil Clancy, Valdes' manager. "I complained about how loose they were five times to the referee, but they didn't do anything about it. He was able to lean out and keep away as if he were a guy hiking out of a sailboat."

When Clancy was asked about Valdes' slow start, not winning a round on The Associated Press scorecard until the eighth, Clancy replied: "Maybe it was nerves."

Two homers beat Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gary Matthews and Bobby Murcer slammed home runs to lead off the top of the ninth inning and give the San Francisco Giants a 4-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday night.

Doug Rau, 6-5, after giving up two runs in the fourth, had yielded only two singles until Matthews slugged his ninth homer to snap a 2-2 tie and Murcer followed with his seventh.

Randy Moffitt, 4-2, who took over for John Montefusco in the eighth inning after the Giants' starter had developed a blister on his pitching hand, benefited from the home runs.

Dave Lopes, starting for the first time in two weeks because of a bad back, walked to lead off the Dodger first, stole second, and scored on Bill Buckner's single to right.

The Giants went on top in the fourth when Chris Speier, who won Friday night's game with a single, drove in two San Francisco runs with a single.

The Dodgers tied the game in the bottom of the fourth on a double by Reggie Smith and a sacrifice fly by Lee Lacy.

After Larry Herndon singled to lead off the game, the Giants' center fielder was thrown out attempting to steal. Rau then retired the next eight Giants in a row before Herndon singled to lead off the fourth inning and touch off San Francisco's two-run inning.

The Giants missed an opportunity in the sixth when Herndon collected his third hit of the night, a single to right, and was sacrificed to second. Rau struck out Matthews, but then hit Murcer with a pitch to put runners on first and second. The Los Angeles left-hander then struck out Chris Speier to get out of the inning.

Hapless Angels barely get a hit

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Marty Pattin, struggling with a 1-7 record as a reliever, made his first start of the year Saturday night and surrendered only one hit in 72/3 innings to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 3-0 decision over the California Angels.

The stocky right-hander was given a standing ovation by the crowd of 30,000 when he was relieved by Steve Minguori with two out in the top of the eighth.

After issuing an intentional walk in the first inning, Pattin retired 13 straight until Dave Collins led off the sixth with a drag bunt and legged it out by inches.

Nolan Ryan, 6-8, surrendered a run-scoring single in the first inning to John Mayberry. George Brett, the American League batting leader, singled and doubled and scored the Royals' second run, coming home on Hal MacRae's fourthinning single.

The Royals added a third run in the fifth inning when Jim Wohlford walked and came around on a triple by Amos Otis.

Ryan was taken out in the sixth inning with what was later described as a catch in the right elbow. The Angels said the condition caused no pain but restricted Ryan's pitching motion and might require that he be sent home for treatment.

Pattin, without allowing a hit, experienced bases-loaded trouble in the first. Collins reached base when Mayberry fumbled his grounder, stole second and continued to third after Bob Stinson's throw scooted into center field.

One out later, Bobby Bonds walked and stole second. Then with two away, Bruce Bochte was gived an an intentional pass. Pattin got Ron Jackson on a fly ball and then proceeded to retire the next 13 batters.

PAL boxers win titles

Bobby Rizo defeated Glen Rodriguez of Honolulu for the 112-pound championship while schoolmate Richard Sandoval beat George Garcia of Chandler, Ariz. in the 95-pound title bout. Both fighters are members of Pomona Athletic League.

Region 13, which includes all of California and Nevada, won the national regional championship. Tony Cerda of Pomona Athletic League is the Region 13 co-ordinator and Gary Orchard of Pomona is its coach.

Confrontation due between Finley, players

Oakland owner Charles O. Finley ordered A's Manager Chuck Tanner not to play Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi Saturday, setting up a dramatic confrontation with the rest of his players who have threatened to strike today.

"If they do strike, I just may go along and let them strike," Finley told San Francisco radio station KGO. "Don't be surprised if there isn't any ball game in Oakland tomorrow."

Finley, in Chicago, was in constant contact with Tanner, at Oakland, before Saturday's game, with the manager awaiting word from Finley whether he could insert outfielder-first baseman Rudi into the starting lineup.

Minutes before game time, Finley told Tanner to keep the three players out of the game, then asked to speak to Jim Todd, Oakland's player repr-esenative.

Todd said Finley told him: "The gates will be open tomorrow. We will play a game at 1:30. And you people are welcome to participate."

Finley's attorney, Neil Papiano, reaffirmed Saturday night Finley's refusal to use his $3.5 million trio, regardless of Sunday's threatened player strike.

Finley "will not use the players," Papiano said. "We have been unable to come to any sort of situation which would allow Mr. Finley to use the players and protect his position."

Papiano was contacted in Los Angeles after Finley, who lives in LaPorte, Ind., telephoned The Associated Press in Chicago and instructed a newsman to call the West Coast attorney.

"There's no need for any comment from me," Finley said. "Just call Papiano and he will tell you what my decision is. You carry the ball and call him—I'm going out to dinner."

In Oakland, Todd said, "I'm going to Tanner when I arrive at the ballpark Sunday and ask him if Rudi is in the lineup. If he isn't we'll take it from there. And if we go out, the entire team will go out."

On Friday night, Finley had threatened to suspend all his players—if they strike—and replace them with members of the Tuscon Toros of the Pacific Coast League.

But he quickly changed his mind on Saturday, telling San Francisco radio station KGO: "I have decided against bringing up a farm league team tomorrow."

Finley's threat followed the Friday night threat of A's players who said they would strike on Sunday if the three stagnating players—Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi—did not get back into the Oakland lineup.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said Finley's change of heart was the result of some educating. "He had his mind changed for him," Miller said.

Miller pointed out that a suspended player is counted within the 25-man player limit, so suspending a player does not free a spot on the roster for a minor leaguer. Apparently, Finley had a conversation to that effect with American League President Lee MacPhail early Saturday.

Finley could open up spots on his roster by placing players on the disqualified list. But that action requires approval of the commissioner.

And it is highly unlikely that Kuhn would approve an action which Finley has forced on himself because he has refused to comply with the commissioner's order to play Blue, Fingers and Rudi, Miller said.

"I think Finley better comply fast," he added.

Finley's reversal was one of Saturday's major developments in this bizarre episode that now rivals an afternoon soap opera for daily disasters.

—Art Teece, owner of the Salt Lake City Gulls of the Pacific Coast League, threatened to take legal action if Finley pulled the Toros out of Saturday night's game with the Gulls. But Teece later said the game, a charity affair for the blind with a sellout crowd of 10,000 expected, would be played because Finley had changed his plans.

—Dick Moss, general counsel for the Players Association, Saturday sent the following notice to Finley:

"This telegram is being sent on behalf of players Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi. Your refusal to permit the players to participate in championship games constitutes a default under their Uniform Player Contracts. Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Paragraph 7 (a), of the default and termination of said contracts."

"The act of not playing is the same as breaching a contract for improper payment," Moss said after sending the telegram.

Finley now has 10 days—and maybe less—to rectify the situation. If he doesn't, the players become free agents. "Finley's been in violation since the commissioner put him on notice that the players should be played," Miller said. "The 10-day period could be less."

In 1974, Catfish Hunter became a free agent after an arbitrator ruled that Finley violated 7 (a) by not paying Hunter in the stipulated manner.

By a 2-1 decision, Finley's appeal to have Hunter returned to the A's was struck down by the California Court of Appeals on Friday. Finley said he will appeal to the California Supreme Court.

"I am confident that if the California Supreme Court entertains this appeal, the same result will be produced as in the lower courts," Moss said.

Moss also said that the union was considering an action to join Finley's $10 million suit against baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "We could intervene as early as next week," Moss said.

Jenner sets decathlon mark

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Bruce Jenner tuned up for his second Olympic Games Saturday by smashing the world record in the grueling decathlon, scoring 8,538 points in winning the event at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials at the University of Oregon.

Fred Dixon and Fred Samara finished second and third, respectively, grabbing the other two berths in the decathlon for the Montreal Olympics.

The 26-year-old Jenner, formerly of Graceland College in Iowa, was not planning to go after his own world mark of 8,524 points for the 10-event, two-day test, but he was advised after the ninth event that he was within striking distance.

All he needed, he was told, was a fast 1,500-meter run, so the 6-foot-2, 190-pounder went after it. His time was 4:16.4, just two seconds off his career best.

If Jenner had run 4:15.2 or better, he would have surpassed the record for fully-automatic timing and would have prevented massive confusion about what his final score really was by more than 15,000 fans, meet officials and the news media.

Jenner's new record stands for the time being, but may not be accepted internationally because officials have said that automatic timing is to be used when available, but hand timing was used here during some races due to an electronic malfunction.

Dixon, from Los Angeles, built up a substantial lead in second place and also made the team with his 8,265. Samara, of the New York Athletic Club, and three others were within two points of each other when the 1,500 began, but Samara recorded a time of 4:28.5 for 7,980 points to take the third spot on the U.S. team, ahead of Roger George, formerly of Fresno State, who scored a lifetime best of 7,930.

Jenner's previous world mark was set on this same track last year, but points were awarded on the basis of hand timing. The record for automatic timing was 8,454, set by Nicolay Avilov of the Soviet Union in winning the 1972 Olympics.

Jenner did not run fast enough in the 1,500 to better that mark, but he gets a second crack at the Soviet champion in Montreal. Jenner, on the basis of electronic timing, scored 8,444 points to fall 10 points short of Avilov's record.

In view of various complications in computing the final totals, officials agreed to use a hybrid set of figures and said Jenner's "official" score would be listed as 8,507, but that his 8,538 hand-timed total would still be considered a world mark.

James Butts and Tommy Haynes reversed their one-two finish in the triple jump at the AAU Championships as both qualified for their first Olympic Games in the only other final scheduled for Saturday.

The 26-year-old Butts, a UCLA graduate, had finished second to Haynes in the AAU meet as both recorded jumps of more than 55 feet.

Butts returned to the scene of his only other impressive victory—an NCAA championship in 1972—to record a wind-aided 56-8¾ for the longest jump ever by an American. Excessive wind prevented him from officially taking away Haynes' American mark of 56-5.

Haynes, 23, took advantage of the gusting winds for a 55-10. The third spot on the team went to former Long Beach State jumper Rayfield Dupree at 55-9¾.

Olympican John Craft of Chicago, who finished fifth in the 1972 Olympics, suffered a slight injury during the competition and managed only 55-½ on his final jump and finished sixth.

Larry Hart, the only qualifier in the hammer throw on Friday, has yet to meet the Olympic qualifying standard, so a special competition was held for four men earlier in the day. However, none of the throwers, including Army Capt. Bill Diehl, could meet the mark of 226-5 and Hart remains as the sole American competitor in the event in Montreal.

Officials said, though, that if someone other than Diehl should make the qualifying standard by July 3, when final Olympic entries must be filed, then Diehl would be added to the team under special rules designed for such cases. Diehl has already thrown 228-0, but did not qualify for the U.S. team here.

Claremont dumps Covina

Claremont Post 78 defeated Covina 13-6 Saturday to improve its record to 16-9 while Pomona Post 30 lost a tough one run contest to Rowland 3-2 and Rialto defeated Montclair, 5-1.

Claremont trailed briefly 2-0 before bouncing back with a four-run second inning. Covina tied the score at 4-4 in the bottom half of the third but it was the last time they were in the ballgame.

Mil Pompa started the game for Claremont but lasted only three innings. Tim Dooling came in to relieve Pomona, and held Rowland to just two runs. Both runs off Dooling were unearned. Dooling in six innings fanned five Rowland batters and walked three.

While Dooling held Rowland scoreless from the fifth inning until the last inning his Claremont teammates broke the game open with six runs through the fourth, fifth, and sixth frames.

Mike Davis started Claremont's four-run second inning with the only hit of the frame, a long double to leftfield. Covina helped Claremont's offense in the inning by walking five Post 78 batters and committing a costly error.

Dick Bell led the Claremont attack with three hits in six at bats.

Claremont with the lopsided victory has now won seven straight games. Post 78 is currently 7-4 in league action.

Pomona fell behind early to Rowland 3-0 as Rowland scored single runs in the second, third and fifth innings. Pomona countered with single tallies in the sixth and eighth frames but Post 30 fell a run short.

Pomona's attack in the sixth consisted of a Chris Davis walk, two stolen bases and a scoring flyball by Dale Coleman. Post 30's eighth inning run which cut the deficit to 3-2 was scored on a base hit by Jeff Seaman.

Post 30's record dropped to 16-7 with the loss.

Rialto stopped Montclair on one run and five hits Saturday. Rialto's hurlers walked only one Montclair batter. Montclair's pitching couldn't find homeplate as two hurlers walked 11 Rialto base runners. Rialto added eight hits to the 11 free passes to roll up five runs.

Montclair's only run scored in the sixth as Dave Urguidi doubled and Don Pierce singled him home.

Jackson wants to buy A's

BALTIMORE (AP) — Outfielder Reggie Jackson of the Baltimore Orioles confirmed Saturday that he and his business partner had inquired about buying the Oakland A's baseball franchise from Charles O. Finley.

Jackson said Gary Walker, his associate and a friend since college days, had talked with Finley several times about a possible purchase, the last time early this year.

"Finley said he'd think about it," Jackson said, "and contact us if he wanted to do it."

Disclosure of the offer originally was made in the transcript of a meeting called on June 17 by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to discuss Finley's controversial sale for $3.5 million of Vida Blue to the New York Yankees, and Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers to the Boston Red Sox.

Finley made the comment at the meeting which was also attended by representatives of the Red Sox and Yankees, the Player Relations Committee and the Major League Baseball Players Association.

According to the minutes, Finley said an offer to buy the A's had been made by the representative of a "well-known player, who had previously played for us."

The player would be a party to buying the club, Finley said.

Aaron may return to Atlanta

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Reports that home run king Hank Aaron will rejoin the Atlanta Braves next season as a vice president for player development and public relations are "news to me," Milwaukee Brewers' President Bud Selig said Saturday night.

"I can just say that the Brewers have made our intentions clear relative to Henry Aaron," Selig said. "We made them with our announcement when we acquired him, and what we said then certainly is true today."

The Brewers acquired Aaron from Atlanta in a trade for outfielder Dave May in November, 1974. When Aaron signed a two-year contract as a player a few weeks later, Selig said the slugger would be assured of a job of an unspecified nature with the Brewers "in perpetuity" after his playing career.

John Alevizos, executive vice president and general manager of the Braves, said Saturday Aaron will assume a front office position in player development with the Braves in 1977.

The report from Atlanta said formal announcement was not expected until Aaron's contractual obligations with the Brewers are completed after the current season so that the Braves would be free of possible tampering charges.

"He (Aaron) will definitely be involved with the Braves next year in player development," Alevizos said. "He will be a very positive contribution to a sound organization."

Aaron's attorney, Irving Kaler, said, "I would interpret the statement by the Braves as being what their wishes are, not necessarily that there has been an actual agreement reached. There has been no agreement."

However, Kaler said Aaron's only choice, other than the Brewers, would be Atlanta.

Sports briefs

MOOR PARK, England (AP) — American golf star Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., finished five strokes behind the winner of a $43,950 international championship Saturday.

Palmer carded a final round 70 for a 72-hole total of 282 and earned $2,503.

The winner of the $9,000 top prize was Tommy Horton, a British Ryder Cup veteran. The 35-year-old Horton rammed in a nine-foot putt on the last hole for a birdie deuce and a three-under-par 69. He wound up with an 11-under-par 277.

MONTE CARLO (AP) - Bennie Briscoe of Philadelphia and Emile Griffith of New York, two middleweight war horses, drew Saturday night in a tenround fight on the card with the Monzon-Valdes championship.

Griffith, the former world champion who once lost here to Monzon, did the superior boxing, but Briscoe shook him three times.

SHIMANE, Japan (AP) — A United States high school team from Arizona recorded its third victory in three tries on a 10 match tour of Japan, defeating the Shimane Prefectural Selection 10-0 Saturday in this Western Japan city.

The Americans scored seven pins and three decisions in weight classes from 105.5 pounds to 191 pounds.

Dickson survives scare

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Bob Dickson, who has been fighting collapses of his game for two years, thought another might be coming Saturday.

But he pulled himself together to maintain a five-stroke lead after three rounds of the Western Open, despite shooting a 74.

Winless since the San Diego Open in 1973 and not among the exempted 60 leading money winnners the last two seasons, Dickson entered the third round with a six-shot margin, the largest halfway lead of the PGA tour this year.

In a bright, breezy day at the tough Butler National Course, Dickson started his round with two pars but then turned in three bogeys in a row.

"I was in the rough and the sand on the third hole, got in another trap on the fourth and missed the green on the fifth," Dickson said, "I was pretty shaky. It was just nerves. I finally got straight on the sixth playing with confidence. After the three bogeys I didn't give up but I'll admit I was concerned."

Dickson's 39 on the front side cut his lead to a mere two strokes as Al Geiberger moved in. But Geiberger stumbled with three bogeys on the back nine to finish with 73 and 215 to share second with Charles Coody who also had a 73. Then Dickson began hitting well again.

"Putting is really what saved me," he said. "I had crucial four and five footers for par and I made them. I got pumped up and tried to slow down but the tempo stayed fast."

Coody started out with birdies on two of the first three holes but had a double bogey on eight for a 36 which placed him at even par after 27 holes. But another bogey at 10 and one at 17 when he was in the rough and had a bad chip shot left him with a 37 for a 73.

Joe Porter, who has won only $6,000 this year, closed with a 33 for a 71 and 216. With him in this bracket was Gil Morgan after a 73. At 217 was Bill Mallon, who blazed the last nine in 31 for a 71 and Hale Irwin the defending champion.

Irwin made a good move but a double bogey on the ninth set him back. He recovered with a birdie on 14 and another on 16 before again starting to sputter. A trap cost him a bogey on 17 and he double bogeyed 18 when his second shot hit the trees and he shanked the third. He finished with 36-36-72.

Grouped at 218 were veteran Peter Oosterhuis with a 72 and tour rookie Steve Veriato with a 74. Another fledgling, George Burns, had a 76 to be at 219 with Gay Brewer who closed with 72.

Dave Stockton, with a 73, was at 220 along with John Mahaffey who struggled for a 75.

It looked as if Mahaffey could make a charge after a couple of birdies on the front side offset a bogey and he pulled up with a 35. This put him at 180 after 45 holes and within striking distance. But again he struggled on the backside and doubled bogeyed 13 and 14 and got another bogey at 18.

The wind added to the ruggedness of the 7,002-yard Butler National Course. One of those most affected was R.H. Sikes who had six double bogies, four bogies and an eight on the par 4 14th for a 91 and 242.

One of the best comebacks was by Bobby Wadkins. After shooting a 40 he sank a 187-yard five iron shot for an eagle deuce on the tenth. Then he dropped birdie putts of six and 20 feet and planted a wedge one inch fron the cup on the 16th for another birdie.

LV routs district foe

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

The second half of District 18 play looks promising for La Verne Post 330 as was the first in which it went 9-1.

District leading La Verne embarassed a Hacienda Heights Legion team 20-3 with powerful hitting and fine pitching from starter Bill Bumstead and Dennis Wetzel Saturday at La Verne College.

Post 330 is now 10-1 in league and 18-4 overall while Hacienda is now 2-9 in loop action.

La Verne slammed three home runs and two doubles among its 17 hits.

Ron Pickenpaugh collected four hits in four at bats and drove in two runs with a home run. Wally Pitts drove in four with three hits including a double and triple.

Bob Alexander homered and drove in four runs while Dave Drury blasted a two-run round tripper.

Bumstead went three-for-four with a RBI and Wetzel was a perfect two-for-two.

On the mound, Bumstead struck out eight batters and walked only one for six innings. He allowed only three hits and a run before yielding to Wetzel.

Wetzel pitched the seventh and eighth and whiffed five hitters but gave up two runs on two hits.

Drury came on to pitch the ninth inning and fanned two of the three hitters he faced.

With the win Bumstead boosts his record to a perfect six wins without a loss.

Hacienda Heights, missing three pitchers, had only nine players and started hurler Jon Matthews on the mound.

Matthews (0-2) was racked for 14 runs on 12 hits in three and two-thirds innings before giving way to Bill Welmon.

Welmon allowed two runs on four hits in three and a third innings yielding to Mike Dadisman in the eighth.

Dadisman was touched up for four runs on three hits in the eighth.

La Verne opened the game with two runs in the first and sent 10 batters up in the second for five runs, three on Alexander's three-run HR.

Post 330 exploded for seven runs on four hits in the fourth and sent 11 men to the plate. Pickenpaugh started the fireworks with two out by bombing a 380-foot homer to left. Pitts tripled with the bases loaded to end the show.

Drury's two-run shot highlighted a four-run cake icing in the eighth.

Two race days added to slate

SANTA ANITA PARK, Arcadia — The Oak Tree Racing Association has been granted two additional racing days for 1976 and will conduct its Thoroughbred meeting at Santa Anita Park from Thursday, Oct. 7, through Sunday, Nov. 7.

Racing will be conducted Wednesdays through Sundays for a total of 24 days of sport.

"We welcome the increased opportunity for the development of young horses, which has been the theme of Oak Tree," Frank E. (Jimmy) Kilroe, Oak Tree director of racing commented.

The California Horse Racing Board allocated the extra days at its meeting this week. The Board's earlier allocation of 22 days was for an Oct. 9 opening.

Oak Tree last year had its best meeting since the 1969 inaugural, showing 13.5 per cent increase in attendance and 17.1 per cent increase in mutuel handle over the 1974 record meeting. Highlights of the 1975 22-day meeting included the new $350,000 National Thoroughbred Championship and the established Oak Tree, Oak Leaf and Norfolk Stakes, each worth $100,000-added.

"With the addition of two days, there will be some changes in scheduling the Oak Tree stakes," Kilroe said. "This is now under study, with the schedule to be announced as soon as it is firm."

Pomona Valley Closed Championships

Top seeds advance in searing heat

On a day of 100-degree heat, the seeded players came forth with the hottest tennis Saturday in the Pomona Valley Closed Championships.

The last of the unranked survivors were eliminated in semi-finals action in the tournament's five open events at the Claremont Tennis Club and today's title contenders will be an all-seeded crowd.

Top-rated Dave Waterhouse and third-seeded Geoff Clark advanced to a finals showdown for the men's singles crown, but in contrasting fashion.

Waterhouse eased by unseeded Dave Click, 6-3, 6-2 while Clark was on the brink of defeat against another unseeded upstart, Olarn Issara, before pulling out the match on the ninth point of a tie-breaker.

Clark's winning scores were 5-7, 6-2, 7-6. He trailed his hard-hitting opponent from Thailand by a 3-4 point tally in the tie-breaker, but won the last two while serving. First the Claremonter put away a volley, then — on the point that would decide it all — Issara netted a service return.

Meanwhile, Christy Stafford, No. 2 seed in the women's singles, won her semis match from unseeded Donna Dickenson, 6-4, 6-4, and will meet No. 1-rated Doris Clark today.

Mrs. Clark had already reached the finals Friday by defeating third-seeded Tracy Senior, 6-3, 6-0, but she was busy enough saturday as it was.

With partner Chuck Anderson, she had a tie-breaker of her own in winning a mixed doubles encounter from Jim and Karen Lucke, 3-6, 6-1, 7-6. And in women's doubles the No. 1-seeded Clark-Dickenson team scored a 7-6, 6-1 triumph over Gloria Jones and Laila Low.

It'll be a mother vs. son finale in the mixed doubles as the top-seeded Clark-Anderson tandem meets second-seeded Geoff Clark and Cathie Headley, who were 6-3, 6-4 winners over Rick Roper and Margi Sullivan Saturday.

The Clark-Dickenson opponents in the women's finals will be Margaret Overin and Karen Lucke, second seeds who defeated Doris Cromer and Headley, 6-1, 7-6. That tie-breaker also went to the ultimate ninth point.

In men's doubles the No. 1 team, Stan Clark and Anderson, defeated one unseeded pair, Dale Gelger and Gary Kreff, 7-5, 6-3, while second-seeded Waterhouse and Bill Geary got by another, Don Cromer and Carl Skvarna, 6-3, 7-5.

The women's singles championship contest will be first on today's program at 9 a.m., followed by the men's at 10:30, the women's doubles at noon, the men's doubles at 1 and the mixed at 2.

'Sleepy' Carner manages lead

CHAGRIN FALLS, Ohio (AP) — JoAnne Carner pumped out her second straight two-underpar 70 for a three-stroke lead, but favorite Judy Rankin fired a sizzling 69 to join several close pursuers Saturday after two rounds of the $100,000 Babe Zaharias Invitational.

Mrs. Carner, whose powerful driving and long iron game are ideally suited to the rolling and lengthy Tanglewood Country Club course, moved out of a three-way tie for first despite what she called a "sleepy" round.

"I never really got going," she explained after putting together four birdies and two bogeys, raising her score to 140 at the tournament's halfway point. "I didn't putt well and I wasn't awake or sharp.

"I feel good coming out of it with what I did under those circumstances," Mrs. Carner added.

Early co-leaders Ai Yu Tu of Taiwan and M.J. Smith of New Zealand slipped off the pace. Miss Tu, a leading candidate for LPGA rookie honors, went through the first nine holes one under, but wound up with a one-over 73.

She fell into a second-place tie with Mrs. Rankin at 143. Miss Smith tumbled to a 76 and a 146 total.

Chako Higuchi of Japan shot a 70—the only other subpar round of the day—to move into third at 145. Tied with Miss Smith for fourth were Amy Alcott and Jane Blalock who had 73 and 72, respectively.

Mrs. Rankin, playing the backside first, went out in oneunder 35 as she birdied both par fives.

Diver wins second berth

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— An incredible series of dives, two of them adjudged perfect, gave 16-year-old Greg Louganis the right Saturday to compete for two gold medals at the Olympic Games in Montreal next month.

Joining Louganis, from El Cajon, Calif., as the United States' competitors on the 10-meter diving platform in Canada will be Kent Vosler of Eaton, Ohio and Tim Moore of Cincinnati.

The judges gave Louganis, a Samoan who was adopted when he was eight months old, perfect 10-point scores on a backward dive with pike position and a one and one-half somersault with pike.

"It feels great to be a double first-place winner," said Louganis, who already had won a Olympic team berth on the three-meter springboard.

"I don't think there is any doubt that Greg is the finest diver in the world for his age," said Tom Gompf, Miami, coach-manager of the team.

Louganis scored 610.41 points with Vosler getting 600.10 and Moore 583.89.

Trailing them were Air Force Capt. Phil Boggs, 550.95; Brian Bungum, Bloomington, Minn., 531.12; Keith Russell, Conroe, Tex., 507.30; Robert Cragg, Maple Glen, Pa., 497.46; and Don Craine, 474.30.

Boggs and Cragg will join Louganis in representing America on the three-meter springboard as a result of earlier qualifying.

The women divers, selected earlier, are Cynthia McInvale, Dallas; Jennifer Chandler, Lincoln, Ala., and Barbara Nejman, Pittsburgh, on the threemeter board; Janet Ely, also of Dallas; Deborah Wilson, Columbus, Ohio, and Melissa Riley, 19, San Antonio, Tex., on the 10-meter platform.

Gompf described the team as possibly "the strongest and most talented we have ever assembled.

"Our men and women are going to be up against some very strong competition in Montreal, but I honestly believe we have a fine chance of winning several medals."

UCR coach likes recruits

RIVERSIDE — What head coach Freddie Goss terms "the best group of freshmen we have ever brought in" has been signed to play basketball for the University of California, Riverside, next year.

The eight prospects will join eight returning lettermen, three former redshirts and several junior varsity players in the battle for starting varsity positions next year, Goss' eighth season at UCR.

Heading the list of freshmen recruits are Lorenzo "Rennie" Watts of Centennial High School in Los Angeles, Jack Wheeler of Morro Bay High School and Paul Purvis of Sacramento Highland High School.

Kenny Goldman of Grant High School in North Hollywood, Theron Laudermill of Fremont High in Los Angeles, Mike Howard of Rubidoux High in Riverside, Richard Haussner of San Gorgonio High in San Bernardino and Tony Shaw of Inglewood High complete the list announced by Goss.

Watts, a 5-foot 8-inch guard, was second-team all-CIF 4-A this past season. A fine playmaker, Watts averaged 17 points per game for a team that made it into the CIF quarterfinals. Against powerful Long Beach Poly he scored 25 points.

Wheeler, a 6-2 guard, was first team all-CIF 1-A for the championship Morro Bay squad. He averaged 16 points per game and was named 1A/2A Player of the Tournament.

Purvis was an all-league standout at Highland High School and is a strong rebounder. A 6-7 forward-center, Purvis averaged more than 20 rebounds per game last season while also averaging double figures in scoring.

Goldman also brings impressive credentials to UCR. At Grant High he averaged 20 points and 10 rebounds per game. A 6-4 guard-forward, he was the co-Most Valuable player in his league.

Laudermill, a cousin of UCR senior forward James Laudermilk, was named to an All-Inner City team at Fremont. The 6-3 guard averaged 23 points per game.

Haussner was second team All-Citrus Belt League at San Gorgonio.

Charity grid game scheduled

A special charity football game will be played Friday at Bonita High between the California Razorbacks and the Los Angeles Mustangs, two semi-pro teams.

Gametime is set for 8 p.m. on the Bonita football field. Proceeds from the game will go to Danbury School, a school for the orthopedically handicapped in Claremont.

The Razorbacks and the Mustangs will be opening their seasons on that date. The two semi-pro squads are comprised of ex-college, NFL and WFL gridders.

Tickets are priced at $3 for adults and $1 for students.

Cards on ballot

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The annual baseball All-Star game to be played in Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium Tuesday night July 13 may find five St. Louis Cardinals in action.

Red Birds on the ballot include catcher Ted Simmons, shortstop Don Kessinger and outfielders Lou Brock, Bake McBride and Reggie Smith.

Parsons has surprise in store for Pocono

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Surprise pole position starter Johnny Parsons, son of the 1950 Indianapolis 500 winner, promises more surprises for the start of today's sixth annual Pocono 500, a race which should have all sorts of excitement once the green flag drops at 10 a.m. PDT.

The reason is a jumbled-up field for the $400,000 race, decided by blind draw rather than performance. The result should be a scramble at the start unlike anything ever seen in the history of 500-mile Indianapolis style races.

"It's a surprise, what I have in mind for the start," noted Parsons, who says he's not nervous about his first pole start. "I want to bring them down the way I want to, and you'll see what that is. But that's all I can tell you."

Pressed for more details, he responded coyly, "I'd really better not say."

Finally, he offered this hint: "Mario Andretti is tough and he's a good starter. But if he's going to stay up with me, he's going to have it together.

"Guys will have to be hustling to keep up with me."

That sounds like a fast start, but Parsons won't elaborate further.

Andretti probably has the best seat in the house for the start, the outside of the front row. It will give him the best line going into the first turn, and since it's been almost two years since he started on the front row in this type of racing, he should be plenty eager.

"I'm not really concerned about anyone beating me into the first turn except Mr. Foyt with all his horsepower," Parsons explained about A.J., who is starting fifth and considered the pre-race favorite.

Even though the odds are against him, Parsons believes he has a chance to win.

"By the end of the year I can just about guarantee a victory for our team, and I'd just as soon have our first win right here," said the lean, handsome 31-year-old from Indianapolis. "I don't feel we are a darkhorse. We're a contender."

The real contenders for today's race, the richest auto race in the world besides the $1 million Indianapolis 500, should be Foyt, Andretti, Gordon Johncock, Al Unser and defending Indy champ Johnny Rutherford.

Starting position could be crucial for Unser and Rutherford. They drew 16th and 15th grid positions, respectively, and will be right in the middle of the field. Considering what's happened at Indianapolis on confused starts in recent years, that's not the place to be.

"The race isn't won on the first lap, and starting position is not as important as it used to be," Rutherford advised. "If we can stay in good position until the field starts to string out a little bit, we'll be in good shape to move up."

Foyt has won this race twice, Rutherford once. Unser, Andretti and Johncock have come close each of the past several years. Johncock has twice won the pole position.

Though attention will probably focus around those five drivers, others not to be counted out are Bobby Unser, Mike Mosley, Wally Dallenbach, Tom Sneva and Pancho Carter.

Aztecs to attend camp

Mambers of the Los Angeles Aztecs professional soccer team will be on hand to provide individual instruction during the opening day of Azusa Pacific College's All-American Soccer Camp on August 2.

For the second year Azusa Pacific's athletic staff and coaches from five other high schools and colleges in the area will instruct soccer players between fourth and tenth grade in individual offense and defense, passing, trapping, shooting and team play. The camp will be held in two one-week sessions on the Azusa Pacific campus, August 2-6 and August 9-13.

"Having the Aztecs here to demonstrate and offer instruction on an individual basis will be the perfect way to start the second annual camp," explains Larry Delemarter, soccer coach at Azusa Pacific College and director of the All-American Soccer Camp. "It will be a privilege to have the best soccer players in Southern California participate and show everyone how it's done well."

Other instructors at the All-American Soccer Camp are Otto Rieger, soccer coach from Claremont High School; Don Lawrence, soccer coach at Azusa Pacific and referee of the Southern California Soccer Association; Fritz Rosenvedlt, soccer coach at Chaffey College; Steve Davis, soccer coach at Claremont College; John Wilde, soccer coach at San Gabriel High School and East Los Angeles College; and Andy Silva, soccer coach at El Monte High School.

Age and ability grouping for participants will be used to ensure maximum benefits for each participant. Individual skills will be taught each morning and team play will take place each afternoon. Films, classroom instruction and recreational swimming will be held between the morning and afternoon sessions. Camp begins each day at 8 a.m. and concludes at 5 p.m.

Tuition is $65,00 for one week or $100.00 for both weeks, which includes all instruction, a group photograph, an individual photograph, a camp T-shirt, and the use of swimming and tennis facilities.

For more information or for an application call or write the All-American Soccer Camp at Azusa Pacific College, (213) 969-3434.

TV cage coverage expanded

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Potentially higher viewer ratings have led the National Broadcasting Co. and Television Sports (TVS) to purchase rights for Sunday college basketball games next season, officials say.

TVS President Eddie Einhorn, here for the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics convention, said that NBC-TVS paid $3 million for the 1976-77 college basketball package, which includes weekly regional telecasts.

Spokesmen said the series will begin with a nationally televised doubleheader Jan. 2 featuring UCLA against Houston.

The series will include defending national champion Indiana against runner-up Michigan, Marquette - Michigan, Notre Dame-Marquette and North Carolina State-Louisville.

Secretariat's first offspring to be sold

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Five generations of breeding plus "just a little bit of luck" gave Walter M. Jeffords Jr., the first thoroughbred horse sired by Triple Crown winner Secretariat.

Jeffords, a 61-year-old investor in utilities companies throughout the nation, is selling the prize foal, now a yearling filly out of My Card, at Keeneland's summer sale July 15-20.

"I couldn't even guess," he said when asked what price the filly might bring at auction. "I think she was born pretty much a perfect foal and has continued to progress," Jeffords added.

"She's average or just a shade above average size," farm manager Harry Scott said.

Jeffords' family has been in racing and breeding of thoroughbreds for generations. Along with Samuel Riddle, the Jeffords bought Faraway Farm here in 1920.

About that same time, they also bought a mare called Flying Flower and Jeffords, who was still a child at the time, can't remember now who sold her to his family.

However, that mare was the start of the female line that eventually was to produce a handsome bay filly with the distinction of being the first conceived by Secretariat.

Flying Flower produced Flying Hour, which when bred to the famed Man O' War, who was owned by Riddle, produced a filly named Furlough. Furlough was the dam of Ace Card, who produced My Card, who foaled the Secretariat filly last year.

The Jeffords family owned, raced and bred all five mares.

"It was just a little bit of luck," Jeffords said, explaining that his "mare was ready and was the first to be bred to him." He had obtained the breeding rights "from a friend," Jeffords said.

Mt. Meadows opens Aug. 9

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Golf Writer

WELL SIR, they're not going to open Mountain Meadows Golf Course until Aug. 9, according to Pete Schabarum, L.A. County supervisor. And that's the way it should be. Seems the old grass hasn't grown up yet, and you know what it's like to play on sparse grass.

Dedication ceremonies for the course, a completely reconstructed layout, will be held for July 10-11, along with the dedication of the entire 2,000 acre Bonelli Park.

For those interested, the course will be dedicated at 9 a.m. on Saturday July 10. I'll be hanging around, but I'll leave my sticks at home. I'm kind of anxious to hobble around the new layout though. (My torn tendon is healing but none too quickly.)

OPENING DAY ceremonies for the two new courses in the El Prado area south of Chino will be held on Thursday.

The courses are named Chino Creek Golf Course and Butterfield Stage. I'm looking forward to playing the new layouts.

IT'S TIME to welcome back one of the Progress-Bulletin's top golfers, Bill Duff, back on the Wednesday league trail. Bill played right up through September last year although because of cataracts, he was unable to see the flight of the ball.

Duff last fall underwent an eye operation which gave him back his sight, and he's playing golf again.

A sure sign that he's regaining his ability is his weekly improvement. He opened with a 54 at San Dimas, cut it to a 52, and last week he fired a 50. At that rate he'll be shooting in the 30s in six weeks.

GOOD NEWS for Howard Smith fans. The popular pro at Diamond Bar recently signed a five-year pact with L.A. County to maintain the golf shop and serve as head professional.

For quite some time, men and women's club members at Diamond Bar were deeply concerned that Smith might not be awarded the contract by the county.

But their worries went for naught. Smith is still smiling and ready to serve his admiring public.

MEANWHILE, the county has named David Cink, 34, as head professional at the reconstructed Mountain Meadows course in Pomona.

Cink, a resident of San Fernando and a Class A member of the PGA, has loads of golf experience. He served as an assistant pro at Sepulveda golf courses and held head pro jobs in Van Nuys and at Paso Robles Country Club.

The dates are: Wednesday, July 14 at Diamond Bar. Wednesday, July 27, Whittier Narrows; Tuesday, Aug. 10, Marshall Canyon.

Entry fee for each event is $2. Ages for junior golfers range from 11 to 17. Entry blanks can be obtained at L.A. County golf courses.

A COUPLE of Claremont golfers, John Holtzman and Mike Bicker, are performing well in the Western Amateur Golf Association.

Stan Pollard, a 20-year-old from Cal State Fullerton, won the second WAGA event Monday at Mission Viejo with a one over par 73.

But Bicker shot a 37-37—74, and Holtzman had 39-36—75, both finishing in the top 10.

Gerry Simoni, the former Upland High star, fired 36-41—77 over the rugged 6,919-yard layout. Jim Vallone of Walnut had a 78.

The amateur tour gives top young Southland golfers a chance to compete on Mondays on many of the best golf courses in the area.

On Monday, the tour moves to Valencia, a 6,788-yard course rated at 73.7.

FRANK SOWIN, captain of the Claremont golf team in 1975, is serving as one of the public relations specialists with the Western Amateur this summer.

Sowin, who's playing near par golf these days, attends Cal State at Irvine. He expects to be ready for varsity golf next season after sitting out a year.

He played at Claremont from 1971-75.

JIM PORTER, who learned much of his golf at the Claremont Golf Center with Pat Patton, has recently taken a job as assistant pro at Bel-Air Country Club in Los Angeles.

It's a giant step forward for Porter, who played out of Red Hill C.C. while he was an amateur. Porter, who prepped at Claremont High, will be working with head pro Eddie Merrins, recognized as a top teacher and player in these parts.

Porter won the 1974 Southern California amateur and was one of the leading players at UCLA for four years. He failed to qualify for the PGA Tour recently, but he's bent on becoming a top pro and is off to a definite start with the Bel-Air post.

I remember Porter first as a class player on Ron Skaggs' Claremont teams years ago, and he burned up the area like a young Arnold Palmer.

LOIS PAULSEN of Glendora CC and her guest Betty Olson of Red Hill C.C. won the recent better ball tourney at Glendora with a low gross of 92.

Low net winners were Dorothy Rogers and her guest Ruth Hoefflin of Annandale C.C. with a 65.

JOHN CUMMINGS of Riviera shot a flashy 71 at Glendora CC last week to win the Reed Memorial Junior event.

David Brokaw, Huntington Seacliff CC was low gross winner among boys 17 and under with a 73.

Other winners were:

Boys, 16 and under — Eric Evans, Los Robles, 75; Boys, 14 and 15, David Games, Al California, 73; Boys, 12-13 — Robert Schwinn, Los Angeles, 83; Girls 15-17 — Cathy Hanlon, Palos Verdes, 78; Girls, 12-14 — Terri Lynn Akazaki, Dominguez, 81; Boys 11 and under — David Rhorer, 41.

A RECORD FIELD of 204, made up of 127 professionals and 77 amateurs, has filed entry for the 24th United States Women's Open Championship. The championship will be held at Rolling Green Golf Club, Springfield, Pa., July 8 through 11. The record entry, surpassing last year's total by 18, has necessitated 18-hole, stroke play, qualifying rounds at three sites: at California C.C. in Whittier, Ohio and Philadelphia, Pa.

The starting field for the championship proper will comprise 150 players.

Seven professionals and seven amateurs will compete for four spots at California Country Club on Monday. Also on Monday, 23 professionals and 10 amateurs will play for 17 places at the Tanglewood Country Club in Chagrin Falls, Ohio, outside Cleveland. On Tuesday, 15 professionals and 25 amateurs will play for 12 places at the Gulph Mills Golf Club in King of Prussia, Pa.

JERRY PATE is a 22-year-old labeled for life. In every tournament he'll be announced as the winner of the U.S. Open. When he's 65, teeing off with the seniors, he'll still be called "winner of the U.S. Open."

Every time he hits a bad shot, some wag will smirk, "Is that the way a U.S. Open champ hits 'em?"

College powers get top prep cage talent

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Defending NCAA champion Indiana and Atlantic Coast Conference perennial contender North Carolina led the way as college basketball's traditional powers grabbed a good share of the top high school talent in this year's recruiting campaign.

The annual survey by The Roanoke Times made for The Associated Press showed that Indiana and North Carolina each signed four of the top 40 high school players.

The top 40 is a compilation of nine scholastic All-America teams, two recruiting services, and the opinions of some of the country's top college coaches.

It was a bonanza year for Indiana, which graduated four starters from its undefeated team. The same was true for North Carolina, which lost only first-round draft pick Mitch Kupchak, a member of the United States Olympic team.

The Hoosiers got Glen Grunwald, a hot-shooting 6-foot-9 forward from Franklin Park, Ill.; Ohio's Player of the Year, 6-5 Butch Carter from the traditional basketball hotbed of Middletown; 6-10 Derek Holcomb, a raw-boned center from Peoria, Ill., and Mike Miday of Canton, Ohio, whom one coach termed "a 6-7 Kent Benson."

North Carolinas' quartet of prospective stars included its home state best, 6-4 John Virgil of Elm City; Indiana's Mr. Basketball, guard Dave Colescott; 6-10 Steve Krafcisin of Oak Lawn, Ill., and 6-6 Mike O'Koren of Jersey.

'Kiss and Tell'

Comedy opens at Playhouse

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

"Kiss and Tell," F. Hugh Herbert's amiable little comedy about The Bobby Soxer's Role in World War II, is given an amiable presentation by an amiable cast at the Claremont Playhouse at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays.

The play, a curious and nostalgic flashback to 1944, is dated as much by the Andrew Sisters' rendition of "I'll Be with You in Apple Blossom Time" as by the revolution in American mores and morals in the past 30 years. Pregnancy is no longer a whispered word; secret marriages are as surprising for being secret as for being marriages. The basics of the play are timeless, of course — teen-agers fighting into love, neighborhood feuds, bratty kid brothers — but the sex bomb of the '40s, has been defused, and the comedy looks like nothing so much as a TV sitcom, which it soon became: Corliss.

Played on George Gizienski's handsome set (but why an over-stuffed couch on the patio?) "Kiss and Tell" concerns itself with the trials and tribulations of Corliss Archer, a Joan of Arc in saddle shoes, who must bear the brunt of shame when suspected of getting a little bit pregnant, rather than give away her brother who has secretly married — oh never mind. It sounds like "Corliss Archer! Corliss Archer!"

Corliss is played by attractive Kathy Feffer, a persuasive young actress who brings fun and vitality to the pivotal role. At times she seems to be trying too hard, reacting with some exaggeration, but generally gives a convincing and highly entertaining characterization of a storm-tossed teenybopper that all parents will recognize.

The young lovers, who have a hasty, secret, wartime marriage and achieve a pregnancy in what must be an Air Corps record time, are played by a vivacious Lynda Truxell and David Rex, a hulking and engaging young actor. Miss Truxell gives a warm, intelligent portrayal of the secret bride whose parents hate the parents of her soldier husband. Rex is convincing as the Air Corps lieutenant, a L'il Abner in suntans.

A standout in the talented cast is young Russell Stewart playing a sort of brat role as Raymond Pringle, one of those obnoxious smarty-cats who causes a lot of problems for everyone, then ends up solving them. Stewart offers an easy, natural and quite funny performance.

Director Dale White keeps the fragile farce moving at a spritely pace — even when Ping Pong balls fail to materialize — and draws rewarding performances from the cast.

The next production at the Claremont Playhouse will be Woody Allen's "Play It Again, Sam," starring Roger Allen, slated to bow Aug. 19.

Jazz historian

Murphy gathers music

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Turk Murphy, who has brought traditional jazz to thousands here and around the world, is more than a trombonist — he's also a student and historian of a uniquely American music.

The gray-haired Murphy has dedicated more than 40 years to studying and preserving the music he plays and has compiled a library that contains 10,000 to 20,000 songs that he transcribed onto sheet music.

Since the musicians who first played Dixieland never wrote it down, Murphy's work represents a historic collection of American music.

"I wasn't able to go to college, so I decided to make the most of my career in music," Murphy says about why he began the library.

He often jots down from memory the chords, melody and harmony lines of a song after a jam session or during breaks, and he has managed to research the origins of many songs.

"High Society," for instance, originally was a Belgian march, and "Careless Love" and "Didn't He Ramble" were Elizabethan folk songs, he said.

"'Didn't He Ramble' was part of the lyrics to a tune called 'Ram of Derby,' which was George Washington's favorite song," he added.

Murphy corresponds with musicians throughout the world, and many ask for his arrangements. It sometimes takes him a half day to locate the song in his voluminous files, but he fills each request.

TURK MURPHY

Traditional jazz, as Murphy prefers to call his music, got its start in New Orleans and was popularized by piano player Jellyroll Morton and trumpeters King Oliver, Bunk Johnson — who claimed he taught "Satchmo" how to play — and "Satchmo" himself, Louis Armstrong.

Murphy says he tries to avoid the term "Dixieland" since it often is used to describe music as "old hat or corny" and evokes certain racial prejudices he opposes.

Murphy, whose real first name is Melvin, was raised in Williams, Calif., a small farming town north of Sacramento. He was nicknamed "the Terrible Turk" on the high school football team, and it stuck. It was during high school that he decided to play the trombone, mostly because "trombone players marched in front of the band."

Murphy began playing local jobs on weekends when he was 15. Unable to attend college during the depression, he instead played with several swing bands and later with a jazz band.

In 1948 in San Francisco, Murphy started his own band, consisting of trombone, trumpet, bass, clarinet, piano and banjo or drums.

In 1955, Murphy was asked to pick out a song and arrange it for Armstrong. He picked a tune from "The Threepenny Opera" that neither Murphy nor the famed trumpeter believed would be successful. When asked whether he wanted the $350 arranging fee or a copyright and future royalties, Murphy settled for the flat fee.

"That was one of my bigger mistakes," recalled Murphy. The song, "Mack the Knife," was successful for Armstrong and later became a million seller for singer Bobby Darin.

"I could have been a rich man," says Murphy with a laugh. "Years later, Louie used to rib me, 'So that tune won't go any place, hey Turk?'"

Murphy's group remained almost constantly on the road until 1960 when Murphy and piano player Pete Cluter opened Earthquake McGoon's night club, where they've been ever since.

They took the club's name from a character in Al Capp's "Li'l Abner" comic strip. When Murphy asked his friend Capp for permission to use the name, the cartoonist set down only one condition — Murphy would have to "play good jazz and keep his nose clean!"

"I think we've done that so far," said Murphy. "We sell happiness. The music is spirited and cheerful. There's no message. It pleases people and they have a good time, sometimes in spite of themselves."

Murphy said about half of his Friday and Saturday night audiences are between the ages of 17 and 30, a "healthy sign" of broadening tastes in music.

Murphy, 60, who has gone on concert tours of Europe, Australia and Japan with the band, says he has no plans to retire.

"I wouldn't do anything else," he said. "For a life that offers no security, I've met many great people and made many good friends."

Hughes' ex-wife in film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jean Peters, former wife of the late Howard Hughes, is making a return to films with a role in Paramount Television's "The Moneychangers."

Miss Peters, now married to film executive Stanley Hough, will portray the wife of Christopher Plummer in the six-and-a-half hour version of Arthur Hailey's novel.

Jim Dale stars in 'Dragon'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Dale, the acrobatic star of "Scapino" on broadway, has joined the cast of Walt Disney Productions' "Pete's Dragon."

Jazz fete gives grants

The Monterey Jazz Festival board of directors has earmarked $26,000 of its net income from the 1975 festival for its committee on grants and scholarships.

The festival, which traditionally has supported worthy musical endeavors with its revenue, has given away more than $150,000 in grants and scholarships since its founding in 1958.

The 1975 festival grossed $209,946 from ticket and program sales and concessions. It was the festival's biggest year since its tenth anniversary year in 1968.

The 1976 Monterey Jazz Festival will be held Sept. 17, 18 and 19.

Cal Poly plans art show, sale

More than 1,000 original prints of modern and old masters will be on exhibit and sale in the library gallery of Cal Poly from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 7.

The event, open to the public, is the ninth annual exhibit-sale mounted at Cal Poly by Ferdinand Roten Galleries of Baltimore, Md.

The graphics range in price from $10 to the thousands and span six centuries of art. They include prints by Rouault, Hogarth, Goya, Miro, and Picasso as well as by contemporary artists.

Some Western and Oriental manuscript pages, a few dating to the 13th Century, will also be for sale. Roten galleries exhibits annually in more than 400 museums and 1,500 universities and corporations throughout the country.

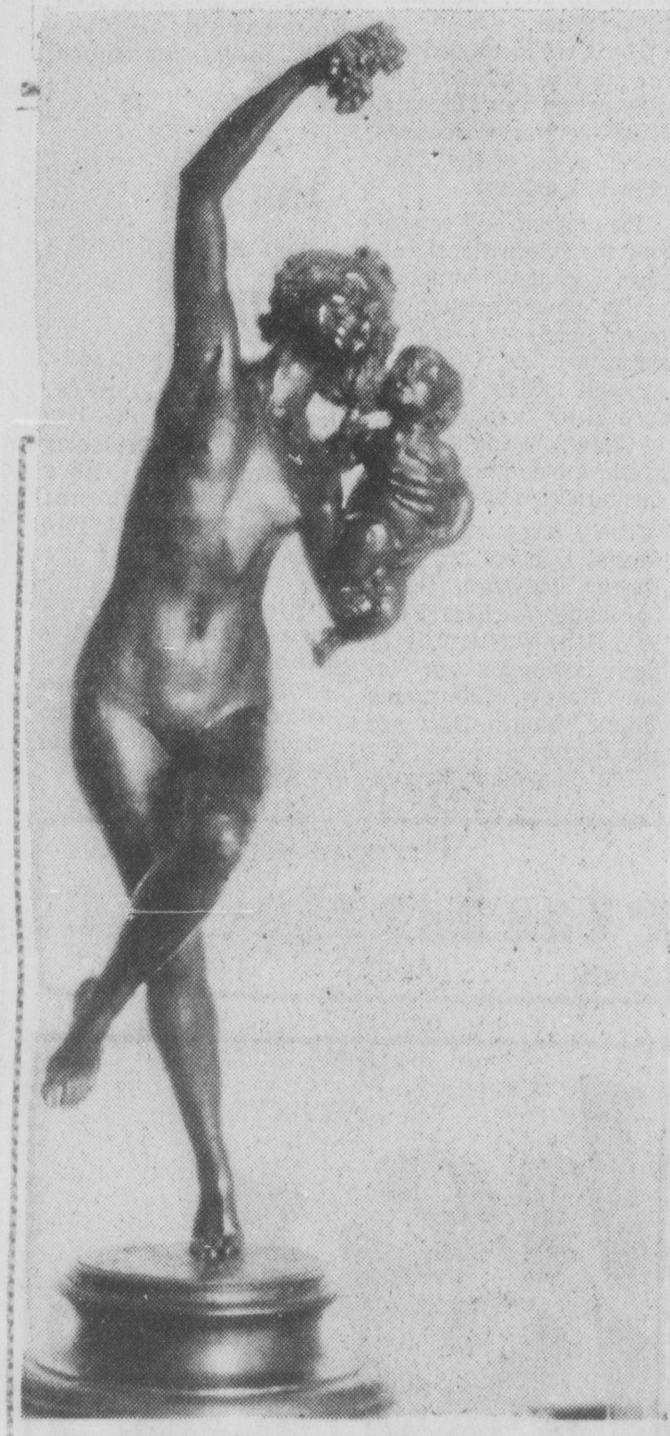
Ten percent of the sales from the July 7 exhibit will be given to the university's art department, either in cash or in selected art work from Roten's collection.

'Bingo' beats 'Bears'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The final score: "Bingo Long" 5, "Bad News" 5.

With publicists and 3,000 others cheering wildly, members of the casts of Universal's "The Bingo Long Traveling All-Stars and Motor Kings" and Paramount's "The Bad News Bears" met in a baseball match at the USC field.

Noshows were Walter Matthau, the boozy coach in "Bad News," now recovering from heart surgery, and Billy Dee Williams, Bingo Long in the movie, who is touring with Martin Luther King play, "I Have a Dream."



BACCHANALIA — "Bacchante and Infant Faun" by Frederick MacMonnies is one of the works to be created by live models at the Pageant of the Masters at Laguna Beach July 16-Aug. 29.

Art festival set at Laguna

The annual Laguna Beach Festival of Arts, with its world-famous Pageant of the Masters, to be held at the Irvine Bowl July 16-Aug. 29, will feature 200 years of American art in observance of the Bicentennial.

The festival is open from noon to 11:30 p.m. daily, with the Pageant of the Masters scheduled at 8:30 each night. The festival is expected to attract 300,000 visitors to Laguna Beach, a city of 16,000.

Some 180 Southern California artists, including painters, sculptors, jewelers, potters, weavers, wood carvers and furniture designers, will exhibit and sell their works at booths on the six-acre park. Many of the artists and craftsmen will demonstrate their art during the festival.

The festival also includes a continuing art workshop for children, a junior art exhibit by some 150 Orange County school children, marionette shows by Tony Urbano of Universal Studios, and Sunday afternoon performances on the green by Ballet Pacifica.

The Pageant of the Masters, traditionally a sellout, is the recreation of famous works of art by more than 500 volunteer models. Set in the open-air amphitheater, the pageant is noted for its artistic verisimilitude and professional staging and lighting. This year's pageant will offer such works as "The Road, Winter" by Currier & Ives; Andrew Wyeth's "Young Amercia," "Bacchante and Infant Fawn" by Frederick MacMonnies, Grant Wood's "Dinner for Threshers," Norman Rockwell's "Winter Duet," "Fight for the Waterhole" by Frederic Remington, Winslow Homer's "Adirondack Guide" and others. The Pageant traditionally closes with leonardo da Vinci's "The Last Supper."

The Festival of Arts is a cultural phenomenon. It rents the grounds from the City of Laguna Beach (last year's rent: $160,000) and pours the proceeds from the six-week event into capital improvements such as studios, galleries, a theater, which are donated to the city. In the past 10 years the donations have totaled $500,000.

The festival also lavishes grants and scholarships on cultural organizations such as Ballet Pacifica and on individual students in the graphic and performing arts. Last year's awards amounted to $81,400. Since the festival started in 1932, more than $2 million in grants and scholarships has been provided.

Rally comes to halt but hits 1,000 level

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's June rally came to a halt this past week at a familiar sticking point — the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The widely recognized indicator of stock price trends, which had climbed 37.98 points in the two previous weeks, slipped 2.04 to 999.84.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index eased .04 to 103.72, while the New York Stock Exchange's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks edged up .06 to 55.35.

Big Board volume tapered off to a daily average of just over 19 million shares, down from about 23 million the week before.

Analysts said the week's economic news mostly worked in the market's favor.

Indications from the credit markets were that the Federal Reserve was holding to a moderate credit policy and working to keep interest rates steady.

The Fed's weekly statistical report Thursday afternoon, showing declines in the basic measure of the money supply and in business loans at major New York banks, suggested that chances were good for continued stability in credit conditions.

The government, meanwhile, reported a sharp rise in orders for durable goods orders last month.

A less favorable bit of news from Washington came in the Labor Department report showing consumer prices rising at a 7.2 per cent annual rate in May, for the sharpest rise in six months.

But the figure wasn't very much higher than Wall Streeters had been expecting.

Most observers agreed that the market's biggest problem was the same internal one that has plagued it for months—stubborn resistance to all its efforts to make a lasting run past the Dow 1,000 mark.

Twice in the past week sellers knocked the average back below 1,000, evidently seeing that level as a kind of upper limit for stock prices for the present.

International Business Machines was a bright spot during the week, reaching a three-year high. Other big-name glamors like Xerox and Digital Equipment also did well.

Brokers said investing institutions seemed to be increasing their holdings of such stocks as they prepared their portfolios for end-of-quarter reports. Purolator, on the other hand, fell sharply following the company's estimate of lower second-quarter and first-half profits.

The over-all tally of Big Board-listed issues showed 978 gainers and 835 losers among the 2,076 traded.

New highs for the year totaled 177 against 34 lows.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .17 to 105.06.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 1.5 at 314.6.

A home that does many things

Planning a new home involves more than merely designing a handsome residence. In some instances, it becomes something of a philosophy, in that it combines a way of living for the people that will inhabit the house, with an esthetic accomplishment. Here is a home that does many things, as a well-designed home should.

The planning stage of your home is the best time to provide for the comforts you will want in the years to come. It is also the economical time to make such provisions. That is why we have provided very generous size rooms in this home. The additional square footage cost involved when enlarging room sizes prior to construction is very moderate and this reduces your overall cost

From the wide entry, there is excellent traffic circulation throughout the house. There are no offsets in the 30-foot wide living-dining room so that one can utilize as much space as they desire for each area.

Although both rooms are larger than usual, the family room and kitchen visually appear even larger as only a partial wall separate the two. This well-organized kitchen does not have on inefficient corner cabinet. It features an unusual amount of cabinets including a pantry. Cabinets have been arranged so that traffic does not have to be routed through the huge nook.

The ranch exterior has been achieved through the use of batt and board siding.

Complete working drawings for plan 41087 can be purchased for only $15.85 for the first set and $8.48 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until Oct. 20. Please allow at least three weeks for delivery. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06.

Also available are six home plan books illustrating in excess of 850 plans — a $10.34 value — for only $8.22 plus 60 cents for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P. O. Box 404-P.O. Northridge, CAlif. 91324.

PEGGY ALLISON

RELO eases moving

When a man gets a promotion or a new job that requires the family to move, it is often the wife who carries the biggest burden in uprooting and transplanting the family, explains Peggy Allison, 1975 top woman sales producer for Herbert Hawkins Realtors.

"Almost always the husband is busy with his business, making plans for the new job, and is exhilarated by its challenge," Mrs. Allison said.

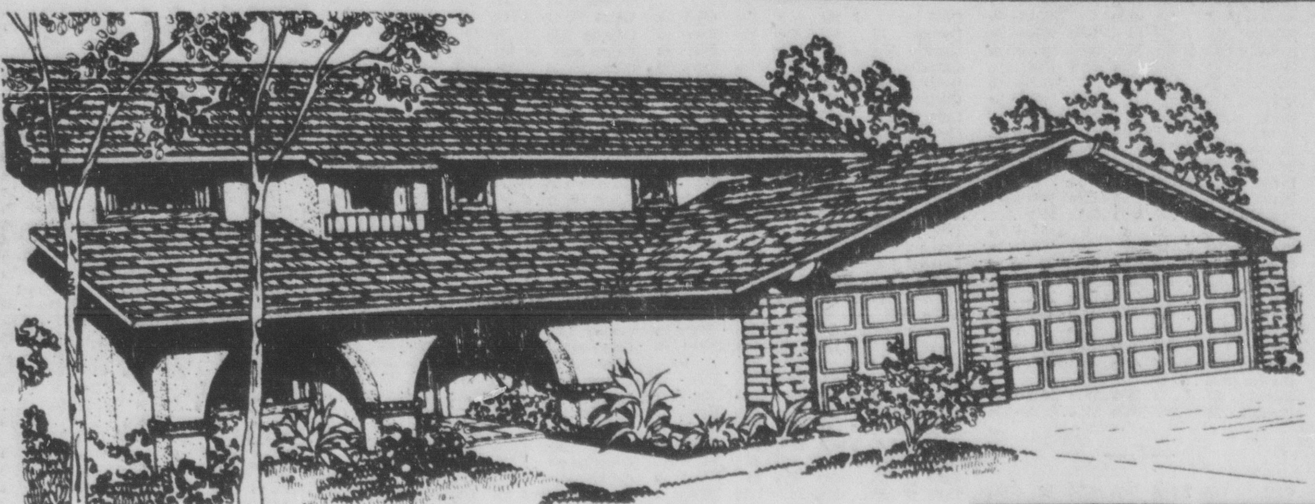
"That's not true with the wife. She has to deal with the packing up, the movers, the fears of her children about a new school and leaving old friends and all the little details, plus her own feelings about leaving her friends and activities."

The best way to handle these problems, said Mrs. Allison, is to get the whole family involved in the planning process for the move at the very start.

"Here is where a RELO (Inter-city Relocation Service) member can be a big help. As soon as we determine family needs, we'll make a phone call to a RELO member in the family's new town and they'll send information about schools, cost of living, clubs, neighborhoods and other information needed to ease the apprehension of a move," she said.

"RELO firms, like Herbert Hawkins, make a special effort to welcome the family, meet them at the airport, get motel reservations for them while they're looking for a new home and try to understand the family's lifestyle so they can find a home in a compatible neighborhood."

For further information on this special service, persons may call the Herbert Hawkins RELO Department at (213) 285-9811.



GRAND OPENING — A new series of Lewis-Homes Alta Loma is marking its grand opening in a scenic location near Carnelian Street north of 19th Street in Alta Loma. Builder Richard A. Lewis said the group is enjoying brisk buying and offers 10,000 square-foot lots.

Lewis' A.L. Homes have grand opening

Homes in the development are priced from $46,000 to $56,000 and are on lots measuring up to 10,000 square feet, Lewis said.

The homes have shake roofs and stone or brick accents, and offer three- and four-bedroom plans with up to 1,969 square feet of actual living area, the builder said. He added that one split-level model has been winning special attention from home seekers. It is among several single-level and multi-level plans available.

Another group of Lewis homes is located at the southwest corner of Carnelian Street and Banyan Avenue. It features refrigerated air-conditioned models with twin-sink master bath pullmans, 14-foot long eating counters and three-car garages. The homes are on 12,000-square-foot lots and feature a variety of floor plans. Prices start at $52,000.

The sales office is open daily and may be reached from the San Bernardino Freeway by turning north at the Vineyard Avenue exit in Ontario. From there the route is north on Vineyard to its junction with Carnelian Street.

Coop City's rent strike is creating national concern

NEW YORK (AP) — The people who live in Coop City are more than a little behind in their rent — more than $25 million behind.

Most of the nearly 15,000 families in the vast apartment complex, the largest in the country, are on a "rent strike." They say the latest hike in their rent — the third in as many years — is just too much and, for a year now, they haven't paid rent.

Their landlord, now a New York state agency, says the new increase of 25 per cent is entirely justified, part of the inflation that has raised not only the cost of housing but that of food, gasoline and almost everything else. The state also says the rents are fair compared with others in this high-rent city.

The legal hassle surrounding the dispute could result in the largest residential mortgage foreclosure in American history and possibly in the hugest eviction. The outcome will likely be of interest to officials dealing with a growing number of rent strikes elsewhere.

Such strikes — more often caused by a landlord's failure to make repairs or maintain apartments — have occurred in luxury housing in Washington, D.C., public housing in Newark, N.J., and in everthing from tenements to luxury apartments in New York.

At its simplest, the Coop City disagreement can be measured in the words of one tenant of the project and those of a state spokesman.

"I can't afford it," says Alice Uysal, a mother of three whose own mother lives with her and whose husband is out of work.

"It's fair ... definitely," says the man from the state Division of Housing.

The disputed increase, again put simply, would raise the monthly rent on the average two-bedroom apartment from $214 to $264.

But the conflict is by no means simple. It has produced several long, drawn-out lawsuits, including one in which tenants claim they were defrauded in the financing of the project. In another, the state successfully claimed the right to foreclose on the huge project, which was financed through state-supported bonds. Its population of 60,000 is as large as many American towns.

The foreclosure suit is the most crucial of the involved legal maneuverings. No foreclosure proceedings have been started since the ruling in early May, but the decision has set off a round of negotiations to end the rent strike.

Foreclosure would mean the tenants would lose $450 per room equity — a total of about $30 million they paid for their apartments. The project would be sold to a private developer and operated as a rental property rather than a cooperative. Exactly what else it would mean is uncertain, but it's possible that many tenants would be evicted.

The strikers have been banking all along that the state is not prepared to evict the 40,000 people involved in the strike.

"Nobody in this community is going to be thrown out," Charles Rosen, leader of the rent strike, said several weeks after the decision in the foreclosure suit. "This isn't Abbie Hoffman and the Yippies. This is 15,000 workers and their wives and children."

So there it stands: The tenants say they won't give up, won't pay the higher rent. They want a limit on the number of rent increases — the latest one comes on top of a 20 per cent hike in 1973 and a 12½ per cent jump in 1974.

They also want some control over the management of the project. Though it is called a cooperative, Coop City was run by a board in which resident members were outnumbered by management even before that management fell apart and the state took over.

George Sternlieb of Rutgers University's Center for Urban Policy Research sees other states and cities becoming more involved in rent disputes because of the increasing number of rent control laws and laws that allow withholding of rent.

Sternlieb lists Maryland and Massachusetts among states to recently adopt such enabling laws. New York and some of its suburbs, Berkeley, Calif., Fairbanks, Alaska, and Miami Beach are among cities with rent controls that would draw the government into any rent disputes.

At Coop City, the strike involves apartments built under a state program designed to provide housing for lower-or moderate-income people. The housing is financed through the sale of bonds backed by the state's "moral obligation."

In this case the bonds were sold — at 6.2 per cent interest — by the United Housing Foundation, a nonprofit corporation formed by a coalition of unions. The first tenants moved in late 1968 and watched the complex grow on 300 acres in The Bronx, one of the city's five boroughs. The land had been partly a garbage dump and partly a defunct amusement park called Freedomland.

What grew was indeed a "city." Its 60,000 residents — more than in Bismarck, N.D., or Atlantic City, N.J. — live in 35 buildings of from 24 to 33 stories. There are also, much like Bismarck or Atlantic City, schools, churches, synagogues, shops, restaurants. It even has a power plant.

Almost all the tenants came from New York, most from surrounding areas of The Bronx. They were attracted by low rents and a chance to escape from neighborhoods facing the deterioration and crime that have become the plague of the nation's older cities.

They had found new apartments in buildings surrounded by grass, trees, playgrounds and winding walks, instead of by crowded streets. It was not picture-postcard New York. Apartments were utilitarian, not luxurious. And they were a 45-minute bus ride from jobs in midtown Manhattan.

All that was all right. Rents were cheap. There was the $450 per room equity, returnable if the tenant moved at the end of a lease, and the monthly carrying charge, or rent, was to be $23 per room.

But by the time even early tenants moved in, the monthly rent had gone to $27 per room. And it kept going up until, in spring 1975, it was $43 per room. That was when the 25 per cent rent hike was announced, bringing average rents to $53.50 per room.

"That's when I became active," says Rosen, the 33-year-old printer who has taken a leave from his job to head the rent strike. He is now paid by the strike committee.

"We thought they would stay cheap," Rosen said of the rents. "People expected a clean, safe community, a nice New York community which they could afford. We were poor. The government said it was for poor people. 'That's us,' we said."

Rosen, who has a wife and two children, said the latest rent hike is simply more than most tenants can afford, particularly the more than 11,500 elderly who make up about a third of the project's households.

Myron Holtz, the housing division spokesman, said the average income in the project — exclusive of the elderly — is $15,000 before taxes.

When asked about the average income of the elderly, he said he did not know what it was but that 2,878 families listed income below $99 yearly. That was taxable income, in which Social Security would not count, he said. "Probably all these are elderly."

The elderly tenants already are having it tough living on retirement and Social Security payments in today's economy, said Murray Lerner, 71, head of the project's senior citizen groups.

Rent payments continue, even for the strikers, who send their rent checks to the strike committee. To avoid seizure of the money, the strike committee isn't cashing the checks, Rosen said.

There are inconveniences from the strike, too. Half the maintenance and security workers have been let go because the rent money is not there to pay them, said Holtz.

The tenants also are cleaning hallways in the buildings now and manning their own patrols against crime. Many, particularly the elderly, are worried about crime.

Despite the cost and inconveniences, tenants interviewed say they have no thoughts of moving elsewhere.

Mrs. Uysal, the woman with the out-of-work husband, does not want to go back to her old, deteriorating neighborhood. "This is the last outpost," she said. "There's no place to go from here."

The Portuguese began to explore West Africa in 1415.

DEAR POLLY — To remove that hard-to-get-at mildew that often appears in a tub, shower, on vinyl surfaces, etc., I put some liquid bleach in a clean spray bottle and spray it on the mildew. Let dry about five minutes and then scrub the stubborn crevices with a brush. Wipe away the mildew. Rinse with clear water. I do this once a week. —KATHRYN O.

THE WATER STRIDER CAN WALK ON TOP OF THE WATER BECAUSE THE SURFACE TENSION OF THE WATER HOLDS IT UP. Two Bicentennial projects receive an encore broadcast this week on ABC. "Huckleberry Finn," Mark Twain's immortal classic, starring Ron Howard, airs Saturday from 8 to 9:30PM. Ron's father, Rance Howard, portrays Pap Finn; his mother, Jean, portrays the Widow Douglas; and his brother Clint plays Arch. Jack Elam and country music singer Merle Haggard star in the roles of the King and the Duke, respectively, two con artists whose shenanigans deter Huck Finn and his black friend, Jim, from their road to freedom.

"The Man Without A Country," is the second special on Saturday night, from 9:30 to 11PM on ABC, starring Cliff Robertson. The production recreates the atmosphere of the 19th century, the setting for the tragic story of Philip Nolan, accused of being a traitor for conspiring with Aaron Burr. It was filmed entirely on location at Mystic, Conn., Newport, R.I., and Ft. Niagara, N.Y. Co-stars are Beau Bridges, Peter Strauss, Robert Ryan, Walter Abel, Geoffrey Holder, Sheppard Strudwick, John Cullum and Patricia Elliott.

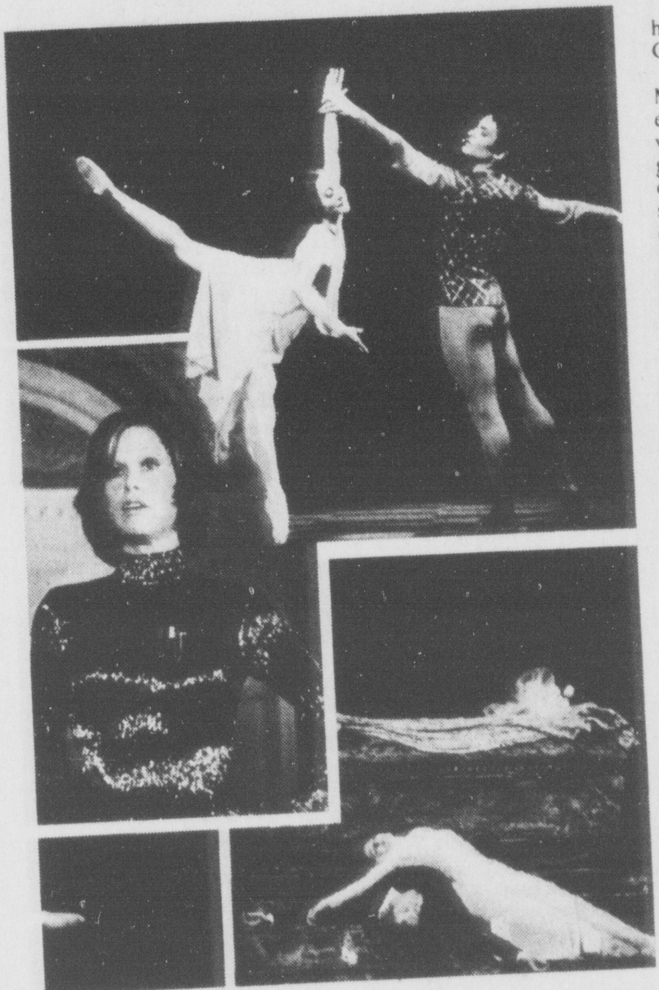
COVER CLOSE-UP

'THE BOLSHOI'



Mary Tyler Moore serves as hostess of "The Bolshoi Ballet: 'Romeo and Juliet'." Natalja Bessmertnova dances the tragic Juliet, partnered by Michail Lavrovsky as Romeo.

The 200th anniversary of Moscow's world-famous Bolshoi Ballet will be commemorated when GE Theater presents a specially taped performance of "The Bolshoi Ballet: 'Romeo and Juliet'" on CBS, Sunday from 8 to 10PM. Mary Tyler Moore is hostess for the special presentation of the Sergei Prokofiev work, which features leading dancers of the renowned ballet company. The Bolshoi Ballet, together with the Bolshoi Opera, constitute the Bolshoi Theater, which since its founding on March 28, 1776 has fostered the creative growth of some of the world's finest dancers.

Shakespeare's immortal tragic love story has been treated some 14 times by several of the world's greatest composers, including Berlioz, Tschaikowsky and Bellini. But the Prokofiev version, which was first performed in Leningrad at the Kirov Ballet 36 years ago, is particularly prized by critics for the power of its musical portraiture and the dramatic descriptive qualities of its lyric themes.

When Prokofiev, who died in 1953, wrote the now universally acclaimed score for "Romeo and Juliet," he remarked that he had "taken special pains to achieve a simplicity which will, I hope, reach the hearts of all listeners." The composer's goal has been realized: the music is an international concert hall favorite; the ballet has become a repertoire staple of numerous companies and a ballet-film, produced in Russia in 1954, has been seen widely throughout the world.

When "Romeo and Juliet" was first produced at the Kirov in Leningrad in 1940, Galina Ulanova, now the ballet mistress of the Bolshoi, created the role of Juliet. Mme. Ulanova, called "The Wonder of the World," is interviewed on camera on the GE Theater presentation by Mary Tyler Moore. Now dancing Juliet is Natalja Bessmertnova, and Romeo is Michail Lavrovsky, son of Leonid Lavrovsky, the ballet-master who choreographed the original work. They head the Bolshoi's cast of 125 dancers.

The orchestra is under the direction of Algis Shuraitis, who has conducted all the Bolshoi ballets for the past 12 years. Yury Grigorovich is the troupe's principal ballet master.

Emmy-award winning star Mary Tyler Moore loves the sun of Malibu as much as the Russians love caviar. But she loves ballet even more, which readily explains one of the reasons she withstood freezing weather in Moscow last January to serve as guest hostess for this presentation. Only the ardor of the star-crossed lovers in this magnificent work could thaw out television's favorite lady, who started her show business career as a dancer. For Mary, the trip to the Soviet Union was an impossible dream, but one that finally came true. Imagine stepping off a plane in Moscow tanned from the California sun into a snowy wonderland steeped in history and suddenly being assaulted by deep freeze.

"It was really cold, 10 degrees below zero," Mary recalls. "Fortunately, I hide my miseries. I had to have special thermal linings put in my coats.

Such discomfort was quickly forgotten when Mary first glimpsed the Bolshoi Theater, whose 200th anniversary is being celebrated with this gala performance. "It was thrilling," she enthuses. "I was really awed. I vaguely remember a scene from 'Red Shoes' in a theater that at the time I thought was magnificent but it in no way could compare to this theater. There must have been at least six tiers of balconies, all gilt decorated, plus red velvet everywhere, and a stage so large it can accommodate not only the dancers, but the orchestra as well."

What Mary found particularly exciting was the afternoon rehearsal. "Dancers in leotards are universal," she said. They're the same no matter where you go. The leotards were black, soiled and had holes in them. It all had a very familiar look to me."

Our Brassy Bicentennial,
A Birthday Tribute
By Rod McKuen,
To Begin America's
200th Birthday Week.

"It's taken me two hundred years

I have earned the right to see

By Rod McKuen
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

Ellen Graham

Rod McKuen: "I know my history lesson . . ."

So many have by now bemoaned the fact that America's 200th birthday has become a big sales conference, a buy-centennial rather than the Bicentennial.

While red, white and blue toilet seats and caskets—or a California beauty parlor advertising three commemorative hairdos for men: one with 13 curls to represent the original colonies; a second with vertical stripes; and a third with "bonnie blue bangs" to help the Confederacy get into the act—may be stretching taste to its snapping point, make me a minority of one who feels the attention, the overplay, the tub-thumping, the pop art, the parades—and, yes, even the commercialism—aren't altogether unnecessary ways to draw our attention to the nation's birthday.

If America is the capital of anything—and it certainly remains the capital of the free world—it is the seat and capital and starting place of commercialism. Americans have always been entrepreneurs, inventors of the luxury that became necessity—and we're our own best tub-thumpers. I for one like the idea of being referred to as living in a capitalistic country. I wouldn't have it any other way.

It's interesting that some of the critics from within who attract the most attention are those people who have become famous, successful and even rich from the land they live in and off of. Not confined to any political party—the far right, the far left or those who tread water in between—they are perhaps so conscience-ridden that they have forgotten how it was they made their living, by what constitution and standard, under which flag and on what soil they trod as they worked their way to whatever success they have attained.

Yes, I get uptight at tri-colored disposable diapers and starred Bicentennial poker chips (or maybe not uptight, but I do smile slightly and shake my head from side to side). Though the "Star-Spangled Banner," with its reference to battles and gunfire, remains the most difficult song I know to sing and remember, it's nice to see a country displaying its flag so much and so often this year. If it takes commemorative dinner napkins, toys, fashions, shaving mugs, towels, toothbrushes, bed sheets, commercial aircraft, train tickets, preachers in churches with altars draped in flaglike bunting, and people painting their porches—if it takes all that to remember our heritage, our Constitution, what brought us here and, most of all, our birthday, that's just fine.

> "If it takes commemorative dinner napkins, toys, fashions, shaving mugs, towels, toothbrushes, bed sheets, commercial aircraft, train tickets, preachers in churches . . . to remember our heritage, our Constitution, what brought us here and, most of all, our birthday, that's just fine."

Maybe the small businessman selling Bicentennial jewelry will have a bigger profit this year. Maybe the jigsaw puzzles commemorating the scenes of Valley Forge, Concord and "The Maine" will cause the children putting them together to ask questions about the country. It could be that the preacher delivering his Bicentennial sermon will remember that the family of man consists of everyone everywhere and not just a chosen few belonging to his church or denomination. I would love it if red, white and blue reminded us throughout our lifetimes that this country has so much more to be proud of than ashamed of, and if some call it sentimental or silly or overly patriotic to be patriotic, then so what?

I love America and what it's done for me and all the people living here I know and don't know. I love my country enough to want to live here the rest of my life.

Bring on your Bicentennial merchandise and memorabilia and minutes, line up your people dressed as Minutemen and Betsy Ross and Washington. Show me yet again America on Parade at Disneyland, Six Flags Over Texas waving proudly, the people of Philadelphia presenting a replica of the Liberty Bell to Washington, D.C., because the real one is too old and weak to be moved. Let me see more children with red, white and blue ribbons in their hair. We're only halfway through our 200th birthday celebration, and I still haven't had enough. fw

COLORS OF THE FLAG

By Rod McKuen

Red should not always stand for blood
not even that spilled by our fathers
and our sons
in the great parade of wars with numbers one two three.
Red is a sunset color,
a painted desert dye
the color of the Arizona plains
and at certain times, the West Virginia sky.

Pride and purity may use the color white
but snow topped Colorado mountains,
ice across the Great Lakes in December
and Alaska every day of winter time
claim the color first.
Not to mention that long strand of sandy Utah
and every New York/California beach.

So many uniforms are blue
that we forget the Truckee and the Mississippi
blue sky ocean to ocean, blue ocean sky to sky.

I know my history lesson, learned it well
that this nation to become a nation
ran forward into battle shouting freedom!
and often bore the tattered tri-color home again
for men to mend and start another battle new.

Aware I am
that flag makers make new fortunes
every Veterans/Decoration Day
and broken bodies bathed in canvas
and the stars and stripes
have slid off ten thousand ships,
maybe twenty thousand more,
to rest upon the bottom of the mother sea.
Excelsior at Iwo Jima.
Bully at Bull Run.
One small step for all mankind
murmured on the moon.
Peace with honor . . . somewhere.

Gold Star mothers have their pride. Me too.
But I would rather paint my colors
on a bright balloon
children then would wave at me
they never did the moon.

Old men who sit at tables making wars
don't do so in my name.
Not once, not twice, never again.
It's taken me two hundred years
to come down to this place
I have earned the right to see red, white and blue
not on a battered standard borne in battle
but on my brother's face.

I love my flag.
To me it stands for love
kindness even to my enemy
and most of all, for brotherhood.

Observations™

Man bites dog. It's hardly news that we would oppose legislation in Congress to break up the larger oil companies.

But when editorial writers for some of the nation's leading newspapers make independent judgments that divestiture spells bad legislation, we think that's legitimate news. And so, in the interest of a free flow of information, we present the following editorial comments:

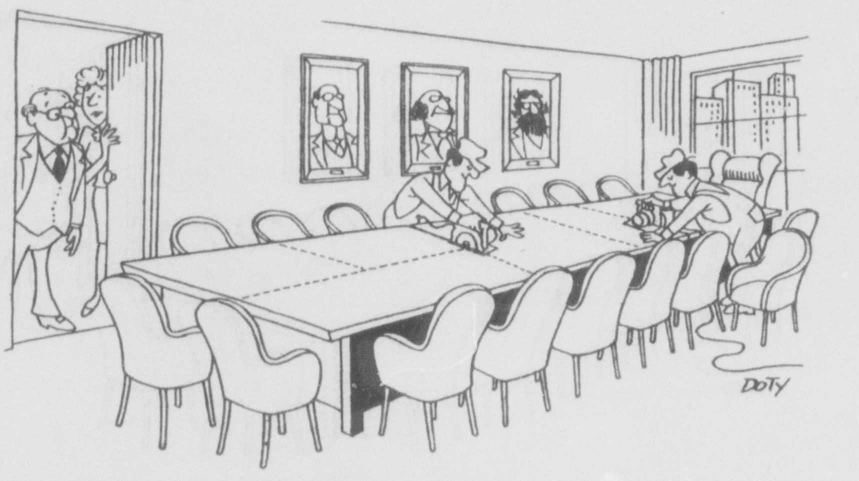
THE ARIZONA REPUBLIC
"Breaking up the oil companies would be a national disaster."

THE KANSAS CITY STAR "The people pushing divestiture are not doing anything to ease the energy shortage or bring down prices; they are just playing to the political galleries by trying to sock it to Big, Bad Oil."

The Hartford Times "The effort by some liberal congressmen to force divestiture by the nation's major petroleum companies is so laughable that the initial inclination is to ignore the rantings as petty demagoguery. Unfortunately, history has proven that petty demagoguery, when ignored, all too often can succeed in achieving incredibly destructive ends."

TULSA DAILY WORLD "At a time when the country faces a growing and dangerous shortage of domestic fuel supplies, it would seem incredible that Congress would attempt to punish people who are investing their money and talent in the search for new sources."

THE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW of Spokane: "A Federal Energy Administration study indicates that requiring oil companies to split up would result in less production and higher prices to consumers. If this is true, it would be a clearcut case of cutting off one's nose to spite one's face."



" WE'RE BEING DIVESTED"

THE INDIANAPOLIS STAR "The industry as presently structured has served the nation very well. It could continue to do so if government would let it alone."

San Francisco Chronicle "Once big oil is broken up, who's next? It is logical to expect that the line will form on the left, of course, to bust up the automobile industry, steel, aluminum, the computer industry, and anything else big and inviting."

DESERET NEWS of Salt Lake City: "... instead of trying to break up oil companies, the government should get on with the job of formulating a rational and comprehensive national energy policy."

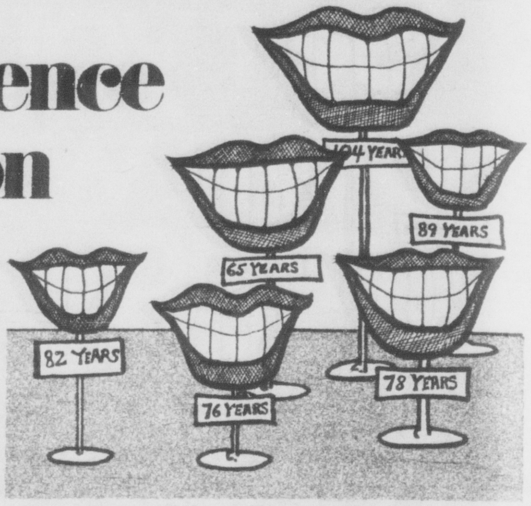
When Science Borders on Magic...



True or False? The longer your teeth last, the longer you're likely to. (See number 5.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It is not unusual for a person to experience a "personality transplant" and suddenly assume the character traits and mannerisms of someone who is no longer alive.

2. If you hear queer, phantomlike music during moments of extreme duress—almost drowning, suffocating or when being given anesthetics—this is simply a hallucination.

3. Warts are responsive to hypnotic suggestion. They will go away if told to.

4. A person's thoughts, feelings and emotions are sometimes broadcast telepathically and received by friends in the form of dreams.

5. The longer your teeth last, the longer you're likely to.

6. Some people believe in a previous existence. But how they view that previous lifetime is likely to depend on whether they are introverts or extroverts.

ANSWERS

1. True. A University of Michigan study shows that for a person "abruptly to assume the physical or personality traits of a person no longer living is neither exceptional nor bizarre." One young man, after experiencing the loss of someone close to him, returned to college with a completely changed personality. He became brash, hearty and assertive—utterly unlike his previous self, but virtually the image of the deceased person. He also adopted many of the other person's facial mannerisms, his habit of pipe smoking, even his gait. This type of "personality transplant" may occur under a wide variety of circumstances.

2. False. A psychological study of numerous cases indicates that "this music is in fact an objective occurrence and not a hallucination." Which is another way of saying that people actually hear this music, coming in loud and clear as though transmitted by some invisible radio. The investigation showed that such music varied with the type of duress and ranged from downright eerie to very beautiful.

3. True—according to studies in which subjects with common warts were divided into two groups. One group was hypnotized and told that their warts would disappear. The other group was untreated. Results: 53 percent of the experimental group responded to treatment, but no change was observed in the warts of the untreated group. Conclusion: The findings suggest that hypnosis has a general effect on the subjects' responses to the causative virus. But exactly how this happens has not been completely determined.

4. True. A University of California study cites a case in which the thoughts and ideas that occurred to a subject while walking during a storm were depicted in the dreams of four friends. Weather conditions have been found to have a definite influence on such occurrences. Some experts believe that the atmospheric ions during a storm "have strong psychological and physiological effects upon human beings . . . and can enhance telepathic performance in subjects already having telepathic ability."

5. True—as indicated by University of Massachusetts studies which show that dental decay—along with such stress ailments as heart disease or diabetes—results from the body's reaction to a destructive lifestyle. This may involve dietary factors, amount of physical exercise, mental attitude or various conditions resulting in emotional stress. It's concluded that dental caries may be controlled by changing one's lifestyle and that tooth decay may be an early indication of one's overall health. Previous studies have shown that worry and anxiety are significant factors in tooth decay.

6. True. In a study conducted at Southern Illinois University, introverts and extroverts were hypnotically regressed through their lives and finally told their present lives would fade and that they would see themselves in a prior life. The introverts saw their previous lifetimes in terms of tensions, frustrations, uncertainties and disappointments. The extroverts saw their previous lives as happy, pleasant and sociable. Whether what they were seeing were fantasies or actual previous lives—well, that depends on your own attitude toward reincarnation. fw

In seven days thousands of Americans, led by the President, will gather at Philadelphia to rededicate themselves to the abiding principles of the Declaration of Independence. It will be July 4th, precisely 200 years since the Founding Fathers gave us the legacy of Freedom.

As part of the impressive ceremonies that day, they will inaugurate Official First Day Covers . . . the first-editions . . . of our Nation's Official Bicentennial stamps. Stamps recapturing the moment America was born . . . the Declaration of Independence.

Appropriately, the Philadelphia '76 Commission will issue the Official First Day Cover of these inspiring stamps. Each officially-certified by the historic, one-day-only, First Day of Issue postmark available only on July 4, 1976, and only at Philadelphia.

Until July 4, you may reserve this Official First Day Cover for yourself and for your family. This is an important opportunity. Because of this issue's historic and patriotic value. And, because the stamps will not be available elsewhere until after July 4. Thus, only the first edition will be postmarked on the exact Bicentennial Day.

A handsome presentation album housing the engraved signatures of the 56 Signers of our noble Declaration will be included without additional charge to protect each Official First Day Cover (Limit: Five) you order. Postmark your order not later than July 4, 1976, and mail it directly to the world-renowned Fleetwood Company, 1 Unicover Center, Cheyenne, Wyoming 82008, which has been appointed by the Philadelphia '76 Commission to produce the Official First Day Cover and to process and fulfill all orders.

You, your children, and their children will forever be inspired by this historic commemorative. Reserve it today.

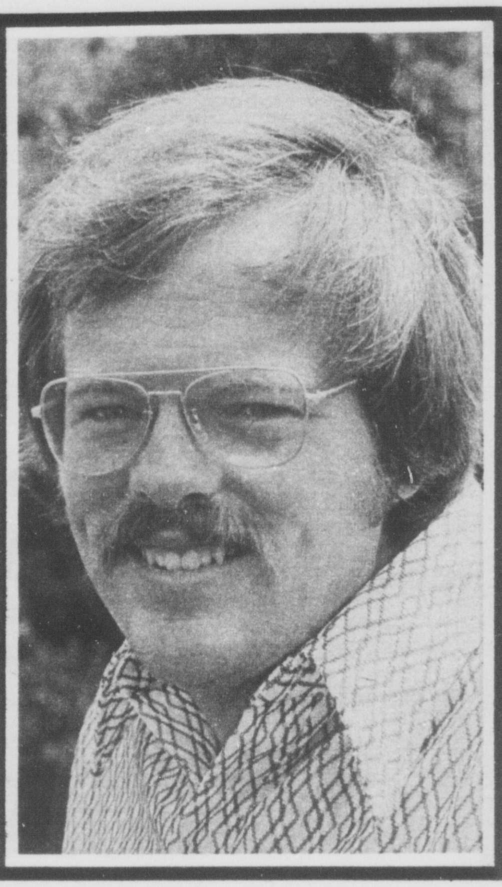
GOLFER ROGER MALTBIE:

He Owes His Success to His Father— And to Epilepsy!



Roger Maltbie is a 24-year-old golfer from San José, Calif., who collected $81,000 in prize money on the P.G.A. tour last year and won honors as "Rookie of the Year." He is also an epileptic. Maltbie came down with a mild form of the disease when he was 8 years old. It caused him to have 30-second blackouts, and when he played baseball, balls went past him in the field. "As a result, I gave up baseball and took up golf because I could play it on my own terms," he recalls. Medication controlled the epilepsy before he entered high school and it has been no bar to his career. But once having found the world of golf, he decided to stick with it. . . . "My dad gave me a membership to a country club when I was in high school, but I had to work after school to get money for clubs, balls and entry fees," he says. "Dad used to tell me, 'Nothing comes free in this world; you have to earn it yourself.' His advice was the chief reason for my developing enough self-determination to prove myself." . . . Maltbie had intended to compete in the major amateur tournaments, but he couldn't afford it, so he jumped right into the pros in 1973. "I didn't have an amateur record, so I had no way of knowing if I was good enough to make it in this sport," he says. "I had a lot to prove to myself." He did. In 1975, he won both the Quad Cities Open in Illinois and the Pleasant Valley Classic. Moreover, he won them in successive weeks—an unheard-of feat for a P.G.A. newcomer. During a celebration held after his second victory, he mislaid his $40,000 first-prize check. Luckily, an honest stranger found it and returned it. . . . Maltbie finished a close second in the Phoenix Open early this year and was tied for third in the prestigious "Tournament Players Championship." He thinks his chances to wind up with a $100,000 year are "very good." . . . Maltbie has the temperament of a winner. He doesn't blow up over missed shots and maintains a calm composure throughout his play. He has also established himself as one of the friendliest and most popular personalities in professional golf.

The Doctor Lets You In

What Sulfa Drugs Are Really All About

Taking sulfa drugs? Want to know what they're all about? Well, they're quickly absorbed and excreted, so they're still widely used in kidney, ureter and bladder infections. The large dosages must be continually flushed through the urinary tract to prevent their settling there, so patients on sulfas are urged to drink up to two quarts of water daily. Sulfas, modified in the lab, are now used to treat bacterial infections of the bowel, some meningitis and some virus and fungus infections. Sulfas also have chemical cousins used to lower blood sugar for people with mild diabetes, and millions use sulfa-type drugs in diuretics that treat fluid retention. Sulfa drugs still turn up in preparations to treat skin infections, too.

I'll never forget my first contact with sulfa. For weeks, my father lay critically ill, back in the 1930's, with a then-lethal strep infection of the skin. A New Jersey physician sent to Germany for a new bacteria-fighting medication that—yes, miraculously—got my father out of bed and gave him many added years of life. Sulfa drugs deserved their blaze of glory as they conquered stubborn strep and pneumonia germs and some kinds of diphtheria and croup-causing bacteria. But they're slow compared with the penicillin and mycin drugs which kill germs on contact instead of merely arresting their growth, as sulfa does. So sulfa drugs have been all but discarded for use against respiratory infections.

Special Tip: If you develop any side effects while taking a medicine, ask your doctor right away. Discuss any previous drug reactions. Medications you least suspect may be related to the one troubling you now.

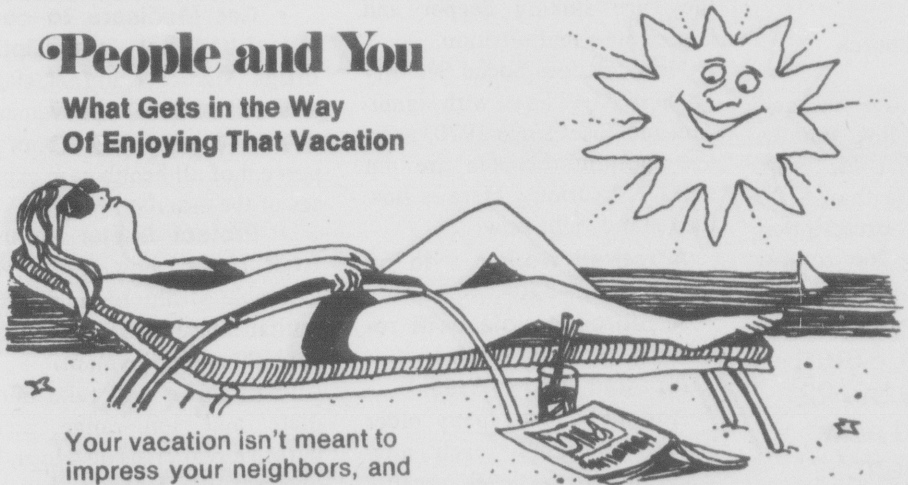
People and You

What Gets in the Way Of Enjoying That Vacation



Your vacation isn't meant to impress your neighbors, and you're not obliged to bring back sensational pictures, says psychiatrist Francis L. Clark. To enjoy your holiday fully, he suggests: 1) Stop feeling guilty when you're doing nothing. If lying on the beach is all you really feel like doing, then lie on the beach. Rid yourself of the idea that you "ought" to be shopping for souvenirs or climbing the famous mountain or rushing through a list of sightseeing. It's your vacation. Do nothing if you want to, and enjoy it! 2) Don't expect too much. A simple vacation can't save a marriage. Realize, too, that perfect weather exists only in travel posters. 3) Know people very well before you agree to travel with them. They may be fun to be with for a few hours on a Saturday night, but how will you feel after being with them 16 hours a day seven days a week? 4) Be realistic about extended family visits. Though they can be great times that you wouldn't want to miss, they usually aren't pure vacations, either. 5) Finally, beat the letdown at the end of your holiday by immediately beginning to plan your next one. —By Shirley Sloan Fader

Older People As "Them"—And The Cruel Shock When They're "Us"

"What appears to be a 'must' at the beginning of the month may well become a 'maybe' later. Breakfasts and lunches are skipped. Meat becomes a memory."

The Lord giveth
and Uncle Sam
taketh away

At a Portland hearing, Mrs. Mildred Bailey of Eugene, Ore., protests a proposed cut in retirement benefits.

By Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho)

Chairman of the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging

Sen. Frank Church

Know what witnesses are telling the Senate Committee on Aging these days? They're talking about a losing race with destitution.

A doctor in Portland, Ore., told how his greatest problem with elderly patients is hypertension, largely because they can't obtain the medicine he prescribes. "Although their incomes are marginal," he said, they're not on welfare, so their drugs aren't paid for. Their hypertension goes untreated unless I go out and scrounge medicine on my own. If power rates are increased, I suspect these people will turn down the heat or go without heat."

At the same hearing, a man in his 60's spoke up. He told how many people were facing a crisis in Portland because their "sleeping rooms"—usually in old, rundown hotels—were going up from $48 to $60 a month. Tenants are not allowed to cook in their quarters, and it costs at least $4 a day for one outside hot meal and two cold room-fixed meals. That's $120 a month for food, plus $60 for rent. This totals $180, which is $4.30 over the Oregon old-age payment. And that's not counting the costs of clothing, transportation, laundry, over-the-counter drugs and the incidentals of life."

At a hearing in Boston, a 68-year-old man broke into tears when he testified that he would have to wait two more years to become eligible for a State property-tax reduction on his home. He couldn't afford that wait. In Memphis, a silver-haired widow, whose husband had died just a few months before, testified that for years they had paid more than $100 monthly for the prescription drugs he needed for several chronic conditions. And a razor-sharp lady in Boston, who described herself as "way up in the 70 bracket, in age," brought marketplace facts with her to the hearing: oil bills of $550, real-estate taxes of $800, home insurance premiums of $112, etc., etc. "How do you figure it?" she asked. "How are you going to carry on?"

"Many younger Americans still view the 22 million people now over 65 as 'them.'"

How indeed? How, at a time when budget-making on a retirement is narrowing down to fewer and fewer "musts" and a growing number of "maybes"? Whatever else happens, a roof must be kept over one's head. You must pay for electricity or heating. But what about prescription drugs? Six out of seven seniors have at least one chronic illness. And yet, as the Portland doctor told us, prescriptions are often a "maybe."

Next on the budget is food, and what appears to be a "must" at the beginning of the month may well be a "maybe" later. Breakfasts and lunches are skipped. Meat becomes a memory. And when some people falter and say by way of excuse, "I must be getting old," they really may be admitting that they are sinking deeper and deeper into malnutrition.

A retired worker with no dependents—$204.

A retired couple both receiving benefits—$348.

An aged widow—$195.

And of course, many older Americans don't reach anywhere near these levels because they were low earners during their work years or because they were not eligible for Social Security for one reason or another. For them, Supplemental Security Income, or SSI, went into effect 2 years ago. Some 2.3 million SSI recipients are 65 or over, and they are guaranteed a minimum monthly income of $157.70 for an individual and $236.60 for a couple. These sums, unless supplemented in major ways by state funds, are below official poverty levels.

What should be done? This brief article is no place for a complex statement on how to end inflation. But here are six principal actions I would like to see taken:

- Make the Social Security and SSI cost-of-living adjustment payments payable twice a year rather than once. And make the formula on which they are based more realistically reflect the way older persons actually spend their money.
- Raise SSI *at least to the poverty level. It's a shame that this nation has not yet committed itself to that modest goal.
- Get Medicare to cover out-of-hospital prescription drugs. Medicare, in fact, stands in need of many improvements; it now covers only about 38 percent of all health-care expenses of the elderly.
- Protect Social Security trust funds, now under considerable strain because of simultaneous inflation and widespread unemployment. I am sure Congress will take immediate and long-range action before a real crisis develops, but one way not to go is that suggested by President Ford—a regressive, across-the-board increase in payroll tax.
- Recognize that many older Americans resent reductions in Social Security payments if they continue to work past age 65. Even part-time work can put them over the ceiling. Stretching this limit, with an eye to its elimination, would help many people earn the dollars they need to cope with today's prices.
- Don't cut back on necessary services to the elderly, even when the Administration calls for so-called paring down. A group-meals program, for example, now provides sociability as well as nutrition. And subsidized transportation can help other elders stay out of nursing homes and hospitals, while saving them the $5 or $10 a ride which other forms of travel might cost them.

Many younger Americans still view the 22 million people now 65 or over as "them." The extreme fate of "them" was gloomily anticipated in a 1968 novel by Marya Mannes. She wrote that people past age 50 would be institutionalized and ultimately disposed of. Another estimate has been fashioned by psychiatrist and gerontologist Robert Butler, who complains about the "age-ism" of our times. He tells us that even physicians shun the older patient and that most people somehow associate retirement with death. And of course older people are prime targets for crime—not only because they are relatively helpless, but because young people have an overt contempt for the "old crocks" who are their victims.

> "Older people are prime targets for crime—not only because they are relatively helpless, but because young people have an overt contempt for the 'old crocks' who are their victims."

But there is a sunny side to aging, and it is best seen at the community level. There, big but largely unnoticed things are happening. Older people are finding their own voices to shape programs brought to them by government, by private agencies or—more and more frequently—by their own initiatives. Senior centers are turning into headquarters for meal programs and other services, while triggering an esprit unmatched by anything else I've seen.

The best way to right negative attitudes toward aging, even in difficult economic times, is to think in terms of "us" instead of "them," in self-interest as well as compassion. Aging is one of the few experiences everyone is sure to share in, and old age should be a final satisfaction, not just a bitter finale.

MARGOT FONTEYN
Anything can be everything

Margot Fonteyn on our insecurities: "This lack of self-worth people feel so much today comes in part because, although they may be particularly gifted at certain things, those things are not encouraged or considered important. You can't say to somebody, 'You make a wonderful apple pie,' without that person replying, 'But it doesn't matter. I'm not a famous singer or actress or businesswoman or anybody that anybody else has heard of.' Nobody ever told them that making a good apple pie is very important in itself. This insecurity is a result of improper upbringing and education—we must encourage all our children to believe that anything they do well is worthwhile." Does the still very beautiful 57-year-old ballerina feel she has made a special contribution through her art? "I don't think I've added anything to ballet, but I have striven to maintain an excellence of standard that my predecessors set. Dancing should always be an essentially happy pursuit. When you dance for the public, they should leave the theatre with a good feeling. Dance is not something which should depress this already overburdened world." (Miss Fonteyn's autobiography has just been published by Knopf at $12.95).

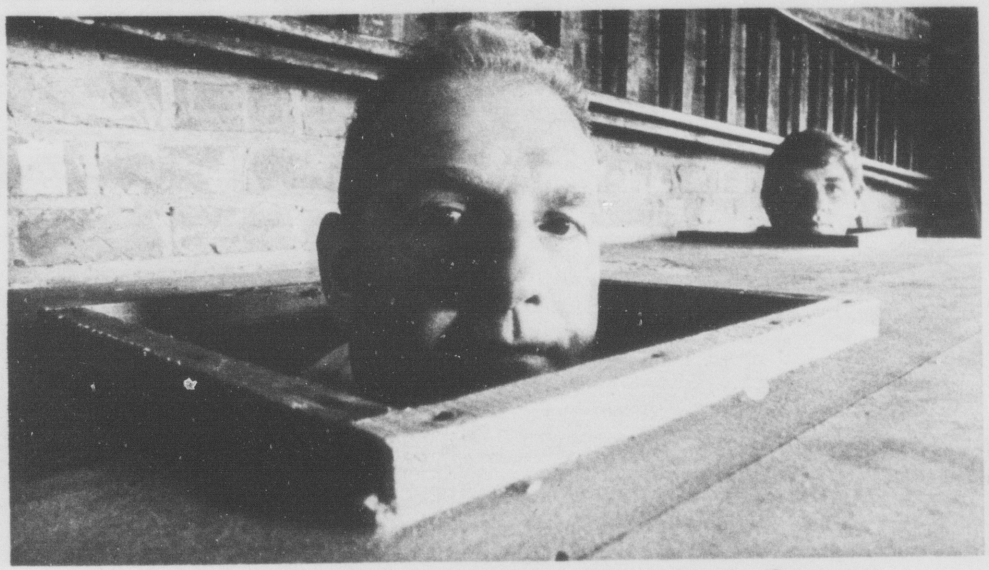
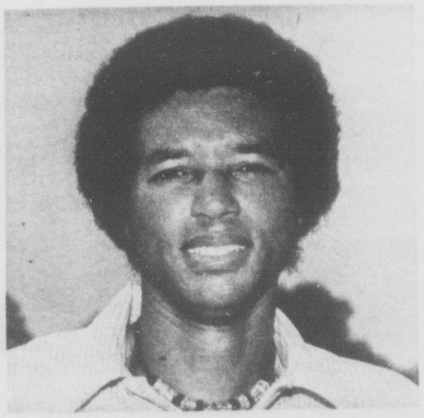
"Cute, Pop. A bit over-dramatic—but cute . . ."



Camera Press

Louis Luypaerts and Marc de Maere come up for air after more than 100 days in an underground "tomb."

Back from "the grave": You can't suffer from claustrophobia and do what Belgians Louis Luypaerts and Marc de Maere did. They were entombed for 101 and 105 days, respectively, in a large wooden coffin. Luypaerts talking: "It was torture. I still can't move my legs properly. After a few days, you stop thinking about anything other than pretty colors and rich food. It isn't anything I'd recommend—it's like being a vegetable." But there were lucrative awards for both—they charged their 50,000 visitors admission. Luypaerts gave his $12,500 to charity and to a local brass band. De Maere, ironically the son of an undertaker, was not quite as generous but did buy a friend a new motorcycle. But after all their pain and suffering, they just found out that two other Belgians are now underground and plan to stay for 180 days.



ARTHUR ASHE
No safety valve

Arthur Ashe on coping with losing: "I take defeat harder all the time. After a defeat, the press and the autograph-seekers make me feel as if I'm on trial. Sympathy for myself comes next. Only after the embarrassment and self-pity does the disappointment set in. It's only after I leave the locker room that I begin to see the defeat in cold technical terms. I waver between extremes, between the emotional and pragmatic solutions. First, I decide that I must break my game down and go out like a tiger and practice every component part three hours a day. I will overcome my weaknesses, defeat them, I tell myself. And then, I wonder why I don't just give it up and take a regular job and collect my gold watch 35 years from now? I think losing is tougher on single guys, maybe because I'm single. My chief focal point is tennis. I have a lot of other interests, but no one single counterbalance, like a family. The married guys seem to have more of a safety valve. How many times have I seen a guy come off the court really down after a hard loss, and he walks out of the locker room, and his pretty little daughter runs up to him, and it's all forgotten. I'm not one for drinking my disappointment away. I just have dinner and maybe gamble a little." From Arthur Ashe: Portrait in Motion," by Arthur Ashe with Frank Deford (Ballantine, $1.95).

Biggest battle in Lebanon civil war rages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Rightwing Christians launched fresh assaults Saturday afternoon against two Palestinian refugee camps in the biggest battle of the civil war and fighting continued with "unprecedented ferocity," Beirut Radio reported.

The five-day battle over the refugee camps on the southeastern fringe of Beirut has left the hillside zone littered with decomposing bodies.

Moslem-controlled Beirut Radio said Palestinian guerrillas and Moslem leftists, trying to relieve pressure on the camps, attacked Christian positions in the mountains eight miles east of Beirut and there were artillery, mortar and machine gun duels.

It reported that Libyan Premier Abdel Salem Jalloud met with leftist leaders and was making other contacts to try and arrange a new cease-fire.

An overnight missile duel set dozens of apartment buildings afire elsewhere in the city. A rightist radio report said "casualties are high" and the Palestinian refugee camps of Tal Zaatar and Jisr El-Basha were "under a thick pall of black smoke from raging fires."

A leftist radio report said at least 50 Christian fighters were killed and 135 wounded in a morning attack on the camps where about 25,000 Palestinians live surrounded by Christian controlled territory.

Trails of fire across the sky from the shelling contrasted with Beirut's near total blackout. The city has been without electricity, water, telephones or telegraph communications for three days.

Radio reports, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, told of "an acute shortage of bread" in Beirut, and reported urgent appeals from both sides for outside Arab intervention to end the bloodshed.

"The tragedy stems from the fact there is no force capable of enforcing an agreement," declared Pierre Gemayel of the rightist Phalange party, which fields the largest Christian force.

The commander of the breakaway Moslem "Lebanese Arab Army" called on the new Arab peace force to stop the attacks on the camps.

The guerrillas said they repulsed an attack by an estimated 6,000 Christian militiamen and 130 tanks and armored cars trying to overrun the Palestinian camps.

A spokesman said the assault, lasting 14 hours, involved some of the "ugliest hand to hand combat" of the long war, which has taken 28,500 lives by conservative estimates.

Warring sides estimated at least 600 combatants and civilians had been killed so far in the refugee camp battle.

Christians said they opened an artillery barrage setting the stage for a new offensive. "Capture of the camps proved harder than anticipated," admitted a spokesman for Camille Chamoun's National Liberal party militia.

"The guerrillas turned both areas into forts complete with an underground tunnel, communication system and huge arsenals of all kinds of weapons and ammunition," the spokesman added. "We are still determined to take them to ensure safe communications routes in Lebanon's Christian areas."

Financial crises of cities are spreading

Conditions worsening; mayors put blame on inflation, joblessness

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The nation's cities will continue to face severe financial difficulties unless the federal and state governments assume responsibility for such things as education and welfare, according to the president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Moon Landrieu of New Orleans released a 136-city conference report Saturday showing that the financial crises which plague many large Northern cities are spreading to suburban communities and to the nation's "Sun Belt."

In opening the 44th annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Landrieu said city financial conditions have worsened considerably in recent years due to unemployment and inflation. The New Orleans mayor said the fiscal traumas "are now starting to affect the suburban areas."

Landrieu said states should pick up costs of education in an effort to equalize the quality of education between wealthier suburban areas and some struggling urban centers.

He also said the federal government should assume full costs of welfare and Medicaid, lifting a huge burden from some city budgets, especially in financially troubled New York City. New York begins its new fiscal year Thursday, and its final city financial plan is being polished for the Emergency Financial Control Board.

New York and Denver are the largest cities now paying part of their welfare bills. Local governments, usually counties, pay 25 per cent of the total welfare cost.

The conference reports say austerity city budgets are being submitted coast to coast by mayors struggling "to deal with the problems of spiraling inflation and recession."

The study indicates that such communities as Beverly Hills, Calif., and Phoenix, Ariz., are confronting harsh financial realities that earlier had brought massive layoffs and cutbacks in cities such as Detroit and New York.

"It's unfortunate, but predictable, that suburban areas are facing fiscal difficulties," Landrieu said. He told reporters that suburbs are extensions of cities "and are beginning to develop some of the same problems."

Landrieu said in seeking a solution to their financial plight, mayors should ask that a set percentage of the federal budget be set aside for disbursement to state and local governments.

He said the current revenue-sharing bill, now before the Senate, provides funding of $6.6 billion a year for the next 3¾ years, assuring annual cutbacks in city services as inflation cuts the worth of each dollar.

The mayors will focus this week on finances and party politics, with Jimmy Carter, Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., of California, and two Republican Cabinet members speaking to the city officials this week.

While about 400 big-city mayors convened, Mayor Abraham D. Beame didn't. He remained in New York polishing the financial plan the city will implement on Thursday when the city's new fiscal year begins.

Beame faces an imminent crisis with labor contracts covering 120,000 workers about to expire. The conference report indicates more cities than ever also may be facing personnel and spending cutbacks.

"For the first time, cities of every size and representing every geographic area, including the sunbelt, are being forced to review budgets and financial positions to determine if they have sufficient revenues to avoid financial crises," said the report.

Ford warns Cuba on meddling; arrives for economic summit

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — President Ford said Saturday he hopes the seven-nation economic summit conference opening here today "will give a new impetus to the growth of our worldwide economy and improve international cooperation."

Ford also warned against outside intervention in the affairs of Puerto Rico following a promise of demonstrations by proindependence groups.

Aides said he was clearly referring to Cuba, although he did not name it. Ford said interference in the "freely determined relations" between the United States and Puerto Rico "will be an unfriendly act which will be resisted by appropriate means."

Ford read his statement after being welcomed by an honor guard, a 21-gun salute and the playing of anthems at San Juan International Airport. He was the first summit participant to arrive.

Others attending the two-day summit will be the leaders of Britain, Japan, Italy, West Germany, France and Canada.

Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Miki and Italian Premier Aldo Moro were the next arrivals. They were taken by helicopter from the airport to a temporary landing pad on the ninth fairway of the golf course at the Dorado Beach Hotel complex, 17 miles south of San Juan, for the conference.

Greeting them were Ford and U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived aboard the government jet that flew him directly to San Juan from London. He had conferred with British officials following a midweek meeting in West Germany with South African Prime Minister John Vorster.

After the helicopter flight to the Dorado Beach complex he told reporters the summit delegations "will review the international situation, with particular emphasis on the economy.

The British and West German delegations were en route.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau were expected Sunday morning for the conference opening.

After the island's few independence groups promised demonstrations, White House officials decided to transport reporters from San Juan to the meeting site by helicopter rather than bus, as earlier planned. Ford also flew to Dorado Beach by helicopter, as had been planned.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "Nothing is anticipated beyond peaceful demonstrations."

Ford's top economic adviser, Alan Greenspan, told newsmen the nation's Gross National Product probably will be lower in the April-June quarter than originally estimated.

He indicated GNP growth may be below 5 per cent at an annual rate, down sharply from the economy's 8.7 per cent annual growth rate in the first quarter.

But Greenspan, chairman of Ford's Council of Economic Advisers, told reporters GNP growth will not accurately reflect the period's real economic growth, which he said may have been about 6 per cent.

SLA pair convicted in attempt at jailbreak

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Two Symbionese Liberation Army members already serving life terms for murder were convicted Saturday in an attempted jailbreak and the assault of two sheriff's deputies.

However, the six-man, six-women jury acquitted Russell Little and Joseph Remiro of a robbery charge in connection with guard keys stolen during the March 1, 1975, escape bid from the Alameda County Jail in Oakland. The robbery charge carried the heaviest possible sentence.

It was the third trial for Little and Remiro since their arrest on Jan. 10, 1974. Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was kidnaped by the SLA about a month after the arrests in an unsuccessful plan to offer her release in exchange for theirs.

Santa Clara County Superior Court Judge James Wright set sentencing for July 9.

Little and Remiro argued that they tried to escape because they feared for their lives. They were awaiting trial at that time in the Nov. 6, 1973, assassination of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster. They were later convicted in Sacramento after the murder case was moved on a change of venue.

BALLOONING OVER ATLANTIC

Karl Thomas, 27, of Troy, Mich., cooked a lobster dinner aboard his helium-filled balloon Saturday and predicted he would be floating across Europe by Tuesday. Thomas' goal is drift across the Atlantic and land in Paris. He took off from Lakehurst Naval Air Base Friday.

Crowned Miss California

Miss Orange is the winner

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Linda Michelle Mouron, an 18-year-old brunette from Orange, laughed jubilantly Saturday night as she was crowned Miss California.

Miss Mouron, who portrays Snow White at Disneyland in Anaheim, competed as Miss Orange County and swayed the five-judge panel with an original tap-dance routine during the talent portion of competition.

Miss Mouron, a green-eyed sophomore at Santa Ana Junior College majoring in theater arts and dance, outdistanced first runner-up Laura Ann Melton, 20 of Canoga Park, who competed as Miss Los Angeles County.

Second runner-up was Carolyn Louise Miller, 22 of San Francisco, competing as Miss Pacifica, and third runner-up was Linda K. Snook, 18 of Sacramento, competing as Miss Sacramento County. Laura Youngdahl, 18 of Sonoma, competing as Miss Sonoma, finished fourth.

Miss Mouron was awarded a $2,000 scholarship, while first runner-up was given a $700 scholarship. Second runner-up was awarded a $500 scholarship, third runner-up was awarded a $400 scholarship, and fourth runner-up was awarded a $300 scholarship.

Lisa Ann Erickson, 20, competing as Miss Santa Clara County, was selected Miss Congeniality.

Three contestants selected to receive talent awards of $150 in scholarships included Scheheredade Zia, 19 of San Francisco, competing as Miss South San Francisco; Christine Direl, 18 of Anaheim, competing as Miss Anaheim, and Debra Gale Spiller, 18 of Livingston, competing as Miss Merced County.

Homes in Via Verde left without water

Much of the Via Verde area of San Dimas served by the California Cities Water Co. was without water Saturday night and residents could be without water again today.

Switchboard operators for the company reported receiving dozens of calls about the problem Saturday night, but could only tell residents that workmen were attempting to restore water service as soon as possible.

The water pressure in the area has been a problem during the current heat wave and the situation was seriously aggravated Saturday afternoon by a fire in the Covina Hills. (Story of fire on page 2.)

Ford, Reagan in offsetting delegate wins

By The Associated Press

Ronald Reagan collected four delegates in Idaho and appeared on his way to winning all 21 of New Mexico's delegates Saturday to offset President Ford's near-sweep in Minnesota.

Reagan won the first eight delegates chosen in New Mexico Saturday night. Only three Ford backers remained in the race for the state's other 13 seats.

Reagan was also expected to do well in Montana, where 20 national convention delegates are being picked at the state convention this weekend.

The President now has a total of 1,001 national convention delegates. That is 129 votes short of the number needed for nomination, with only 131 delegates stil to be chosen. Reagan has 943 delegates, and there are 182 uncommitted delegates.

The President won 17 of the 18 delegates chosen in Minnesota early Saturday morning after a marathon night session at the state convention. Reagan got the other delegate.

Minnesota will send a total of 42 delegates to the national convention: 33 supporting Ford, six backing Reagan and three uncommitted.

Woman killed in canyon fall

A 58-year-old San Clemente woman apparently fell to her death while hiking in the East Fork of the San Gabriel Canyon Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff's deputies said the woman, whose identity was withheld pending notification of next of kin, was dead when found by a helicopter search team called in by a companion hiker after they had become separated.

ALONE AFTER $5 SLAYING

Tawya Sesi, 19, cradles her baby as she recovers from the shock of seeing her boyfriend, 21-year-old Stephen Picinini, shot to death by robbers who got only $5 and two bottles of soda pop. Times had been tough for the young couple, but they planned to move out of the city's skid-row Cass Corridor into a better area when Stephen started pre-med studies. But since the killing Miss Sesi says, "I don't see any future."

DETROIT (AP) — The robbers' net gain: $5, two bottles of soda pop and some diapers.

The net loss: Stephen Picinini's life and dreams of going to medical school, and Tawyna Sesi's chances to take her baby, Elysa, out of the slums.

Police said that Tawyna Sesi, 19, who has been living with Picinini, gave them this account of the incident.

Picinini, 21, and Miss Sesi were walking on the edge of the Wayne State University athletic field, carrying Miss Sesi's baby, when a gunman and two companions approached them and demanded money.

Picinini, who was holding the baby, pleaded with the gunman. "Hey man, we don't have any money. I have a baby here, man."

When the man reached for Picinini's knapsack, Picinini pulled a small penknife in a futile attempt to defend himself but was shot in the chest. The bullet missed the infant by inches and the gunman and his two companions ran off with the knapsack containing $5, diapers for the infant and two bottles of soda pop.

"When the bullet hit him, Steve dropped the baby and spun around, falling face down," Tawnya said Wednesday. "I started screaming and turned him over.

"He looked at me and said, 'I'm going to die.'"

By the time help arrived, Picinini was dead.

"I don't see any future. I don't see anything," Miss Sesi lamented.

She said she and Picinini met 10 months ago when they occupied separate apartments near where he died. She was pregnant, but the father had left her.

"Steve said he'd take care of me," she explained. The couple moved into an apartment on the second floor of a building at the core of the decaying, neardowntown area called the Cass Corridor, which serves as a home for derelicts and the poor and also borders Wayne State, Michigan's third largest university.

She lived on welfare and he took a part-time job as a handyman at a nearby hotel. But at night, Miss Sesi said, Picinini read books by Joseph Conrad and dreamed of attending Wayne's medical school.

Those dreams began while he was a medic with the Army Medical Corps in Germany in 1971. There, his commanding officer wrote to his mother, he distinguished himself as a "positive morale boost for the entire company."

After leaving the Army, Picinini worked in Detroit General Hospital's emergency ward and tried to join the city's ambulance corp, the Emergency Medical Service. He scored well on tests, but his mother, Sharon Picinini, said Wednesday he didn't get the job because the city was only hiring minorities and was cutting back due to financial problems.

In March, though, he wrote to his grandmother that things were looking up. "I plan to enroll at Wayne State University. I've made what I feel is the most major decision of my life and have been accepted in the premed program there. Naturally, I'm very excited."

Miss Sesi said they had planned to move to a better section of town as soon as they could find the money. "Now I don't know what I'll do," she said Wednesday. "I don't know where my mother is. I just remember foster homes. "Most of all I remember Steve. But he's dead now."

Brush fire in Covina Hills destroys $50,000 home

A fire, possibly caused by children playing with matches, blackened 30 acres of brush in the Covina Hills Saturday afternoon and destroyed a $50,000 home.

Firemen said the blaze broke out at about 2 p.m. near Oak Canyon Road north of the San Bernardino Freeway.

A total of about 30 units from Covina, Los Angeles County and surrounding communities fought the blaze, aided by water drops from a helicopter.

The home lost in the fire was located at 1251 Covina Hills Road.

The fire was brought under control at about 4:30 p.m. although firemen continued to fight hot spots for several more hours.

Down-to-the-wire Ford-Reagan fight worries GOP national committeemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Republican National Committee members say privately they are discouraged and worried about the impact on the party of a down-to-the-wire fight for the GOP presidential nomination.

Ten of the 150 committee members who ended a threeday meeting Saturday said in interviews they and other members are concerned about the sometimes-bitter fight between President Ford and Ronald Reagan, and the early elimination of challengers to Democrat Jimmy Carter.

Some of that bitterness was evidenced Saturday by Reagan's criticism of late changes in rules governing the selection of delegates at state party conventions. Such a change cost him five delegates in Minnesota.

"I have found to my surprise, in virtually every convention that I have visited so far, that there have been desperate attempts to change the rules, and usually to my disadvantage," the former California governor told the Montana Republican convention. "That certainly hasn't increased my spirit of unity."

Besides the Ford-Reagan rivalry and Carter's domination, concern also was expressed at the national committee meeting about the party's finances and recent public opinion polls.

Some of the members, who did not wish to be identified, said the party's best chance in November is for Reagan to agree to run as Ford's vice presidential running mate. Most RNC members are firm supporters of Ford for the presidential nomination.

Reagan has said in recent weeks he would be unwilling to run on a ticket with Ford. And a New York committee member who supports Ford said he would fight to keep Reagan off the ticket.

In the final speech heard by the RNC members preparing for the Kansas City convention, the party's chief fund raiser Saturday warned that the GOP is so short of money it might be forced to go out of business by election time.

Jeremiah Milbank, GOP finance chairman, said unless Republican officials around the country get busy raising money for the fall campaigns, "we may not have the chance to fight back successfully again."

For the first time, he said, Democrats running in federal elections will outspend Republicans.

Unless there is a repeat of 1972 when wealthy Republicans were solicited for millions of dollars, he said, "this country could indeed then be facing the end of the two party system ..."

His appeal was for solicitations of major contributors. "The vast majority of those Republicans who have the wherewithal to give a major contribution are holding back," he said.

Milbank said last fall a goal was set for the party to raise $25 million before election day for congressional, senatorial and presidential campaigns. With four months to go until the election he said another $16.5 million has yet to be raised.

Other speakers at the RNC meetings referred to Republican polls showing that only 18 per cent of voting age Americans consider themselves to be Republicans.

Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., said of the 18 per cent, "11 per cent are wishy-washy."

Of a possible Ford-Reagan ticket in November, one RNC committee member from a key southern state said, "It's been the only consistent subject I've heard everywhere at these meetings."

The topic came up at a regional caucus of GOP committee members from the Northeast, where there was a minority view.

George Hinman, a committee member from New York where Reagan is not popular among GOP party officials, said his delegation might withhold convention votes if the former California governor is placed on the ticket, sources said.

Hinman reportedly urged Republicans from the Northeast to agree to work against the Ford-Reagan idea, but no formal action was taken on his proposal.

Hinman appeared to be in the minority among RNC members.

BEATING THE HEAT

Stacey Bryant of Pomona has found perhaps the best way of cooling off from record 100-degree temperatures that scorched the valley this weekend. Ms. Bryant was relaxing at Puddingstone Lake in San Dimas. The heat was expected to continue through Monday, according to forecasters. People thronged beaches and lakes to escape the hot weather.

Spotlight on crime

Under the layer of onions — $250,000 worth of marijuana

Sheriff's deputies Tom Fitzsimons and Jerry Trueman had a strong suspicion that there was something more than green onions packed into 400 crates in a truck parked in Azusa.

They were right. The green onions only amounted to a thin layer on top inside each crate. Beneath the onions and a layer of ice was marijuana, totaling up in all the crates to two tons, with a street value of more than $250,000.

Fitzsimons and Trueman had gone to 16533 Laxford Ave. to investigate the report of a burglary at 10 p.m. Friday. Inside the house they saw a quantity of marijuana inside an onion crate. Then they noticed more onion crates in the truck parked in the driveway.

After checking out the contents, the officers arrested three men — Richard Martinez, 32, Louie Morales, 33, and Patrick Kerwin, 36, addresses unknown.

The suspects were booked at the San Dimas substation on charges of possession of marijuana for sale. Bail for each was set at $10,000.

6 jailed in bingo raid

Pomona police and Los Angeles County Sheriff's vice squad officers broke up what they termed a large scale, commercial bingo operation and arrested six persons in Pomona.

The raid occurred Friday evening at what is known as the "Church of All Faiths," at 3240 N. Garey Ave.

About 150 persons were playing bingo at the time of the raid, said police, although only the alleged operators were placed under arrest.

Among the six persons arrested was Victor Michael Barbish, 40, of 2177 Silvertree Road, Claremont, well-known to local authorities for his connection with bingo operations in the past.

In 1972 and 1973 Barbish had a running battle with police and City Council in La Verne for operation of a bingo parlor at the Le Chaim Restaurant (also known as Vic's Steak House) on White Avenue in that city. He was arrested several times before the city was finally able to close down the game.

Arrested with Barbish in Pomona Friday were Sally Mae Adamovich, 31, of 1430 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland, Caroline Dianne Morrett, 35, of 13957 Foothill Blvd., Fontana, and Ralph Arthur Allen, 54, Selma Allen, 50, and Lee Carlton Allen, 21, all of 3610 N. Bender, Covina.

All were charged with operating an illegal lottery.

Authorities said the operation would be illegal even if Prop. 9, recently approved by the state electorate to allow some types of bingo operations, was in effect.

Authorities said the patrons each paid $10.60 for a Bible and a number of bingo cards with which to play for over $1,000 in prizes.

Crowd pelts police

Pomona Policemen were pelted with rocks, bottles and beer cans and arrested five persons early Saturday morning durina a disturbance involving about 100 persons in the area of Sharkie Park.

No major injuries were reported as a result of the 1:30 a.m. incident, although police officer Ron Kelly was treated for bruises to the chest area at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

According to police, the incident began when patrolmen responded to the Towne Shoppe Liquors store, 1201 S. Garey Ave., where an argument involving three or four persons was in progress in the parking lot.

While investigating, the officers saw a large group of 20 or 30 youths in an alley heading toward the area of Grand Avenue and Thomas Street.

The officers attempt to contact the youths was met by a barrage of rocks and other objects. The group of youths moved toward the Sharkie Park area where a party was going at a nearby residence, with about 100 persons in attendance.

Persons at the party also pelted police with objects as the entire gathering was declared an unlawful assembly and the crowd was ordered to disperse.

Those arrested in the ensuing melee were Edward Eugene Linnett, 20, for assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer, Ismael Moreno Templos, 18, 1071 W. Phillips Blvd., for battery on a police officer, and a 17-year-old, 16-year-old and 14-year-old for failure to disperse.

Moore, ballet in supplement

Mary Tyler Moore and the Bolshoi Ballet will be the subjects of stories in Sunday's edition of TV Week, a supplement in the Progress Bulletin.

Miss Moore will be the hostess for the General Electric Theater Special "The Bolshoi Theatre: 'Romeo and Juliet'," which will be seen on Channel 2 Sunday from 8 to 10 p.m.

California Demos conclude selection of all delegates

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Democratic delegates to the national convention in New York city next month finished electing all 280 California delegation members Saturday, with only a modest amount of political bickering.

In a hotel near the airport, many of the 152 Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. delegates already picked in congressional district caucuses quickly endorsed by voice vote the democratic presidential contender's 52 choices for at-large delegates.

The voting for former Gerogia Gov. Jimmy Carter's 18 at-large delegates, which are apportioned according to the June 8 primary vote, went slower, with an attempt by some delegates to suggest nominations other than a Carterbacked slate.

But a 29-18 vote eventually ratified the at-large choices presented by Carter's California steering committee — a list that was notable for its exclusion of Jesse Unruh, the state treasurer who campaigned for Carter in the Maryland primary.

Across town, a meeting of the California Republican delegation went much more smoothly, since all 167 delegates are committed in any case to former Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan's choices for GOP national Committeeman and committeewoman, Michael Curb of Los Angeles and Virginia Rice of Hanford, were elected without opposition. Reagan appeared briefly at the meeting at the conclusion of a five-state campaign swing.

At the Democrat's meeting, Grover McKean, an Unruh aid, said Unruh rejected a Carter campaign request that he be a delegate alternate after his rejection as a delegate. McKean added Unruh had received a committment from Ben Goddard, Carter's western campaign chairman, that he would be a delegate.

McKean added that Unruh would not stop backing Carter because the former assembly speaker was not chosen as a delegate.

During the day, the most hotly debated issue was the Brown camp's successful move to elect a slate of 15 national committeemen who will serve the four-year term. Only one of those persons, Norma Sublett of West Sacramento, was a Carter delegate.

The rest were Brown delegates, something that made Goddard, Carter's aide, say that a "fair" share of committeemen for Carter should have been at least four, based on primary results.

In other action, Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, the California legislature's most powerful lawmaker, was voted chairman of the California delegation to the convention beginning July 12.

The San Francisco democrat defeated Los Angeles Rep. Yvonne Braithwaite Burke, co-chairperson of the Democratic convention in 1972.

One humorous note to the session — which focused mainly on the at-large delegate selection — was a caucus meeting for Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall, who won two delegates in the California primary.

"It took longer than I thought it would," said William Harvey, an Oakland resident who was the only Udall delegate present at the session. The other Udall delegate, Jeffrey Klein of Los Angeles, was in Israel on vacation, but 15 Udall supporters showed up to discuss issues and the selection of one alternate delegate with Harvey.

A contingent for Idaho Sen. Frank Church, who picked up seven delegates in the California primary, selected delegate alternates, as did other caucuses, who go to the convention and sit in when regular delegates leave the floor.

Neither Church nor Udall was entitled to any at-large delegates, because neither received the legally required 10 per cent of the vote statewide.

The 18 Carter and 52 Brown at-large delegates selected Saturday make up 25 per cent of the delegation.

Mars wind report helps in landing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists were elated Saturday over the first Martian weather report, a wind velocity reading from Viking 1 that may help in the tricky process of selecting a landing site amid the craters and other hazards on the Red Planet's surface.

The orbiting craft's most recent pictures, taken on its once-a-day orbit, showed what scientists called a "gingerbread man" formation, a cloud of ice crystals pushed along above the planet by Martian winds.

By comparing the position of the cloud in photographs taken three minutes apart, the landing site team here at Jet Propulsion Laboratory figured the approximate speed of the winds.

"It is moving at approximately 30 meters per second (67 miles per hour)," said the chief of the landing site team, Dr. Harold Masursky. "It is the first measurement of the movement of an air mass, and is an extremely critical measurement for site certification."

The rarified Martian atmosphere would reduce the effect of a 100 mile-per-hour wind to the equivalent of a 10 m.p.h wind on earth, but it is thought that wind as high as 60 m.p.h. could wreck the lander.

Masursky said the Viking lander, due to touch down July 4 to begin a search for signs of living organisms, could easily withstand winds as high as those measured by the newest photographs. Until Saturday, Masursky had described data on Martian wind velocity as uncertain.

LANDER ENTRY PROFILE

This is an artist's conception of the sequence of events prior to landing life-detection laborabory on Mars July 4. At right, Viking spacecraft has been in orbit around Mars since June 19 taking pictures of planned landing site to ascertain its safety before releasing lander, top left, for its descent. Lander, protected by aeroshells, hurtles into the Martian atmosphere at about 10,000 miles per hour, to be slowed first by aerodynamic drag until the shell is discarded, then by parachute and finally by retrorockets.

Will we hit cosmic jackpot on July 4?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The most elaborate skyrocket of them all, a shot at Mars, is scheduled for a Fourth of July landing on that intriguing planet to tell us whether anybody lives there.

Actually, two such rockets are on their way, each an ingenious, expensive, remote-controlled laboratory in miniature. The labs, built at a cost of $50 million, have been programmed to carry out a series of tests on handfuls of soil that will be scooped from Mars' surface by a 10-foot-long robot arm.

This is providing, of course, the Viking landers that contain the labs are able to come down on the rugged Martian surface — one July 4, the other about Sept. 4 — without being smashed to bits. Previous Soviet soft-landing attempts failed; this is the first U.S. try.

The Vikings, launched last fall, are controlled by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here. They will conduct three major experiments.

Packed into the breadbox-sized labs are instruments designed to detect life — even if it exists on the red planet in tiny-quantities and in the most primitive forms.

"If life exists at all," said Dr. Fred Brown of TRW Systems, manufacturers of the automated labs, "the likelihood is that it is very, very primitive, perhaps single-celled organisms, like fungi."

Speculation during the last hundred years that Mars might be inhabited by a civilization that constructed artificial waterways collapsed under the weight of modern spacecraft observations. Unmanned probes flying past the planet over the past several years showed clearly that Mars has no cities, no canals, no vegetation, probably no liquid water, not much of an atmosphere and temperatures drop nearly 200 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

Expectations of any life whatsoever were almost nonexistant in view of those findings. But the Mariner 9 mission in 1972 revealed previously unseen mountains, volcanoes, winding channels and a huge gorge that would dwarf the Grand Canyon. Only running water could have carved these features, scientists believe.

Anxious as scientists and other Mars-watchers are to see the results of the tests, they will have to wait weeks or even months. The first scoopful of soil is scheduled to be dug up eight days after the landing and dropped into the experiment hopper. It takes 12 days to analyze the experiments. Then even if positive results are obtained, the lab will be required to further analyze a control batch of soil, one that has been sterilized to obliterate any life. Only if that control batch tests negative, while the first sample was positive, can results of the first experiment be considered.

In fact, the earliest a conclusive showing of life could be announced would be Aug. 11. That may even be too early, since Martian organisms might take a lot longer than 12 days to yield signs of metabolism or growth.

"We possibly will not have a conclusive answer about life until extended mission data is returned," said Brown, referring to Viking experiments beginning in early 1977.

Here is a brief explaination of the Viking's three major biological experiments:

—Pyrolytic release: Life as known on Earth depends on the conversion of carbon from the atmosphere into organic matter, using sunlight. A portion of the Martian soil sample is deposited into a sealed chamber together with radioactive carbon. After an incubation period, during which organisms in the soil would presumably have assimilated the carbon into organic matter, the sample is heated. The resulting gas should contain radioactive carbon if it has been ingested by the organisms.

—Labeled release: A test seeking any signs of metabolism by Martian orgamisms. Another portion of the soil is dumped into a chamber containing a fluid nutrient designed to be consumed by living things present in the soil. This nutritent also contains radioactive carbon — Carbon-14 — which could be detected if given off by the organisms during metabolism. Of course, Martian metabolism might be different from that process on Earth, but since we have only one example — Earth's — the experiments are based on that assumption.

—Gas exchange: A test to detect either plant or animal forms. A soil sample is dunked into a liquid nutirent and exposed to a mixture of gases simulating a Martian atmosphere. If there are any living, growing, breathing organisms in the soil, they should give off gases as byproducts that could be detected by sensitive instruments.

A positive result from the experiments would be a good indicator of Martian life. A negative answer would not necessarily mean that there is no life on Mars, only that the Vikings did not find it.

CARD OF THANKS

Brethren: We will not have you ignorant concerning those who sleep that ye sorrow not, as even the others who have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, so also those who are asleep through Jesus, God will bring with him. For this we say to you on the word of the Lord, that we who are alive, who remain to the coming of the Lord, shall not precede those who are asleep. For the Lord himself, with command, and with the voice of Archangel and with the trumpet of God, shall come down from heaven. And the dead who are in Christ shall rise first. Then we who are alive, who are left, shall be caught up with them in the clouds to meet Christ in the air, and so we shall be always with the Lord.—I Thess. 4.

Thanks to you, brothers and sisters in Christ, for your concern, generosity, your support, and prayers in sincere gratitude.

—John Princiliano Cortez and family, Mrs. Mary Cortez and family

This Lady Kenmore® washer gets big loads cleaner than the next best-selling brands.

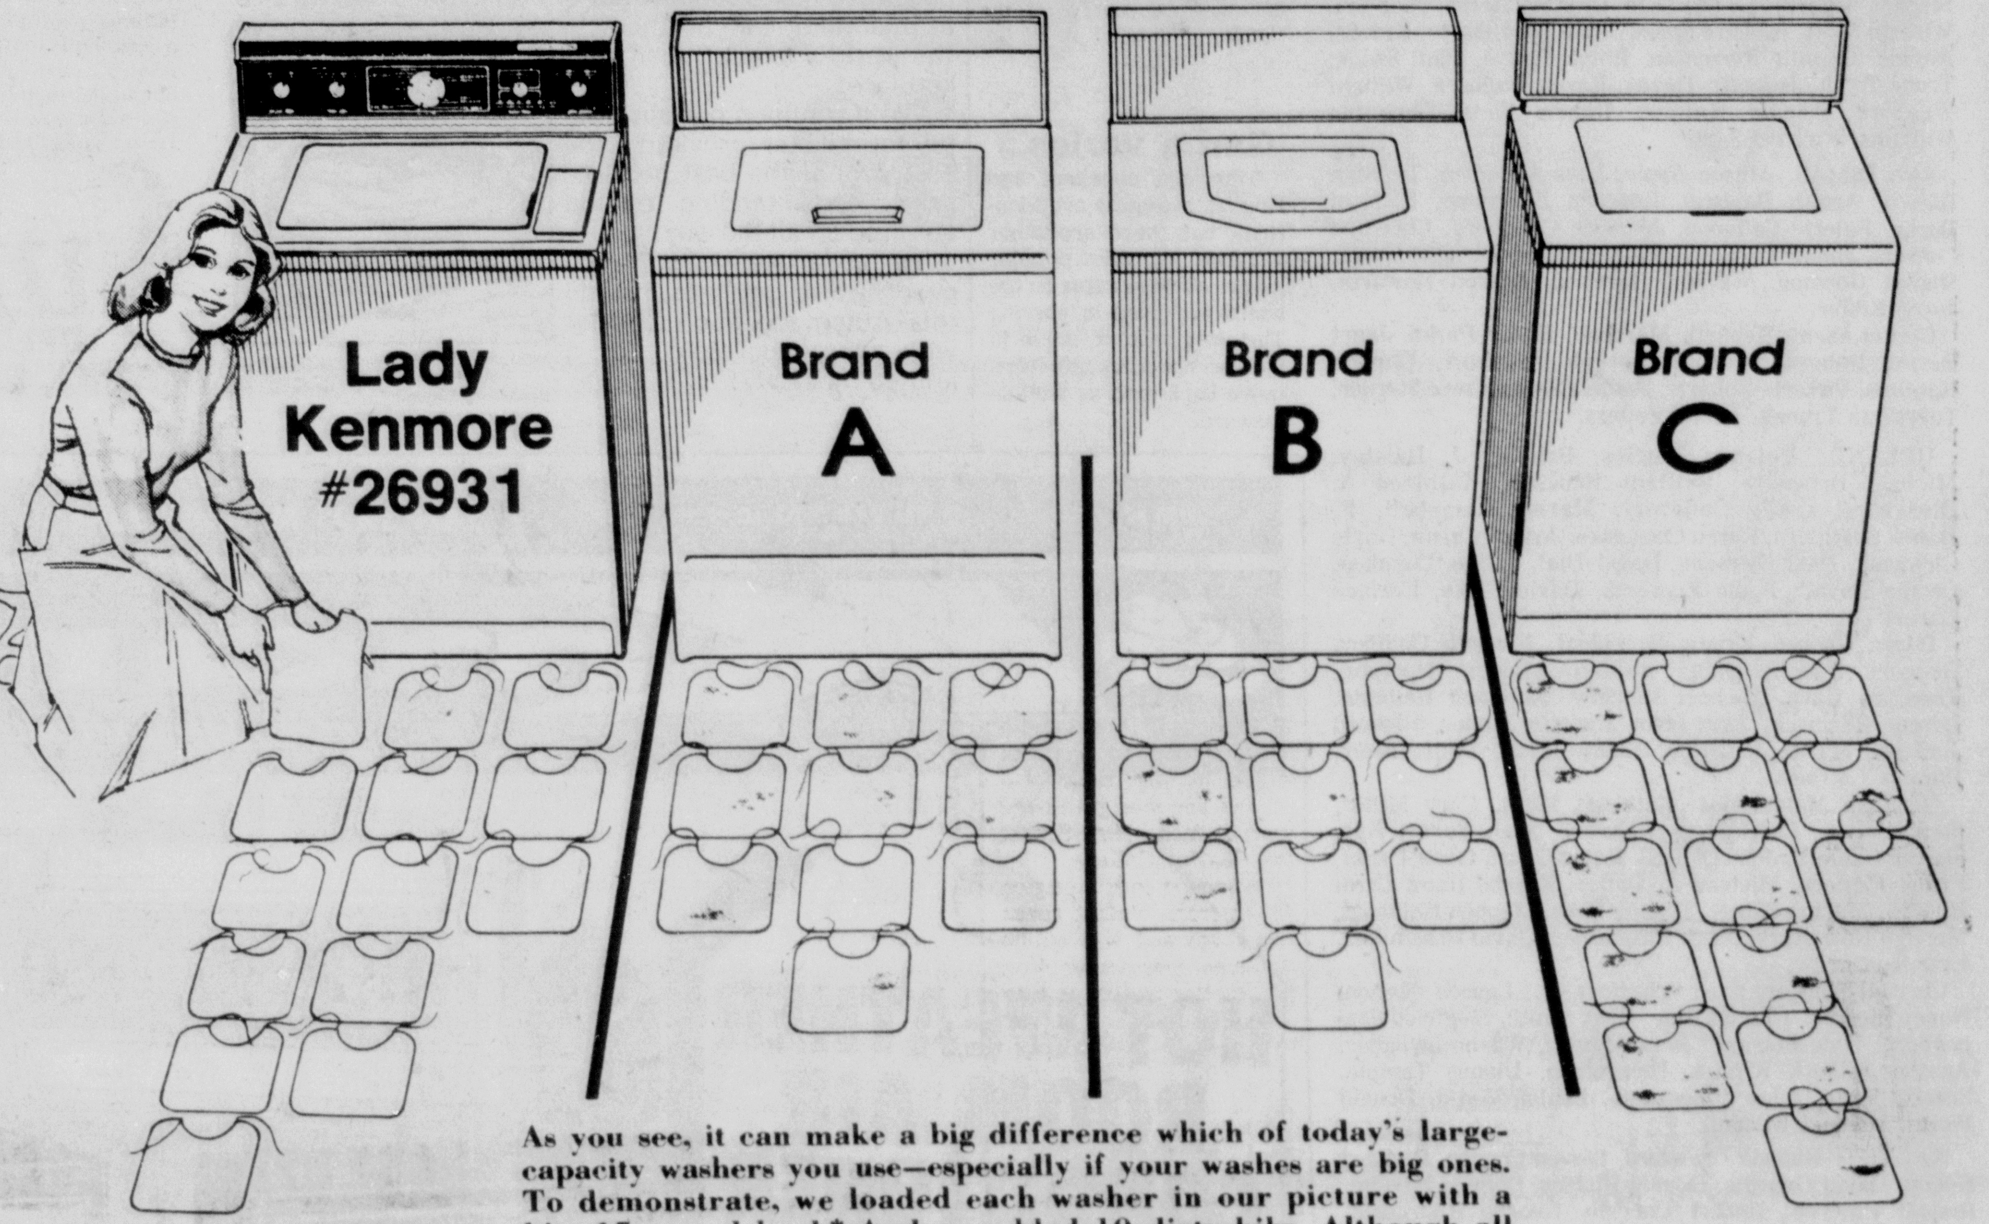
And we mean cleaner.



This ad effective thru July 3

As you see, it can make a big difference which of today's large-capacity washers you use—especially if your washes are big ones. To demonstrate, we loaded each washer in our picture with a big, 15-pound load.* And we added 10 dirty bibs. Although all of the washers got some of the bibs clean, only the Lady Kenmore washer got them all clean. Why? Because only the Lady Kenmore washer has the Dual Action™ agitator!

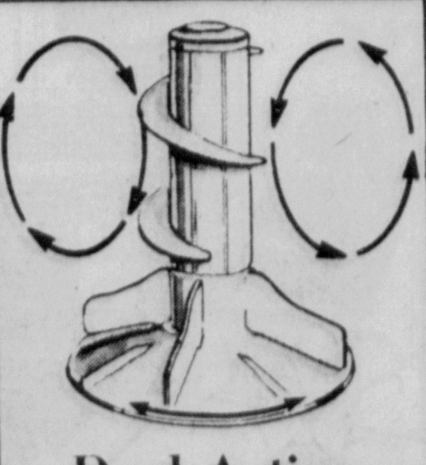
LADY KENMORE PAIR



Dual Action Agitator
. . . standard on Lady Kenmore washer. Available for large-capacity Kenmore washers from 1974.

How the Dual Action agitator works
This remarkable agitator has a top and bottom that move separately—the top pulls the clothes down into the wash, and the bottom whirls them side-to-side. Results? Testing proved that, compared to a conventional agitator, clothes get cleaner.

*Tests were conducted using a standard 15-pound A.H.A.M. load. Load contained: 3 sheets, 2 tablecloths, 4 shirts, 6 bath towels, 4 "T" shirts, 4 pillow cases, 6 shorts, 6 wash cloths, 5 handkerchiefs. Test results available on written request.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Signer of the Declaration of Independence Francis Hopkinson lived in Bordentown, N.J., and his home has an interesting legend connected to it. When the house was occupied by the British during the Revolutionary War, an officer decided to burn it down until he looked over Hopkinson's extensive library and could not bear to destroy it. The order was countermanded. The World Almanac notes that the officer did, however, carry off the signer's telescope!

Game varies

American checkers and English draughts are identical, but there are other versions of this popular game. All 64 squares on the board are used in playing Turkish checkers, while in Spanish checkers all pieces move backward as well as forward.

INDECENT PLEASURES: The Life and Colorful Times of William Targ, by William Targ. The Macmillan Co., $14.95.

(Nicholas C. Polos is professor of history at La Verne College.)

William Targ is a legendary editor, and I am glad the book jacket told me so, because to the general public Targ is virtually unknown.

What we have here is a kind of literary lowdown of the "soft underbelly of book publishing," as revealed by what Mario Puzo calls "the hit man of publishing."

The average reader who likes to read — often an ingenious device for avoiding any thought — will not find this book exciting. It is an inside story for the book "aficionados" or the literary set.

Targ describes his experiences with all kinds of literature: erotic, neurotic, and tommyrotic. In his honest confessional he attempts to reveal what the public wants to know, or at least he thinks they want to know, about best sellers, the nature of High Schlock, the lifestyle of editors, the sexual side of publishing (a novel idea for book editors), and some valuable insights into some of the famous authors such as Simone de Beauvoir, Samuel Beckett, Saul Bellow, Carl Sandburg, W. H. Auden, and many others if one is interested in this esoteric phase of life.

This is primary a "bookman's" memoirs. It has a basic theme — A humourous, anecdotal attempt to capture the mystique of the book world. Herbert Gold called Targ: ". . . bibliomadman, he's secure where he belongs — among books," and Jerome Lawrence called him: Mr. Publishing."

There is no doubt that William Targ is held in high regard by the authors and writers who live in the nether-world of authorship or that Targ's book is written with dignity, honest revelation, and humor. However, it is an inside insight of an inner circle. Inner circle is defined in literary circles as that group "tres select" that has its coffee later instead of with the meal!

A small public may enjoy Targ's "crackle of civilized discourse" with its mini-anthology of inphrases and the classic colLateral phenomenon of nuts-and-bolts advice to writers and editors, and disclosures reminiscent of Henry Miller but the public at-large, and it is a large public, would find this book irrelevant.

Indeed, if one is not sympathetic to the antics and Byzantine mores of writers, and movers and shakers of the literary world, this would be a boring adventure filled with eerie nuances.

In a sense, Targ with his narrow canvas bears out again that truth, of which daily reminding is none too often that Thornton Wilder summed up: "Where-ever you come near the human race there's layers and layers of nonsense."

LANGUAGE CLEANSED BY RELIGIOUS AUTHOR

CLEANING UP THE CHRISTIAN VOCABULARY: Words that Confuse and Divide, by Vernard Eller. Brethren Press paperback, $2.95.

Words aren't always the most satisfactory form of communication, especially when they have come to mean something different for each person who uses them.

This is the premise of Eller's latest book.

Author of eight other books dealing with religious issues, Eller attacks a list of 30 words used frequently in the Christian vernacular. Each word is discussed in terms of its emotional, connotative, denotative, and etymological meanings.

Eller describes his undertaking as a necessary evil, because of the misdirected and wrongly motivated ways in which words are used. His purpose is "to make a careful examination of the words regularly used in categorizing different varieties of the Christian faith, differing emphases within that faith, and different people who have different ideas regarding that faith."

Eller also bemoans the fact that the etymological meaning of many of the words have been lost.

"Amusing as it must seem" he says, "if Fundamentalists were truly 'fundamental' and Radicals were truly 'radical', they would both be at the same place; etymologically, the two words are virtually synonymous. But, unfortunately, the name of a group has no necessary relationship to its reality."

Other words taken to task include anabaptist ("ana" not "anti" Eller points out), antidisestablishmentarianism (a stupefying word usually used for that purpose), and catholic (it would mean the same thing as ecumenical if it hand't been incorporated into the name of a church).

Eller, a professor of religion at La Verne College, is the author of many religiously oriented books including "The Most Revealing Book of the Bible: Making Sense Out of Revelation," and "The Simple Life."

REFLECTIONS

The face of Dr. John Wilcox, left, is reflected in the plaque presented by Dr. Richard Mabie. The plaque, which expresses appreciation to the retiring physician for his service to all children, will be placed in the pediatrics wing at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Dr. Wilcox, a member of the medical staff since 1938, was honored by his fellow physicians.

Popular valley physician going into semi-retirement

One of the valley's best known physicians is giving up his private practice but is not, in any way, retiring from medicine.

Dr. John Wilcox, pediatrician in Pomona and Claremont since 1938, was feted recently by the medical staff of Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Dr. Richard Mabie presided at ceremonies in which a large plaque was unveiled. The plaque will hang in the hospital's pediatric wing in honor of the physician.

But in spite of the retirement ceremony, Dr. Wilcox has already committed himself to a number of projects, ranging from serving as a hospital consultant to founding a pediatrics clinic for Spanish-speaking migrant farm workers' families.

"At least I won't have as much weekend and night work," explained Dr. Wilcox.

The entire Pomona Valley had a population of under 60,000 when Dr. Wilcox started his practice in 1938. He had graduated from Pomona College and Harvard Medical School and completed residency training programs at Boston Children's Hospital, Massachusetts General Hospital and Los Angeles Children's Hospital.

During World War II, the physician was assigned to the U.S. Army Air Force with duty as a contagious disease ward officer and as chief medical officer administering a program for a rehabilitation center.

After the war, Dr. Wilcox's jeep parked outside a home meant he was making a house call to a sick child. It was a familiar sight to the influx of young families moving to the valley.

He has always been identified by his casual clothes, wearing short trousers and attractive Latin American shirts during the summer.

Fluent in the Spanish language, Dr. Wilcox established a series of well baby clinics in the valley's barrio areas where Mexican workers in the citrus groves could be served.

"We held the clinics in garages, chicken coops or any place we could find, in the early days," Dr. Wilcox said.

"The clinics operated until there was no longer the need. Families bought cars and were able to drive to the county health center."

Dr. Wilcox also conducted clinics in Latin America and has written and lectured in Spanish.

His teaching assignments have also included instructing at USC Medical School, College of Medical Evangelists, the UCLA Medical School and on the Hospital Ship Hope.

Currently, Dr. Wilcox is chairman of a committee on mental health, mental retardation and learning and behavior disorders for the Southern California Section of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

He is also chairman of a committee of the California Council on Children and Youth now in the process of formulating a model screening test for use in nursery-school age children, designed to discover potential learning and behavior disorders before school age.

Dr. Wilcox's schedule in the future includes working two days a week at Casa Colina Hospital, teaching at Loma Linda University Medical School and serving as the physician for the Pomona Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society.

In addition, he recently started a weekend pediatrics clinic in Coachella for migrant Spanish-speaking workers.

Dr. Wilcox and his wife will continue to maintain a home in Claremont but will also spend many weekends at their 65-acre ranch near Devore.

Bonelli Park plans opening ceremonies for new facilities

A two-day observance is planned next month at Bonelli Park to mark the opening of several new recreational facilities there, Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum announced.

The festivities are planned July 10 and 11, and will highlight the reopening of Mountain Meadows Golf Course, which has been shut down for the past three years to allow relocation and improvement of the county links.

But Schabarum said the county will not allow any play on the new links until Aug. 9. He said landscapers want a month to allow the freshly laid turf a chance to strengthen.

Other newly completed projects to be noted during the two-day opening include:

— A 189-space recreational vehicle campground built on three knolls overlooking Puddingstone Lake.

— An equestrian complex including practice rings, stables and a horse rental concession.

— Extensive additional picnic areas on the south shore of the reservoir.

Also to be introduced are the new sailboat launching ramps, three fishing piers, the new headquarters building, boat rental facilities, group camping areas and a network of new equestrian and hiking trails.

Activities during the two-day observance at the 2,000-acre regional park include an art exhibit, water events on the reservoir, free boat tours of the lake area, and dedication ceremonies.

Dedications are scheduled July 10 at 9 a.m. at the golf course and 10 a.m. at the equestrian centers. There will be a parade featuring antique cars and equestrian groups.

Pomona schools superintendent's contract viewed

Approval of a contract for Pomona's new superintendent of schools Charles C. Carpenter is the lead item on the agenda for a special school board meeting scheduled Monday at 12:30 p.m. in the Education Center board room.

Carpenter, superintendent of schools in Holyoke, Mass., was hired for the top position here on June 15.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services who is serving as acting superintendent this week while Sidney G. Moses is on vacation in Hawaii, said other agenda items will include:

— The extension of 12-month Emergency School Assistant Act (ESAA) personnel.

— Action on liability insurance for 1976-77.

— Scheduling a reception for Carpenter.

— A review of the contract for the assistant superintendent of educational services, a position held by Moses, who had functioned as acting superintendent since last October.

— Consideration of a request from administrators for direction concerning further consolidation of the cafeteria system.

Administrators will present information on budget planning for next year and on the establishment of a safety officer position.

The board will meet at noon for an executive session before opening the meeting to the public.

Roamers plan Mammoth trip

A trip to Mammoth Lakes is being planned by the Roamers Club, a senior citizens group sponsored by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department, from July 6 to 9.

Seats are still available for the trip. Persons may make reservations or obtain information by calling 620-2321 by Thursday.

Bells will be ringing in valley

The ringing of bells will herald the start of America's third century on July 4 here in the valley and across the country.

In a nationwide program organized by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, the Liberty Bell in Freedom Hall in Philadelphia will toll at 2 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time (11 a.m. local time) and bells all across the country are to toll simultaneously from schools, churches, homes, town halls — everywhere.

Locally the program has been endorsed by the Pomona, La Verne, and Claremont Bicentennial committees and the Pomona Elks Lodge. All valley residents are being urged to participate.

The bell ringing is to last for two consecutive minutes, symbolizing the United States' two centuries of freedom.

"Let the sound of every bell in the country ring out to declare our freedoms and signify our unity," said John W. Warner, national chairman, recently in announcing the program.

Let's show our colors

Residents of Hillcrest Homes in La Verne are setting a splendid example for all valley residents in the continuous display of the American flag from now through the Fourth of July.

It's all part of a national effort to produce tangible evidence of the country's faith in itself and the principles upon which it was founded.

In the forefront of that effort is the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The Pomona Elks Lodge recently sponsored a flag raising ceremony at Indian Hill Village that launched this area's 21-Flag Day Salute, as proclaimed by the mayor and city council of Pomona.

This is a special period for acclaiming pride in our country. Therefore, all households in possession of an American flag should break out the colors and display it proudly in front of their homes. We would like to see every street in the valley become an avenue of flags.

Making nuclear haste slowly

The recent referendum in California on the future of nuclear energy in that state may turn out to be a contest in which everybody won.

By a two-to-one margin, Californians decisively rejected Proposition 15, which would have mandated impossible safety and performance standards for nuclear power plants and, according to opponents of the proposition, have stopped the development of nuclear energy in its tracks. Both sides expended millions of dollars in promoting their arguments.

Contributing to the defeat of Proposition 15, however, was the action by the California legislature on the eve of the balloting in passing three measures relating to nuclear plant safety, and signed by Gov. Edmund Brown, which greatly counteracted the scary vision of atoms gone wild conjured up by the antinuclear forces.

Thus while Californians have signified that they want nuclear energy, the industry has been put on notice (if it were not already well aware) that the public is intensely concerned about this issue and will demand the closest monitoring of nuclear development from here on out. The industry still faces similar referenda in other states.

Actually, the questions of reactor safety, the disposal of radioactive wastes and the possibility of sabotage or theft of nuclear materials have been grossly distorted, not only in California but elsewhere in the country where nuclear plants have been built or are planned.

The real problem facing the industry in the immediate future may be a shortage of uranium and prohibitively high prices for the ore, which have already escalated from $8 a pound in January 1974 to around $35 or $30 today.

So much uranium will be needed soon just for currently operating reactors that some industry executives are convinced the U.S. won't get by without substantial imports, the Wall Street Journal recently reported. "It is probably too late to avoid an important uranium export program," it quoted the president of Exxon Nuclear Co. as warning.

It would indeed be ironic if nuclear energy, which is being counted on so heavily to help alleviate this country's dependence on foreign petroleum, were itself to become dependent upon foreign supplies.

But this should not necessarily be cause for alarm, says another authority. After all, there are very few natural resources in which the United States is totally self-sufficient, points out William Jackson, a vice president of Babcock & Wilcox Co., which builds power generating equipment for both the nuclear and fossil-fuel industries. Fortunately, some of the largest known deposits of uranium in the world are not in the volatile Middle East but in Australia and Canada.

As for the cost of uranium, he believes the previous going market price was too low and is now about where it should be to stimulate exploration for new deposits. Uranium, anyway, is a relatively minor factor in the ultimate cost to consumers of nuclear-generated electricity. The price of coal has also escalated in the past two years, he notes, even though the United States has abundant supplies of this fuel.

If Americans don't suddenly begin making inordinate energy demands but maintain an annual increase in energy consumption somewhere around the current five per cent, Jackson foresees an orderly, crisis-free growth in the coming decades both in nuclear energy, as more efficient reactors are developed, and in alternate energy sources, such as the much-discussed solar power.

The nation, in other words, should make haste slowly as we enter more deeply into the long-promised age of nuclear energy — neither expecting it to be a cheap and easy panacea for all our energy needs nor straitjacketing its development with unrealistic and unnecessary restrictions.

Making nuclear haste slowly is, in effect, what the voters in California have wisely opted for.

Dear Editor:

On the front page of the June 6 issue of the WASHINGTON STAR, I read an article which indicated that Congressman Jim Lloyd's opponent in the 35th District of California is using the anti-Washington trend, and the Wayne Hays mess in particular in an attempt to unseat him.

I have known Jim and Jackie Lloyd for many years, in the Navy and out, and was pleased to hear he had been elected to Congress. Shortly after his arrival in Washington, I met with Jim and have maintained close personal and business contact with him since. Beyond being pleased for an old friend achieving a difficult goal, I am delighted for Washington, the Congress and the country that he is attacking this present assignment just as he has always done in the past with enthusiasm, concentration and, most refreshing, the guts to stand up and be counted. In fact, my prime concern about his re-election prospects hinged on his failure to say "yes" enough.

Jim works hard at representing his District and the country. Even a cursory review of his voting record will bear this out. He spends a lot of hours learning about a lot of things most of us don't even consider. As has always been the case, his primary concern is with people. In this session alone he has voted for Land and Water Conservation, Vocational Education, Solar Energy Research, Public Health Service, Young Adult Conservation Corps, improved benefits for Senior Citizens, Emergency Employment and even to remove the penalty for refusing to answer census questions.

A good portion of his midnight oil is used in researching ways to cut down on public spending. He voted against increasing the debt limit and for amendments to several bills which reduced the total outlays. He believes we need top defense forces, but not at any cost. When his feet were hardly wet, he led a floor fight to purchase fighter aircraft to fill out our fleet requirements at slightly more than half the price of another model being considered and voted to release funds for a badly needed aircraft carrier. He voted for the Maritime Authorization bill, but only after voting for an amendment to remove some frills. His efforts helped to remove an aircraft from the budget which had a questionable role. The saving was close to a half billion dollars. He has proposed hearings on close air support and duplicated weapon systems which could save another several billion dollars.

Not being a constituent of Jim's I have no idea whether or not his record suits the folks back home, but here in Washington, many of us who are concerned about the future of our country and the widespread lack of ethics in government and business by so many individuals, feel that Jim Lloyd is an essential part of the way out of the morass. If his opponent is a better man, let him prove it — but not by using guilt by association as a plank and capitalizing on the overreaction to a bad situation.

I'm embarrassed for my country and incensed by the individuals who have betrayed our faith, but I think it is stupid to sink the whole ship to get rid of the rats in the galley.

Staffers buttress Butz

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz has always been the kind of public speaker who could make the Gettysburg Address sound like a crop report.

But lately, he has been gathering steam on the stump. His flat, Midwestern monotone has risen to new rhetorical heights on behalf of President Ford's campaign

Unfortunately, Butz's new-found eloquence has dubious roots. Career civil servants, who are barred by law from political activities, have been writing the secretary's speeches. They have also been compelled to prepare background papers on agricultural issues for the Ford campaign staff.

The man who has been orchestrating this misuse of the civil service is Butz's deputy undersecretary, Paul Theis, whose specialty is political campaigning. For more than 16 years, he was director of the National Republican Congressional Committee, which is devoted to electing Republicans to Congress.

In 1974, President Ford brought Theis into the White House. He moved early this year to the Agriculture Dept. where he has now pressed three reluctant career employes into service churning out campaign material for Ford, Butz and company.

A GS-14 civil servant, for example, wrote Butz's June 12 keynote address before the Michigan state Republican convention. It was entitled, "The Republican Revolution."

In his droning monotone, Butz read the words prepared for him at the taxpayers' expense.

"It was in the cold light of a New England spring morning," he began dramatically, "that the American Revolution began just over 200 years ago." That revolution continues, declared Butz, "under the clear light of reason within the Republican party. And under the leadership of President Gerald R. Ford."

Having thus aligned Ford with the founding fathers, Butz moved to the climax of his speech.

"What I'm going to do," he intoned, "is tell you flat out: President Ford deserves the Republican party nomination because he is the best possible candidate — and he is a winner."

Butz always includes a pro-forma attack on the overgrown federal bureaucracy in his speeches. But he doesn't mention that he keeps at least three bureaucrats busy writing illegal political speeches and papers.

Footnote: Theis acknowledged that a career civil servant worked on the June 12 speech. But Theis insisted that he added the language calling for Ford's nomination. He feels this is not improper since he is a political appointee. He also conceded that the Agriculture Dept. has prepared background papers for Ford but contended that the department has prepared similar reports for past presidents.

Sacramento scene

Sex in the State Capitol

By EARL G. WATERS

Quickly, before some eager "investigative" reporter "uncovers" sex scandals at the State Capitol this column can tell you it's all true.

Frankly, political writers should have enough sensational things to report in just covering the daily activities of state government without prying into the private lives of the solons and bureaucrats.

But the fact that the media on the national scene has zoomed a tawdry alleged incident into a laundry full of dirty linen in an effort to rival Watergate will encourage newsmen elsewhere to snoop into the closets on their beats.

So it is all bound to come out anyway. And the turth is that sex in Sacramento has been rampant for many a year. Truth is it is commonly known, especially to the State Police.

For, unlike the Washington case (or cases) the reported incidents have not taken place in legislative offices or secluded apartments. Rather they have been more open. Most of the encounters have been under the bushes in the beautiful and spacious Capitol Park.

The park is regularly patrolled by the State Police whose duties are to guard the state buildings and grounds. And, although the trysts are usually nocturnal affairs, the park is well lighted. Thus, romantic huddles in the darker recesses are not completely screened from observation.

Still the Capitol police have been reluctant to interfere. As one of the force stated when questioned, "It's not against the law." Asked if such things have been reported to higher officials, he said: "Report what to who? Everybody knows about it."

His answers reflect the general attitude shared by all of the members of the State Police. The agency is supervised by the Department of General Services and its budget is closely scrutinized by the Legislature.

The members of the force are well aware of the awesome power of the solons. More than once when a state policeman has ruffled the bushy tails the force has been threatened with the loss of status. As one Senator remarked, "If they get too officious we'll take their uniforms and badges away and put them in watchmen's overalls."

A spokesman for the agency, puzzled by the inquiries about moonlight affairs, said: "So, what's new? What's all the fuss? Sure, we're out there to protect anyone from being attacked. What you are talking about is something else. Those are willing couples and it's none of our business. Anyway, the public knows about it. It's been in the papers many times. It's an accepted fact of nature."

Come to think of it, he's right. Nobody wants anything done about it. In fact the only effort ever made, sometime ago, to remove these lovers from the park brought angry reactions from the lawmakers. Assemblyman Gene Chappie even introduced a resolution to protect the sanctuary.

One of the more enterprising reporters, Tom Horton, wrote about it often, couching his tales in his delightfully humorous style. He eventually became discouraged and left town for the more fertile islands of Hawaii.

Our story therefore seems much ado about nothing. Maybe the same is true of those spilling out of Washington.

We, of course, are referring to the little grey squirrels which abound in Capitol Park. We don't know what kind of squirrels the Washington reporters are writing about.

Just in jest

"Today's youth," according to one Senior Citizen who was letting off steam the way many Senior Citizens do these days by writing a Letter to the Editor, "are undisciplined, ill-bred, ill-mannered uncivilized, noisy, rude, destructive, dirty, lazy horrors."

A rather interesting summerization, I thought, but one that definitely called for an equal time rebuttal or maybe even a Modern Youth version of what is wrong with Senior Citizens. So I made that suggestion to the newspaper's Editor.

"Fine, fine!" he said. "I quite agree. But if a faculty task force appointed by the Trustees of the California State Universities and Colleges is right, how many young folks are we going to find these days who are capable of writing a coherent, even half way gramatically correct rebuttal? After all, that faculty task force found 60 percent of the system's students deficient in writing skills — some to the point of functional illiteracy."

Slightly soiled White Hope

FLORESVILLE, Tex. (NEA) — The autumn's presidential campaign will undoubtedly be the peanuttiest in history. There will be James Earl Carter on the one side, likely. And on the other, if folks here in the goober capital of Texas get their wish, will be John Bowden Connally, the local legend who may be the best vice presidential material the Republican party has had in this century.

To be precise, Connally is not a peanut farmer himself. Peanuts grow on his ranch here, but he leases the land to a sod buster. As has Carter, Connally, too, has been heavily influenced by the legume. So honored is the industry locally that a statue of a nut — not Lyndon Johnson — sits in the community square. Growing up then, Connally, the son of a bus driver, the natives say that "Mr. Johnny learned about George Washington Carver before he learned about George Washington."

Not that the man's political education was injured. The locals insist that Connally knows more about democracy, government and constitutional leadership than anyone in either party today. As such, they add, he is the only man in America who can save the GOP. The reasoning is that neither Gerald Ford nor Ronald Reagan has the personal image necessary to carry the election. But with Connally? Says Charles Fuller, former Democratic chairman of this region:

"Mr. Johnny could put life into the Ford campaign. Or he could add a moderating influence to Reagan's bid. He is simply a remarkable politician. I think he could help a jackass get elected this year."

Increasing numbers of Republican officers across the country agree.

Particularly when they are referring to Ford. The opinion is that the Texas rancher is everything that the Michigan lineman is not. He is a most effective campaigner, he appeals to both conservatives and moderates, he is charming and witty and bright. Actually, says a Republican committeeman, "John Connally should be running today instead of Ford. If it hadn't been for that milk trouble, Nixon would have chosen Connally as his vice president when Spiro Agnew resigned. Ford would still be in Congress. And John would be the Man."

The "milk trouble" was, of course, the charge against Connally that he accepted $10,000 from a dairyman to influence price support legislation. The case against Connally was as weak as a bruised udder, and Connally was acquitted in a federal court. But, after a lifetime of public service, he was dropped from the company of the nervous Washington establishment. Even today, to some, he remains something to be kept at arm's length. A risk. A political no. Few feel he was or is dishonest but the smell of suspicion is not easily washed away.

And this is the chief reason why the Floresville hopes for Mr. Johnny are not likely to be realized this year. Neither Ford nor Reagan would easily select a running mate who, however wrongly accused, was tied to the Watergate era. He is the only certifiably innocent man in national politics today, but the times are tough for politicos who have been indicted. Even proof of purity is often not enough. Perhaps half of America still suspects Connally is a cheat.

And so there are at least a few people in Floresville who feel the nation no longer deserves Mr. Johnny's services. Charles Fuller says he has asked the former governor and former Treasury secretary to "come home for good, settle down, relax, and let the ingrates go to hell."

But Connally respectfully declines the notion. In fact he has become the most active noncandidate in the country. Using $350,000 raised by friends, he is averaging three speeches a week in an energetic attempt to raise political consciousness from Orlando to Olympia. One of his themes: every young man and woman should be required to spend one year in the service of his government. Democracy is shaky, he insists; what we need are 200 million born-again Americans.

It's not a bad thought, considering the mood of the electorate. Jimmy Carter could get the Jesus vote, John Connally the patriotic. At least that way there would be a contest. And the lusterless GOP could offer the voters something more than President Clean or Governor Mean.

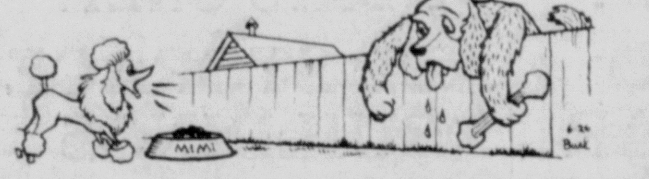
New dog not a good neighbor



DEAR DR. MILLER: The new dog who's moved in next door, well, he's not the kind of neighbor you'd pick. A real slob. Uses our yard, eats from our garbage can, you know the type. Roams everywhere, picks up anything and everything probably. Worst of all, our little Mimi, well, she could get anything from that one. We've got to build a fence right away. The question is, how high? We figure four feet will do it. — T.H.

DEAR T.H.: Depends on how high "that" dog is — and goes. A long, low breed (doxie, basset types) would usually be dissuaded by a four-foot fence. So would a squatty English bull or a bigger, semi-squatty Newfoundland. Some Terrier types, more athletically inclined and with considerably shorter dogs than the Newfie, might simply climb it. For most breeds, think tall. Six feet with some overhang out at the top will be required for many (and a few could even top that). In the interests of the entire neighborhood and his own interests, too, for that matter, your next-door four-legged free spirit should be leashed or otherwise restricted. Just what it will take to accomplish that will depend on owner cooperation, if any.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're using those little bait bottles of a sweetened syrup containing arsenic to fight invading ants. Of course, we keep these bottles out of the way of our cat, but even if she should encounter one, am I right in assuming she wouldn't be interested in it? Cats are not tempted by sweet things, are they? — S.A.

DEAR S.A.: While pussycat preferences seldom include sweets, it would be foolhardy to depend on that. There are exceptions. Besides, movements of ants near such poison could lure her to it. It's hard to find really safe spots to place poisons. Cupboards can inadvertently be left ajar, or cats can often open them anyway. It's far safer to find a less deadly (to cats) ant eliminator than arsenic.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've seen the goldfish in our pond eating insects. I was wondering if they ever eat fish? My other question, how warm does the temperature of the water have to be for goldfish to spawn? —N.S.

DEAR N.S.: Goldfish may feed on fish if their prey is small enough. If not overcrowded and conditions are otherwise right, adult goldfish start spawning when the water temperature rises to 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

Ann Landers

So you're older...say 'yes'

Dear Ann: I won't bore you with unnecessary details. He is almost 26 and I am 32. He wants to marry me. Will it work?

I've always been a self-reliant gal — chose a career over marriage and motherhood. I was sure I had made the right decision until a year ago. Suddenly, all my cool indifference melted under the warm gaze of a pair of very brown eyes. I felt like the teenager I never was.

I have kept him at arm's length — rejected his proposals a dozen times. My common sense tells me not to make a fool of myself. But my heart tells me I want him more than I've ever wanted anything in my life. I keep saying, "You idiot, when you're 40 he'll be 34. When you're 50 he'll be 44," etc. I know he loves me and I love him. Is that enough?

My doctor (a wonderfully intelligent man) married a woman eight years his senior. That marriage has lasted 37 years. It gives me hope. What do you say, Ann Landers? — Still Hesitating In Brandon, Manitoba

Dear Still: Say "Yes" — and soon — or one fine day, instead of playing the numbers game you'll wake up and say to yourself, "I am 34 and the man I love married somebody else."

With women outliving men from four to six years, it makes sense to marry a younger man. Happy orange blossoms, sweetie! Send me a postcard from Lake Louise!

Dear Ann Landers: Five months ago my hubby surprised me with a beautiful fur jacket for my birthday. I thought it was all paid for. Yesterday a man from the finance company showed up at the door. It seems my husband still owes $210 on the jacket. The finance man said I had to come up with the money within 10 days. He wasn't very nice about it, either.

I've worn the jacket a lot and showed him it could never be passed off as new, if that's what the furrier has in mind. I also told him we don't have the money right now and he can't get blood out of a turnip.

What can the finance company do, Ann? — Mad

Dear Mad: They can take the turnip's fur jacket.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my father said: "If a person tempts and causes another person to sin, then one is just as guilty as the other."

The example he used was that if a person puts cash money into an envelope and mails the letter, and the person who handles the letter in the Post Office opens it and takes the money, then both are guilty.

I disagreed because the person who handles the letter in the Post Office has a free will to take the money or leave it alone. Who is right, Ann Landers? — Strongly Opposed To Unearned Guilt

Dear Strongly: You are. Temptation is all around us, every day of our lives. The person who INTENTIONALLY tempts or tries to entrap is as guilty as the lawbreaker, but in most instances of wrongdoing, entrapment is not a factor.

Anyone who sends a significant amount of cash in the mails may be foolish, but he does not deserve to be branded a crook.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teenage Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Janet Guthrie was a slowpoke

Everyone seemed amazed that when the traditional "Gentlemen, start your motors" resounded at Indianapolis this year, Janet Guthrie was stomping to start hers.

Janet made racing car history by being the first woman to survive the time trial for the 500.

As a woman who once belonged to eight car pools, I find Janet's 171.429 miles per hour on a wet track rather unimpressive.

I could name dozens of women who have topped that with one arm on the wheel and the other pulling a kid waving like a flag from the radio antenna.

There's Wanda Fletcher, who averaged 210.057 on a dirt road when it was discovered one of her passengers checked the soft drink bottle on the way home from camp . . . and the snake was missing.

There's Phyllis Startle, who braked a car going 55 m.p.h., on an expressway when a kid in the back seat announced she was going to throw up in the door pocket.

And who could forget the cool driving skill of Beth Grit, who drove eight Girl Scouts through traffic at 5 p.m. with a wad of chewing gum in her ear and an open umbrella in her kidney?

I personally volunteered to drive six boys home from a ballgame one night, which makes Miss Guthrie's 20 laps around a two-and-a-half-mile track seem like she was standing still.

One swore his house had moved. Another knew a short cut which took in three states. Another said we had passed his house three times, but he didn't mention it because he didn't want to miss a story his buddy was telling. By the time I got home my clothes had gone out of style.

The old myth about women not bing able to drive as well as men has been stamped out. If there was a speck of truth to it, car pools would have annihilated over half of our adult population years ago.

Naturally, I'm delighted that auto racing has finally gone coed.

But the real breakthrough in driving skill will come when one day a man with courage and stamina and an uncommon amount of guts will climb into a station wagon with eight preschoolers on a rainy day and hear a voice from the back seat exclaim, "Oh, oh! Raymond should have gone before he left home!"

On avoiding low blood sugar

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read The Health Letter on Low Blood Sugar: Hypoclycemia. On page four it states, " — if a person eats or drinks a lot of sweets on an empty stomach the level of glucose rises sufficiently to cause an overproduction of insulin."

Would I be correct in assuming that consumption of a non-nutritive sweetener, such as sodium saccharin, would not cause an over-production of insulin? What harmful effects could be anticipated if a person used sodium saccharin for sweetening one's coffee, lemonade and pop of all kinds?

DEAR READER — Your basic assumption is correct. Through a complex mechanism, as the amount of various sugars is increased suddenly in the first part of the small intestine where most food absorption takes place, the pancreas increases insulin release.

That is part of the mechanism that causes low blood sugar attacks in people who eat sweet rolls, sweetened coffee or other sweets and starches as the only components of their breakfast. Sweet liquids pass directly through the stomach. A person who has had part of his stomach removed as for surgical treatment of an ulcer dumps food immediately into the intestine because the stomach is so small it is no longer a storage pouch. These people are particularly prone to low blood sugar attacks if they are not careful about their diet.

You can avoid this form of low blood sugar attack by avoiding excessive use of concentrated sweets, particuarly sweet liquids such as sweetened coffee. The emptying of the normal stomach can be slowed by eating bulky food which includes most of the vegetables, proteins as found in lean meats, poulty and fish and the inclusion of fat in the meal. Fat delays the emptying of the stomach. This is about the only situation in which I recommend increasing the fat in the diet and that has to be on an individual basis as needed.

Saccharin does not contain any carbohydrates or sugar. It follows that it cannot raise the level of sugars in the small intestine rapidly and will not trigger an attack of low blood sugar. There is no reason why you cannot use it as a sugar substitute in beverages or foods.

Its safety has been questioned for several years, particularly after the scare about the possibility that the artificial sweetener cyclamate caused cancer (now it seems that it may not). But saccharin has escaped all the attacks on it and seems to be safe at least in reasonable amounts.

I should add that in the current zeal to eliminate anything suspected of causing cancer from our life there must be some thought to the benefits of agents such as artificial sweeteners. These help prevent obesity and in turn then help prevent high blood pressure, heart attacks and strokes. It is short sighted to lose these benefits to prevent the remote possibility of a rare case of cancer. In short we must get back to basics and understand you shouldn't throw the baby out with the bath water.

Other readers who want The Health Letter 3-9 on low blood sugar can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The spade on playing cards takes its name from the Spanish "espada," a sword, the suit in Spanish packs being marked with short swords. In French and British decks, the mark has been altered to a pointed spade.

John Scott Harrison, born in 1804 at Vincennes, Ind., was both the son of William Henry Harrison, ninth president of the United States and father of Benjamin Harrison, 23rd president.

The Greeks' name for Italy was Oenotria, "the land of wine." Today Italy is the largest maker and consumer of wine in the world, producing 1.5 billion gallons of wine a year.

Nevertheless, and in no way wanting to prejudice the case of Mr. Hays, it is my belief that any man in the Congress of the United States who finds himself in the same circumstances should step down temporarily from his duties as chairman of his committees, in fairness to his fellow colleagues, until the case has been adjudicated."

One of my first advanced lessons in play was when my father wrote me from Korea and explained the value of giving your opponent a problem. He said: "Sometimes they go wrong."

This hand is from a rubber bridge game at Notre Dame. I led the eight of diamonds against South's ironclad four-spade contract. At least it was ironclad with trumps breaking 3-2.

South went right up with dummy's ace of diamonds and cashed dummy's ace of trumps. I dropped my queen. Not that I expected anything good to come about, but just see what did happen.

South played a second trump. My partner followed again. The wheels started to go around in South's head: He finally decided to guard against four trumps in my partner's hand. He finessed his eight. I took my nine, put my partner in with a diamond and made my jack of trumps by overruffing the third diamond lead. My partner's ace of clubs was the setting trick.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader wants to know if the late John R. Crawford was ever the best player in the world.

In our opinion he was during the late '40s and early '50s. He was certainly the best in North America at that time and the Italians had not taken over as yet.

Lady dentists on the increase

The number of women who signed up to study dentistry in this country during the last five years has climbed by 489 per cent. Some climb, that. Chances are pretty fair your grandchildren will go to lady dentists. Prediction is that within 10 years three out of 10 dentists will be women.

April evidently is the cruelest month, after all. A University of Minnesota researcher, who checked out numerous medical cases nationwide by computer, says in no other month do so many people seek treatment for ulcers, or complain to psychiatrists about depression, or just flat out kill themselves.

WELFARE

How many people on welfare in Illinois would move out of that state for at least three years, if they were offered $5,000 each in cash to do so? Who knows? But if only 3 per cent accepted such an offer, that would save the state $137 million in said three-year period. So says Republican State Sen. David Regner who has sponsored such a legislative notion there.

It's a simple trick for a grownup woman of medium bone structure to compute her ideal weight. She just multiplies her height in inches by 3.5 and from that subtracts 110. As for a man of medium bone structure, he multiplies his height in inches by 4 and subracts 130. Simple, what?

GUNSHOT

Among the quick bits that the usual Hollywood actor most enjoys to portray is the scene wherein he gets shot down. Generally, it's quite a study. Whether to throw up the hands, or lurch over backwards, or clutch at the midsection, or stumble through 60 seconds of dust and agony. In fact, however, a man who is shot will rarely do anything except slump forward no matter from which direction the bullet comes. A frontline combat veteran of three wars told me that.

No doubt you know that hoboes traditionally scrawl signs on rocks or fences or woodwork to tell other hoboes who come after them something about the place. One of those customary signs is a dipper. If it's drawn upright, it means liquor is legal 'thereabouts. If inverted, it means no drinking allowed.

You've heard of that ailment once known as water on the brain. But were you aware about 80 per cent of your brain is water, if typical?

Joyce Hifler

Think on these things

It has been my good fortune for many years to own a little terrier named Pandora . . . or maybe it is the other way around . . . but one thing for sure she never leaves any doubt about what she likes or doesn't like . . . and her loyalty to me is unquestioned . . . for however much she may like someone else or something else . . . I get top billing and that is a lesson in loyalty.

When I think of all the abused children and old people . . . and people in general, I think also of the animal world . . . how they are abused to make some human being feel superior . . . I wonder where is the loyalty and where is the kindness that animals know more about than a lot of the human race . . . and I know we will have to pay the bill sometime . . . but where loyalty is concerned, some are already bankrupt.

To beat inflation

Save a bundle with rug cleaner

By NORMAN H. STARK

Even if you have wall to wall carpeting, many folks like throw rugs put in strategic high traffic areas over the carpeting. And for this very reason, the rugs take quite a beating.

Of course you can send them out to a cleaner and pay the price if you've a mind to, or you can clean them yourself and "save a bundle" if you're so inclined. If so, here's a formula that I find works well.

You'll need one cup isopropyl alcohol, five cups white vinegar and one-quarter teaspoon lauryl pyridinium chloride. Mix the alcohol and vinegar together and stir in the lauryl pyridinium choloride until dissolved. Store in plastic or glass bottles. To use, brush mixture into surface of rug, let dry and remove residue with vacuum cleaner.

Besides the satisfaction you get by making your own products for personal or home care, most formulas are real money-savers that enable you to beat the prices of store-bought items.

Like any chemical product you use at home, you should store this one safely, label it, listing ingredients and noting any cautions — and keep it out of reach of children.

(There has never been a how-to book so practical and helpful as THE FORMULA BOOK. Hundreds of easy recipes put savings and fun into the making of your own personal and home care items. Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, American Lt. Joseph Davidson reported to George Washington in New York that a captured English sailor had disclosed that Britain's General William Gage had arrived at Sandy Hook near New York from Halifax, Nova Scotia.

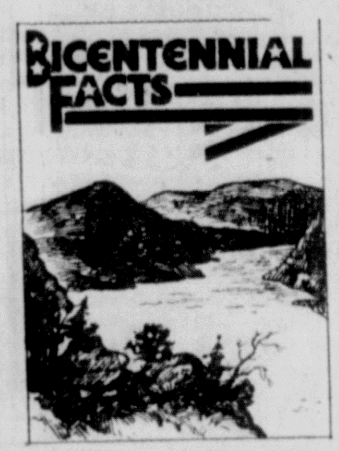
Rattlesnake precautions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Area health officers are warning that drought conditions are expected to drive hungry rattlesnakes out of the hills toward residential areas.

They are urging rural residents to keep their land cleared of such snake-attracting items as piles of leaves and rubbish, and they suggested woodpiles be propped at least 18 inches off the ground.



While the American colonies began fighting Britain for their independence, Spain was spurred to colonize California by Russian fur-trade and exploratory intrusions along the Pacific coast. Military posts were established and Franciscan missionaries were sent to convert the Indians. The World Almanac recalls that beginning in the early 1770s, Fr. Junipero Serra founded 21 missions, among them, the missions of San Juan Capistrano and San Francisco Asis, both founded in 1776.

Ganesha graduate now in Kenya

Elizabeth Stern of Diamond Bar is in Nairobi, Kenya, South Africa, as a participant in the American Field Service (AFS) International Scholarship Students Abroad program.

She is a June graduate of Ganesha High School in Pomona.

She will live with the Owili family outside Nairobi, according to Gerald Algozer, Pomona AFS chapter president. The father of the host family is associated with the Kenya National Hospital in Nairobi, Algozer said.

The exchange student sponsored this past year by Pomona AFS chapter is Stephen Osieyo of Lake Victoria, Kenya. He was a June graduate at Pomona High School. He has been living with the Roger Rusler family since last August and will return to Kenya July 22.

The education system in Kenya staggers three months of school and one month of vacation. Miss Stern will receive about one month of schooling in Nairobi. She hopes to learn some Swahili, official language of the republic since 1973.

She will return home the first week in September.

Pines' mother is charged with gambling

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — The 51-year-old mother of Los Angeles City Atty. Burt Pines is among 43 persons who have pleaded innocent to misdemeanor gambling charges.

The defendants, who entered the pleas Wednesday, were ordered by Beverly Hills Municipal Court Judge Leonard Wolff to appear at a Aug. 17 pretrial hearing.

Ruth Pines was charged with the others in a June 3 raid at the Cavendish West Game Club, where she was allegedly playing bridge at the time.

Authorities said the raid climaxed a five-month investigation and reported finding tables for backgammon, gin rummy and contract bridge at the club.

State rejects bid for funds

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The city says the state has turned down its request for funds to train a few women to be fire fighters.

Deputy City Manager Ray Blair said recently that Sacramento has rejected the San Diego's request for some $300,000 to help finance an 18-month training program for up to a dozen potential women fire fighters.

The fire department has not tried to hire female firemen since 1974.

Hail woman bus driver for life-saving action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A bus driver may be nominated for a commendation for steering her bus with 47 children into a retaining wall rather than let it go down a dangerous hill with its brakes failing.

Authorities said Mrs. Clarie Foster may have averted a disaster by her actions.

"She did a hulluva fine job," said Battalion Chief Sam Crisa of the Los Angeles City Fire Department.

"Rather than let the bus go down the hill and possibly killing or badly injuring a bunch of children, she elected to steer it into the curb."

Mrs. Foster reportedly steered the bus into a parked car first to slow it down, officials said. The impact of the crash into the wall resulted in minor injuries to 11 children, officials said.

Declaration has withstood test of time well

Worcester State College

When the Continental Congress approved Richard Henry Lee's resolution that the colonies ought to dissolve our union with Britain, the elated John Adams wrote to his wife: "The second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable ephocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated, as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty."

It so happened that it was two days later that Congress approved the powerful Declaration of Independence that Thomas Jefferson had drafted. The fourth of July, the day when Congress informed the world that an independent United States of America was being formed, was therefore chosen to be the day of celebration.

A great debate over independence had been raging for months — in private circles, in Congress and in the press. The role of newspapers in bringing the debate to culmination had been great. John Holt of the New-York Journal wrote that "It was by means of the newspapers that we received spread the notice of the tyrannical designs formed against America, and kindled a spirit that was sufficient to repel them." Without the active and determined patriot press the movement toward independence would certainly have been delayed and perhaps shunted aside.

When action had finally been taken, news of the Declaration (as well as the text) was printed in the papers as soon as it was received. Usually there was little or no explanatory comment as publishers allowed Jefferson's eloquent document to speak for itself. The press did, however, note the ceremonies and celebrations in many places — military parades, cannon fire, the pealing of bells, civic banquets, and bonfires.

While Americans celebrated the Declaration of Independence, British authorities at first paid little attention to it. They regarded it as merely another piece of rebel propaganda, which the declaration was in considerable part. Gen. William Howe was waiting at the time to engage in talks to effect reconciliation with the colonists; and the successes of British forces around New York City in the summer and fall of 1776 inclined him to belittle any American pronouncement. Similarly when news of the Declaration reached London it was not taken seriously.

Thomas Jefferson worded the Declaration of Independence in firm and solemn terms that made it a literary masterpiece. Announcing the determination of Congress to form a new government for a sovereign nation, Jefferson wrote in general and not always accurate terms. But this was necessarily so.

There were uncertainties of the time that forced the author of the Declaration, for the sake of its effect, to use a number of unhistorical statements. For example, the document was called "The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America," but not all colonial delegations to Congress had voted for the Declaration and the signing of it dragged on for nearly six months.

In his treatment of George III as a tyrant "unfit to be the ruler of a free people," Jefferson was weakest of all. No serious historian pictures the British king in that light today; he was a rather dull monarch who was trying to wield power by manipulations in Parliament. The American colonists, having disobeyed Parliament's laws, were declared to be outside the king's protection. These facts did not indicate, however, that George III was trying "to establish an absolute tyranny over these states," as Jefferson stated in the Declaration.

For a number of years the colonists had been complaining about the legislative acts of Parliament and the policies of the British ministry. In their opposition patriots had argued that the English legislature did not have the right to pass laws regulating the internal affairs of America; Parliament was an older legislature in the British empire, but it was not superior in power to the colonial assemblies. Opposition to British rule prior to the Declaration of Independence had been directed mostly against Parliament, and expressions of affection for George III had been common.

In stirring up support for a cause, and the Declaration of Independence was in considerable part trying to do that, Jefferson realized that it was wiser to direct attacks against the king rather than against the impersonal legislature. Jefferson, a master propagandist, did this by accusing George III of many crimes. "He has," the Declaration reads, "abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us." Did this not constitute sufficient reason to break away from Britain?

In making his case against George III, Thomas Jefferson also drew upon the doctrines of natural rights and the social contract. These ideas, laid down by John Locke and other political theorists, were popular in the eighteenth century. In a state of nature, the argument ran, men were endowed with certain "unalienable rights" including "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Theoretically, a contract between the ruler and the ruled protected these rights; and subjects owed obedience to a government that safeguarded these rights. If the ruler should break the contract by acts of tyranny, it was the right and the duty of subjects to rebel. Following this line of reasoning, Jefferson asserted that the colonists — after much "patient sufferance" — were not obligated to "throw off" the government of George III.

Most Loyalists and the British ridiculed this philosophy of natural rights and the contract theory; later political scientists have discarded it as invalid, too. But for the patriots in 1776 Jefferson's assertions were an attractive and logical way to justify the American War for Independence.

In Britain the ministry found nothing logical about the Declaration of Independence, but the British public — increasingly annoyed by the American conflict — soon referred to the war in America as the "king's war." Other European monarchies, for all that they were happy to see Great Britain embarrassed, could hardly look favorably upon Jefferson's justification of rebellion.

Here in the United States there was mixed reaction. While some rejoiced when the Declaration was adopted, and many lukewarm patriots were encouraged to support the cause, there were others who were bitterly opposed to the formal break with Great Britain. Few Loyalists, if any, were persuaded to support independence, either by the Declaration or by the threats, attacks in the press, tarring and feathering and social ostracism. Most stubbornly clung to their beliefs, sincere in their attachment to Britain.

It is quite true that all of the charges against George III could not be proved, and that some of them had little or no basis in fact. Equally true is the fact that Jefferson's political theories have not stood up under the scrutiny of modern scholars. If the Declaration was partly defective in content and argument, it has nevertheless stood the test of time and been found to be morally valid.

For the patriots of the revolutionary period, for countless school children and other Americans over the years, the Declaration of Independence has come to be regarded almost as holy writ. Those who have believed that traditions had been broken, American rights violated, and justice threatened, Jefferson had stated the case brilliantly.

Although the Declaration did not make clear what kind of government the Americans would create, it did assert unequivocally that they were not going to tolerate injustice. After a period of trial and error, the people did learn more of what was needed to establish a government that would guarantee the human liberties promised in Thomas Jefferson's immortal Declaration of Independence, made known to the world 200 years ago.

Fashion for fall

The latest word is movement

NEW YORK (AP) — Come this fall, the big word in fashion will be movement, some of it in a rugged outdoor look, some peeking from under a hood.

After endless seasons of fitted garments that hugged and restricted, Seventh Avenue designers have provided easy-to-wear clothing that drapes the body rather than restricts it, permitting women to move about naturally and with comfort.

This season's fashion shows feature soft and casual man-tailored suits for day and a sexy and feminine look for evening. One in-look was from Stephen Burrows and Scott Barrie who both showed tunics over skinny pants.

And everywhere there were hoods, some huge, some all-engulfing cowls that doubled as wraps.

The rugged sports clothes seemed to come from catalogs of outdoors mail order houses and not from Manhattan's fashion centers. Coats, rainwear and ponchos also emphasized the hooded or cowled look.

Bill Blass used leather and tweedy fabrics in his men's look ensembles. One outfit was suede-patched tweed jodhpurs with a matching vest and a shetland riding jacket. Anne Klein used a twill in her jodhpurs, displayed with a short brown suede jacket. Rafael had a gray suede pencil-striped suit, complete with matching vest.

Knickers worn with socks and comfortable, heavy walking shoes were among designs by Anne Klein, Ginala, Don Sayres for Gamut and Ralph Lauren. Jaunty, tailored jackets or longer coats were worn with them.

Calvin Klein showed a one-piece sweater-hood. The hood was actually a continuation of the thigh-length gray shetland sweater.

Bonnie Cashin in her designs for Philip Sills presented a drawstring bubble cape in canvas. A hooded tent-like jacket by her had side pockets. Kasper, in his clothes for Joan Leslie, designed a large, roomy jacket and a tweed-hooded duffle sweater.

Gil Aimbez's hooded floralprint coat was cut wide and reversible. Don Sayre's hooded coat in camel was tied at the side.

For evening, Halston showed a cut-out V-neckline, dipped at one side, in both a white silk tunic and a black crepe long-sleeved dress.

Cathy Hardwick used a lot of fabric in her maple-leaf printed crepe de chine dress with matching shawl. The balloon-sleeved dancing frock had a gathered off-the-shoulder neckline. Jacques Tiffeau's designs for Originala included a brown crepe de chine gown with strapless top and tunic.

Ronald Kolodzie showed pajamas under a black silk halter dress in his evening collection.

Geoffrey Beene extended the hoods and cowls of his day and sportwear into the evening clothes. His roomy, two-piece rust-colored pajama set had a removable hood, trimmed in mink. One highlight of his show was a gray halter-top gown, backless with an incredible knob of fabric at the base of the spine.

Juniors receive awards

Twenty-one members of the Claremont Junior Woman's Club recently attended the 20th annual convention of the San Gabriel Valley District, California Federation of Woman's Clubs, Junior Membership, at the Queensway Hilton, Long Beach.

The juniors received seven awards for their year-long work in the following categories for large clubs: Build a Better Community, first place; Americanism, first place; education, second place; federation and membership, second place; fine arts, second place; and Bicentennial, third place. A special award in conservation was also given.

Chairmen for the award-winning projects included Mmes. John Farley, William Landrey, Robert Brightfelt, Stephen Goldwater, Carl Henny and Frank Grigsby.

CHICAGO (AP) — Young people, busy creating "one-of-akind" personalized fashions by embroidering their jeans and stenciling their T-shirts, are now decorating their sandals with everything from bandanas to stars and stripes.

The many moods of "sandal art" surfaced in a national design contest in which high school students submitted hundreds of ideas for decorating the wooden-sole exercise sandals that have become a popular accessory with casual jeans and cut-offs.

Winning entry in the contest was a tasty serving of colorful fruits painted on the sandal strap and wooden sole — including a partially eaten piece of watermelon on the toes.

Creator was 17-year-old Laurie Van Sant of Trenton, N. J., who was awarded a college scholarship by Scholl, co-sponsor of the event with Seventeen Magazine's At-School publication.

Another student took off on the current ethnic fashion looks by designing a "needlepoint" look of embroidery for the strap, then engraving the sides of the sole. This design won second place honors for Norma Salvatto, 17, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Other entries reflected the popular Western influence by using hand-tooled leathers, calico prints and even a cotton bandana. In fact, third-prize winner Holly Hopke, 17, of Florence, Ky., actually tied up her sandal strap with a dimestore bandana.

Other teens celebrated the nation's 200th birthday by going patriotic with red, white and blue designs. Sandals were decorated with stripes, emblazoned with stars and etched with the "Spirit of '76." To honor the military, one student went further and covered his sandal with infantry insignia.

Natural fabrics received a good share of attention among the sandal decorating ideas. Nubby textures like tweed and burlap were suggested for the sandal strap. Hand-tooled designs and Indian symbols were other popular looks.

An interest in the environment also predominated in the teenagers' sandal designs. Students used sunshine or blue sky and cloud motifs, along with a variety of flowery variations on both the strap and sole. But probably the most authentic of these was an outdoor scene of woods and stream, topped off with "fake" shrubbery (the kind used to build model train sets).

Joyce Brothers

King of the castle

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My daughter married a man who wants to be king of the castle. He must approve every decision. He won't let her drive a car because she's supposedly too scatterbrained, and he even picks out her clothes for her. My daughter says he is a good husband and ignores my advice to stand up for her rights. — H.R.

Dear H.R.: Has it ever occurred to you that your daughter likes her domineering husband?

While most persons would describe the ideal marriage as one in which responsibilities are shared, some couples are obviously content with a less equitable arrangement. In many marriages one partner very clearly dominates, while the other is cast in a helpless, child-like role. Usually, it is the wife who plays the ultra-dependent, submissive role of her husband's lordly manner.

Both partners in such a marriage are really insecure, the dominant one needing the apparent incompetence and dependence of the other to feel confident of his own capabilities, and the impractical, "scatterbrained" partner being willing to exchange self-reliance for attention and care. Often, there are emotional problems that make a more balanced union impossible.

Such marriages can function well as long as there are no major crises. If the dominating spouse is no longer able to function as director, because of illness or other incapacity, the supposedly helpless spouse may be forced into a more competent, independent role that neither of them wants.

As long as your daughter seems happy and considers your son-in-law a "good" husband and herself a "good" wife, I think you would be wise keeping opinions and advice to yourself. Otherwise, you might precipitate a crisis in which your daughter would feel compelled to choose between her husband and you.

Eventually she may tire of the cozy security she apparently now relishes and begin to press for a more independent, active role.

At any rate, this is their problem, not yours.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I have a son and daughter in their late teens. Their personalities are different in almost every way. He is quiet and introverted while she is quite outgoing. My son finds it difficult to express anger and pain even though my husband and I have encouraged him to be open about feelings. Do you think he will change as he grows older? — W.P.

Dear W.P.: I doubt it. Since you and your husband have not insisted on your son's repressing his feelings, as many parents do with male children, and he still is emotionally inhibited, I would assume this part of his temperament is not likely to change.

When an introvert is faced with an emotional conflict or with severe stress, he's apt to turn his frustration and anger inward, while an extrovert will direct these emotions outward.

Males, generally, are more apt to be introverted than women. Women tend to be more sociable, impulsive and more interested in other people.

I'm sure both of your children have benefited from your awareness and acceptance of their fundamental differences.

Chavarria es presidente de comite de padres

RAFAEL CHAVARRIA

Un intenso programa de orientacion para miembros del Concerned Bilingual Parent Advisory Committee del distrito escolar de Pomona, relacionado a fondos federales y estatales, ha sido programado por Rafael Chavarria, nuevo presidente del comite.

El programa esta directamente conectado con los fondos federales titulo VII, y el propuesto programa de fondos estatales AB 2284, para los anos 1976-77.

Se evaluara el programa bilingue-bicultural establecido en el distrito de Pomona bajo el titulo VII para asegurarse que cumple con las reglas del estado de acuerdo al proyecto de ley Chacon, dijo Chavarria.

Chavarria sucedio a Cecilio Diaz como presidente. El nuevo jefe del comite ha vivido en Pomona durante el ultimo ano. El Sr. Chavarria, y su esposa Rosario, son los padres de siete ninos. El es graduado del Our Lady of the Lake College de San Antonio, Texas, donde recibio su titulo de bachiller en trabajos sociales.

Otros miembros que sirven en el comite son: Roberto Marquez, vicepresidente, Marcela Ortega, secretaria, Susana Armstrong, tesorera, y Esther Landin, representante de relaciones publicas.

Se oponen aumento de los impuestos

La necesidad de aumentar la tasa de impuestos, y la manera apropiada de usar fondos federales recibidos, fueron el topico en el Consejo de la Ciudad de Pomona el lunes a la noche, durante la primer audiencia publica para considerar el presupuesto de $20.4 millones propuesto para el ano fiscal 1976-77.

El ex-alcalde de Pomona, Ben Lawing, solicito que la junta no implementara los 39 centavos de impuesto a la propiedad, incluido en el presupuesto.

"Quizas los habitantes estan dispuestos a sacrificarse, con menos servicios," dijo Lawing.

Sugirio que el consejo considerara una reduccion en las fuerzas trabajadoras de la ciudad, si es necesario, para anular la necesidad de aumentar los impuestos. Dijo que los propietarios se encaran con un gran aumento en el asesamiento de sus propiedades este ano.

Los 39 centavos propuestos en el presupuesto, incluyen 5 centavos para el fondo general de la ciudad, y 34 centavos para los fondos de retiro de la ciudad. El total aumentaria los impuestos a $2.885 por cada $100 de valuacion. No se han propuesto aumentos en los impuestos de parques y recreaciones, biblioteca o bonos.

En anos recientes, los fondos de retiro han sido suplementados con ingresos federales pero el consejo adopto una nueva poliza esta primavera, que prohibe el uso de dichos ingresos para gastos actuales.

El alcalde, Ray Lepire, urgio que el consejo reconsiderara el aumento a los impuestos cuando y si el programa de ingresos repartidos federales son extendidos el ano que viene por el Congreso.

"No puedo ver que la ciudad construya un nido mientras aumentan los impuestos", dijo Lepire. Urgio que los ingresos federales se utilicen de alguna manera para prevenir los aumentos.

Los concejales Adrian Wright y Charles Bader se opusieron inmediatamente, diciendo que le uso de esos fondos solamente crearia mayores problemas en el futuro.

Bader critico el presupuesto propuesto, y que incluye $750,000 en ingresos federales ya recibidos, asi como $250,000 en reservas.

"Asi es que el presupuesto no esta balanceado. Estoy preocupado por el ano que viene, aun estamos en una situacion muy seria."

Se espera la aprobacion del presupuesto el lunes que viene despues de otra audiencia publica.

UPSTART Unranked Vitas Gerulaitis of New York returns a shot to defending champ Arthur Ashe, whom Gerulaitis upset at Wimbledon Saturday. Gerulaitis won, 4-6, 8-9, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Ashe upset by Gerulaitis

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis knocked out defending champion Arthur Ashe in the biggest upset of the Wimbledon tennis tournament Saturday and led a four-man American charge into the quarter-finals.

Gerulaitis, 21, of New York, came from behind for a 4-6, 8-9, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 victory. He had never previously survived the first round at Wimbledon.

The other Americans in the quarter-finals are Jimmy Connors, Roscoe Tanner and Charlie Pasarell.

Ashe had been struggling all week to find his 1975 form. The last time a defending champion failed to make the quarters was in 1970, when Rod Laver went out in the fourth round.

The heat wave was intense, with the temperature reaching 106 degrees in the sun-baked bowl of the center court. Ashe, looking weary and dissipirited after his defeat, said he was a victim of the heat and tension.

sun, his opponent's punishing forehands became stronger. Gerulaitis ended the match with a series of devastating forehand returns to break Ashe's service for the last time.

"Those forehands of his were unbelievable," Ashe said. "I got three good first services in, yet I trailed 15-40."

Gerulaitis said Ashe was aiming at his forehand, which had been his weakness earlier in the match.

"In that last game he served wide to my forehand," Gerulaitis said. "I guessed what he was going to do, and I guessed right each time."

Ashe's exit left Connors, the 1974 champion from Belleville, Ill., and Ilie Nastase of Romania as favorities to reach next Saturday's final.

Connors destroyed Stan Smith, the 1972 champion from Sea Pines, S.C., 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Nastase eliminated Onny Parun of New Zealand 7-5, 6-4, 6-3.

Neither Connors nor Nastase has dropped a set in four rounds thus far.

Smith could make no impression against Connors' serve-and-volley game. The supercharged left-hander lost only four points on his service in the first set, and only three in the second. In a one-sided second set, after Smith had taken a 1-0 lead, Connors yielded only five points in winning six straight games.

Tanner, the cannonball server from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., thundered to a 6-3, 6-4, 64 triumph over Nikki Pilic, Yugoslavian left-hander. The American did not lose a service game.

Pasarell, of Puerto Rico, pulled off another marathon come-from-behind victory. After trailing by two sets, he came back and defeated Phil Dent of Australia 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 60, 7-5.

In the previous round, Pasarell did the same thing, recovering from two sets down and overcoming Italy's Adriano Panatta.

Bjorn Borg, despite a groin injury, hit top form in demolishing Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-2, 6-2, 7-5. Earlier in the day, the Swede asked for the match to be postponed and even talked of pulling out if he did not get his way. He decided to play after a doctor had examined him.

Oeanwhile, Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat bearded Bernie Mitton of South Africa 9-8, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1 and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina ousted the last Australian hope, Tony Roche, 6-4, 3-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

In the quarter-finals, it will be: Gerulaitis vs. Ramirez, Nastase vs. Pasarell, Vilas vs. Borg, and Tanner vs. Connors.

Marise Kruger, 17-year-old South African starlet, led Britain's Virginia Wade 5-2 in the final set and was within range of creating the sensation of the day in the women's singles. But the hard-hitting English player rallied to win 2-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Title favorite Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defeated Betty Stove of The Netherlands 6-2, 6-2. It was a comparatively hard match for the American, who previously had lost only three games in three rounds.

Three-time champion Maria Bueno of Brazil, now 36, made a sentimental return to the center court after an absence of eight years. She showed much of her old-time grace and magic before Sue Barker of Britain beat her 2-6, 6-2, 6-1.

In the women's quarter-finals, the lineup will be: Miss Evert vs. Olga Morozova, Soviet Union; Martina Mavratilova, Czechoslovakia, vs. Miss Barker; Kerry Reid, Australia, vs. Mrs. Wade, and Rosie Casals, San Francisco, vs. Evonne Goolagong, Australia.

Two homers beat Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gary Matthews and Bobby Murcer slammed home runs to lead off the top of the ninth inning and give the San Francisco Giants a 4-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday night.

Doug Rau, 6-5, after giving up two runs in the fourth, had yielded only two singles until Matthews slugged his ninth homer to snap a 2-2 tie and Murcer followed with his seventh.

Randy Moffitt, 4-2, who took over for John Montefusco in the eighth inning after the Giants' starter had developed a blister on his pitching hand, benefited from the home runs.

Dave Lopes, starting for the first time in two weeks because of a bad back, walked to lead off the Dodger first, stole second, and scored on Bill Buckner's single to right.

The Giants went on top in the fourth when Chris Speier, who won Friday night's game with a single, drove in two San Francisco runs with a single.

The Dodgers tied the game in the bottom of the fourth on a double by Reggie Smith and a sacrifice fly by Lee Lacy.

After Larry Herndon singled to lead off the game, the Giants' center fielder was thrown out attempting to steal. Rau then retired the next eight Giants in a row before Herndon singled to lead off the fourth inning and touch off San Francisco's two-run inning.

The Giants missed an opportunity in the sixth when Herndon collected his third hit of the night, a single to right, and was sacrificed to second. Rau struck out Matthews, but then hit Murcer with a pitch to put runners on first and second. The Los Angeles left-hander then struck out Chris Speier to get out of the inning.

Hapless Angels barely get a hit

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Marty Pattin, struggling with a 1-7 record as a reliever, made his first start of the year Saturday night and surrendered only one hit in 72/3 innings to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 3-0 decision over the California Angels.

The stocky right-hander was given a standing ovation by the crowd of 30,000 when he was relieved by Steve Minguori with two out in the top of the eighth.

After issuing an intentional walk in the first inning, Pattin retired 13 straight until Dave Collins led off the sixth with a drag bunt and legged it out by inches.

Nolan Ryan, 6-8, surrendered a run-scoring single in the first inning to John Mayberry. George Brett, the American League batting leader, singled and doubled and scored the Royals' second run, coming home on Hal MacRae's fourthinning single.

The Royals added a third run in the fifth inning when Jim Wohlford walked and came around on a triple by Amos Otis.

Ryan was taken out in the sixth inning with what was later described as a catch in the right elbow. The Angels said the condition caused no pain but restricted Ryan's pitching motion and might require that he be sent home for treatment.

Pattin, without allowing a hit, experienced bases-loaded trouble in the first. Collins reached base when Mayberry fumbled his grounder, stole second and continued to third after Bob Stinson's throw scooted into center field.

One out later, Bobby Bonds walked and stole second. Then with two away, Bruce Bochte was gived an an intentional pass. Pattin got Ron Jackson on a fly ball and then proceeded to retire the next 13 batters.

Carlos Monzon shows that he's the best middleweight

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Carlos Monzon brought his insolent style and devastating reach to settle an old bet hard by the Monte Carlo Casino Saturday and in 15 rounds he gave a brutal lesson in why he is the best middleweight in the world.

Monzon, the World Boxing Association middleweight title holder from Argentina, won back the World Boxing Council half of the title he abandoned two years ago, knocking down Rodrigo Valdes of Colombia when the Colombian seemed to be gathering strength in the 14th round, and winning a 15-round decision.

"I've done what I wanted to and what I said I'd do," Monzon explained in his hard, chopped way after the fight. "Now I am content."

Valdes said he thought the decision by a French referee and two French judges was unfair, and his manager Gil Clancy complained that Monzon took advantage of loosened ring ropes to lean away from Valdes in a kind of gaucho adaptation of Muhammad Ali's rope-a-dope trick.

But Monzon was only using his remarkable physical gifts, particularly the heigh and reach—he was almost four inches taller than Valdes—that made it near impossible for the Colombian to sneak inside and land his fast combinations.

Throughout the fight, Monzon seemed as relaxed as a boxing instructor, holding on to catch his breath and scoring points with short, debilitating rights and lefts. Valdes started slowly and may have been affected by the psychological fallout from the death of his brother last weekend. Monzon fought his worst bout in 1973 a day after his brother was killed in similar circumstances.

Monzon had said before the fight that Valdes was an upstart who would be given a lesson. He said he was taking bets on the outcome, and he collected easily in the Louis II Stadium, just across the railroad tracks from the Monte Carlo Casino.

Monzon was stripped of his WBC half of the title in 1973 when he failed to give Valdes, the designated challenger, a fight as directed by the boxing group.

Jose Sulaiman, secretary of the World Boxing Council, said referee

It was a deceptively easy fight for the 33-year-old Argentine, who used his advantage in reach, his strength and his insolent style to take an early advantage over the Colombian and consolidate it with a 14th round knockdown.

Valdes rushed Monzon through most of the fight but wore himself down in the tangle of Monzon's arms and in punching short when Monzon used his reach to keep him at arm's length on the ropes. Monzon, the World Boxing Association title holder, now takes back the World Boxing Council's half of the championship.

"It was the ropes that beat us," said Gil Clancy, Valdes' manager. "I complained about how loose they were five times to the referee, but they didn't do anything about it. He was able to lean out and keep away as if he were a guy hiking out of a sailboat."

When Clancy was asked about Valdes' slow start, not winning a round on The Associated Press scorecard until the eighth, Clancy replied: "Maybe it was nerves."

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Two 15-year-old Garey High students won National AAU Junior Olympics boxing titles here Saturday.

Bobby Rizo defeated Glen Rodriguez of Honolulu for the 112-pound championship while schoolmate Richard Sandoval beat George Garcia of Chandler, Ariz. in the 95-pound title bout. Both fighters are members of Pomona Athletic League.

Region 13, which includes all of California and Nevada, won the national regional championship. Tony Cerda of Pomona Athletic League is the Region 13 co-ordinator and Gary Orchard of Pomona is its coach.

Confrontation due between Finley, players

Oakland owner Charles O. Finley ordered A's Manager Chuck Tanner not to play Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi Saturday, setting up a dramatic confrontation with the rest of his players who have threatened to strike today.

"If they do strike, I just may go along and let them strike," Finley told San Francisco radio station KGO. "Don't be surprised if there isn't any ball game in Oakland tomorrow."

Finley, in Chicago, was in constant contact with Tanner, at Oakland, before Saturday's game, with the manager awaiting word from Finley whether he could insert outfielder-first baseman Rudi into the starting lineup.

Minutes before game time, Finley told Tanner to keep the three players out of the game, then asked to speak to Jim Todd, Oakland's player repr-esenative.

Todd said Finley told him: "The gates will be open tomorrow. We will play a game at 1:30. And you people are welcome to participate."

Finley's attorney, Neil Papiano, reaffirmed Saturday night Finley's refusal to use his $3.5 million trio, regardless of Sunday's threatened player strike.

Finley "will not use the players," Papiano said. "We have been unable to come to any sort of situation which would allow Mr. Finley to use the players and protect his position."

Papiano was contacted in Los Angeles after Finley, who lives in LaPorte, Ind., telephoned The Associated Press in Chicago and instructed a newsman to call the West Coast attorney.

"There's no need for any comment from me," Finley said. "Just call Papiano and he will tell you what my decision is. You carry the ball and call him—I'm going out to dinner."

In Oakland, Todd said, "I'm going to Tanner when I arrive at the ballpark Sunday and ask him if Rudi is in the lineup. If he isn't we'll take it from there. And if we go out, the entire team will go out."

On Friday night, Finley had threatened to suspend all his players—if they strike—and replace them with members of the Tuscon Toros of the Pacific Coast League.

But he quickly changed his mind on Saturday, telling San Francisco radio station KGO: "I have decided against bringing up a farm league team tomorrow."

Finley's threat followed the Friday night threat of A's players who said they would strike on Sunday if the three stagnating players—Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi—did not get back into the Oakland lineup.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said Finley's change of heart was the result of some educating. "He had his mind changed for him," Miller said.

Miller pointed out that a suspended player is counted within the 25-man player limit, so suspending a player does not free a spot on the roster for a minor leaguer. Apparently, Finley had a conversation to that effect with American League President Lee MacPhail early Saturday.

Finley could open up spots on his roster by placing players on the disqualified list. But that action requires approval of the commissioner.

And it is highly unlikely that Kuhn would approve an action which Finley has forced on himself because he has refused to comply with the commissioner's order to play Blue, Fingers and Rudi, Miller said.

"I think Finley better comply fast," he added.

Finley's reversal was one of Saturday's major developments in this bizarre episode that now rivals an afternoon soap opera for daily disasters.

—Art Teece, owner of the Salt Lake City Gulls of the Pacific Coast League, threatened to take legal action if Finley pulled the Toros out of Saturday night's game with the Gulls. But Teece later said the game, a charity affair for the blind with a sellout crowd of 10,000 expected, would be played because Finley had changed his plans.

—Dick Moss, general counsel for the Players Association, Saturday sent the following notice to Finley:

"This telegram is being sent on behalf of players Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi. Your refusal to permit the players to participate in championship games constitutes a default under their Uniform Player Contracts. Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Paragraph 7 (a), of the default and termination of said contracts."

"The act of not playing is the same as breaching a contract for improper payment," Moss said after sending the telegram.

Finley now has 10 days—and maybe less—to rectify the situation. If he doesn't, the players become free agents. "Finley's been in violation since the commissioner put him on notice that the players should be played," Miller said. "The 10-day period could be less."

In 1974, Catfish Hunter became a free agent after an arbitrator ruled that Finley violated 7 (a) by not paying Hunter in the stipulated manner.

By a 2-1 decision, Finley's appeal to have Hunter returned to the A's was struck down by the California Court of Appeals on Friday. Finley said he will appeal to the California Supreme Court.

"I am confident that if the California Supreme Court entertains this appeal, the same result will be produced as in the lower courts," Moss said.

Moss also said that the union was considering an action to join Finley's $10 million suit against baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "We could intervene as early as next week," Moss said.

Jenner sets decathlon mark

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Bruce Jenner tuned up for his second Olympic Games Saturday by smashing the world record in the grueling decathlon, scoring 8,538 points in winning the event at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials at the University of Oregon.

Fred Dixon and Fred Samara finished second and third, respectively, grabbing the other two berths in the decathlon for the Montreal Olympics.

The 26-year-old Jenner, formerly of Graceland College in Iowa, was not planning to go after his own world mark of 8,524 points for the 10-event, two-day test, but he was advised after the ninth event that he was within striking distance.

All he needed, he was told, was a fast 1,500-meter run, so the 6-foot-2, 190-pounder went after it. His time was 4:16.4, just two seconds off his career best.

If Jenner had run 4:15.2 or better, he would have surpassed the record for fully-automatic timing and would have prevented massive confusion about what his final score really was by more than 15,000 fans, meet officials and the news media.

Jenner's new record stands for the time being, but may not be accepted internationally because officials have said that automatic timing is to be used when available, but hand timing was used here during some races due to an electronic malfunction.

Dixon, from Los Angeles, built up a substantial lead in second place and also made the team with his 8,265. Samara, of the New York Athletic Club, and three others were within two points of each other when the 1,500 began, but Samara recorded a time of 4:28.5 for 7,980 points to take the third spot on the U.S. team, ahead of Roger George, formerly of Fresno State, who scored a lifetime best of 7,930.

Jenner's previous world mark was set on this same track last year, but points were awarded on the basis of hand timing. The record for automatic timing was 8,454, set by Nicolay Avilov of the Soviet Union in winning the 1972 Olympics.

Jenner did not run fast enough in the 1,500 to better that mark, but he gets a second crack at the Soviet champion in Montreal. Jenner, on the basis of electronic timing, scored 8,444 points to fall 10 points short of Avilov's record.

In view of various complications in computing the final totals, officials agreed to use a hybrid set of figures and said Jenner's "official" score would be listed as 8,507, but that his 8,538 hand-timed total would still be considered a world mark.

James Butts and Tommy Haynes reversed their one-two finish in the triple jump at the AAU Championships as both qualified for their first Olympic Games in the only other final scheduled for Saturday.

The 26-year-old Butts, a UCLA graduate, had finished second to Haynes in the AAU meet as both recorded jumps of more than 55 feet.

Butts returned to the scene of his only other impressive victory—an NCAA championship in 1972—to record a wind-aided 56-8¾ for the longest jump ever by an American. Excessive wind prevented him from officially taking away Haynes' American mark of 56-5.

Haynes, 23, took advantage of the gusting winds for a 55-10. The third spot on the team went to former Long Beach State jumper Rayfield Dupree at 55-9¾.

Olympican John Craft of Chicago, who finished fifth in the 1972 Olympics, suffered a slight injury during the competition and managed only 55-½ on his final jump and finished sixth.

Larry Hart, the only qualifier in the hammer throw on Friday, has yet to meet the Olympic qualifying standard, so a special competition was held for four men earlier in the day. However, none of the throwers, including Army Capt. Bill Diehl, could meet the mark of 226-5 and Hart remains as the sole American competitor in the event in Montreal.

Officials said, though, that if someone other than Diehl should make the qualifying standard by July 3, when final Olympic entries must be filed, then Diehl would be added to the team under special rules designed for such cases. Diehl has already thrown 228-0, but did not qualify for the U.S. team here.

Aaron may return to Atlanta

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Reports that home run king Hank Aaron will rejoin the Atlanta Braves next season as a vice president for player development and public relations are "news to me," Milwaukee Brewers' President Bud Selig said Saturday night.

"I can just say that the Brewers have made our intentions clear relative to Henry Aaron," Selig said. "We made them with our announcement when we acquired him, and what we said then certainly is true today."

The Brewers acquired Aaron from Atlanta in a trade for outfielder Dave May in November, 1974. When Aaron signed a two-year contract as a player a few weeks later, Selig said the slugger would be assured of a job of an unspecified nature with the Brewers "in perpetuity" after his playing career.

John Alevizos, executive vice president and general manager of the Braves, said Saturday Aaron will assume a front office position in player development with the Braves in 1977.

The report from Atlanta said formal announcement was not expected until Aaron's contractual obligations with the Brewers are completed after the current season so that the Braves would be free of possible tampering charges.

"He (Aaron) will definitely be involved with the Braves next year in player development," Alevizos said. "He will be a very positive contribution to a sound organization."

Aaron's attorney, Irving Kaler, said, "I would interpret the statement by the Braves as being what their wishes are, not necessarily that there has been an actual agreement reached. There has been no agreement."

However, Kaler said Aaron's only choice, other than the Brewers, would be Atlanta.

Claremont dumps Covina

Claremont Post 78 defeated Covina 13-6 Saturday to improve its record to 16-9 while Pomona Post 30 lost a tough one run contest to Rowland 3-2 and Rialto defeated Montclair, 5-1.

Claremont trailed briefly 2-0 before bouncing back with a four-run second inning. Covina tied the score at 4-4 in the bottom half of the third but it was the last time they were in the ballgame.

Mil Pompa started the game for Claremont but lasted only three innings. Tim Dooling came in to relieve Pomona, and held Rowland to just two runs. Both runs off Dooling were unearned. Dooling in six innings fanned five Rowland batters and walked three.

While Dooling held Rowland scoreless from the fifth inning until the last inning his Claremont teammates broke the game open with six runs through the fourth, fifth, and sixth frames.

Mike Davis started Claremont's four-run second inning with the only hit of the frame, a long double to leftfield. Covina helped Claremont's offense in the inning by walking five Post 78 batters and committing a costly error.

Dick Bell led the Claremont attack with three hits in six at bats.

Claremont with the lopsided victory has now won seven straight games. Post 78 is currently 7-4 in league action.

Pomona fell behind early to Rowland 3-0 as Rowland scored single runs in the second, third and fifth innings. Pomona countered with single tallies in the sixth and eighth frames but Post 30 fell a run short.

Pomona's attack in the sixth consisted of a Chris Davis walk, two stolen bases and a scoring flyball by Dale Coleman. Post 30's eighth inning run which cut the deficit to 3-2 was scored on a base hit by Jeff Seaman.

Post 30's record dropped to 16-7 with the loss.

Rialto stopped Montclair on one run and five hits Saturday. Rialto's hurlers walked only one Montclair batter. Montclair's pitching couldn't find homeplate as two hurlers walked 11 Rialto base runners. Rialto added eight hits to the 11 free passes to roll up five runs.

Montclair's only run scored in the sixth as Dave Urguidi doubled and Don Pierce singled him home.

Jackson wants to buy A's

BALTIMORE (AP) — Outfielder Reggie Jackson of the Baltimore Orioles confirmed Saturday that he and his business partner had inquired about buying the Oakland A's baseball franchise from Charles O. Finley.

Jackson said Gary Walker, his associate and a friend since college days, had talked with Finley several times about a possible purchase, the last time early this year.

"Finley said he'd think about it," Jackson said, "and contact us if he wanted to do it."

Disclosure of the offer originally was made in the transcript of a meeting called on June 17 by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to discuss Finley's controversial sale for $3.5 million of Vida Blue to the New York Yankees, and Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers to the Boston Red Sox.

Finley made the comment at the meeting which was also attended by representatives of the Red Sox and Yankees, the Player Relations Committee and the Major League Baseball Players Association.

According to the minutes, Finley said an offer to buy the A's had been made by the representative of a "well-known player, who had previously played for us."

The player would be a party to buying the club, Finley said.

MOOR PARK, England (AP) — American golf star Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., finished five strokes behind the winner of a $43,950 international championship Saturday.

Palmer carded a final round 70 for a 72-hole total of 282 and earned $2,503.

The winner of the $9,000 top prize was Tommy Horton, a British Ryder Cup veteran. The 35-year-old Horton rammed in a nine-foot putt on the last hole for a birdie deuce and a three-under-par 69. He wound up with an 11-under-par 277.

MONTE CARLO (AP) - Bennie Briscoe of Philadelphia and Emile Griffith of New York, two middleweight war horses, drew Saturday night in a tenround fight on the card with the Monzon-Valdes championship.

Griffith, the former world champion who once lost here to Monzon, did the superior boxing, but Briscoe shook him three times.

SHIMANE, Japan (AP) — A United States high school team from Arizona recorded its third victory in three tries on a 10 match tour of Japan, defeating the Shimane Prefectural Selection 10-0 Saturday in this Western Japan city.

The Americans scored seven pins and three decisions in weight classes from 105.5 pounds to 191 pounds.

Answer wins Oaks

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Darrell McHargue took Answer to the outside in the first turn and rallied in the stretch to capture a 1¼-length victory over Franmari in the $82,950 Hollywood Oaks Saturday.

Answer clocked the 1⅛-mile distance in 1:48 2-5. She returned $20.60, $8 and $5.20. Franmari paid $8 and $4.80 and I Going rewarded backers with $5.80 to show.

Hail Hilarious, the less than even money favorite, finished eighth.

Dickson survives scare

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Bob Dickson, who has been fighting collapses of his game for two years, thought another might be coming Saturday.

But he pulled himself together to maintain a five-stroke lead after three rounds of the Western Open, despite shooting a 74.

Winless since the San Diego Open in 1973 and not among the exempted 60 leading money winnners the last two seasons, Dickson entered the third round with a six-shot margin, the largest halfway lead of the PGA tour this year.

In a bright, breezy day at the tough Butler National Course, Dickson started his round with two pars but then turned in three bogeys in a row.

"I was in the rough and the sand on the third hole, got in another trap on the fourth and missed the green on the fifth," Dickson said. "I was pretty shaky. It was just nerves. I finally got straight on the sixth playing with confidence. After the three bogeys I didn't give up but I'll admit I was concerned."

Dickson's 39 on the front side cut his lead to a mere two strokes as Al Geiberger moved in. But Geiberger stumbled with three bogeys on the back nine to finish with 73 and 215 to share second with Charles Coody who also had a 73. Then Dickson began hitting well again.

"Putting is really what saved me," he said. "I had crucial four and five footers for par and I made them. I got pumped up and tried to slow down but the tempo stayed fast."

Coody started out with birdies on two of the first three holes but had a double bogey on eight for a 36 which placed him at even par after 27 holes. But another bogey at 10 and one at 17 when he was in the rough and had a bad chip shot left him with a 37 for a 73.

Joe Porter, who has won only $6,000 this year, closed with a 33 for a 71 and 216. With him in this bracket was Gil Morgan after a 73. At 217 was Bill Mallon, who blazed the last nine in 31 for a 71 and Hale Irwin the defending champion.

Irwin made a good move but a double bogey on the ninth set him back. He recovered with a birdie on 14 and another on 16 before again starting to sputter. A trap cost him a bogey on 17 and he double bogeyed 18 when his second shot hit the trees and he shanked the third. He finished with 36-36-72.

Grouped at 218 were veteran Peter Oosterhuis with a 72 and tour rookie Steve Veriato with a 74. Another fledgling, George Burns, had a 76 to be at 219 with Gay Brewer who closed with 72.

Dave Stockton, with a 73, was at 220 along with John Mahaffey who struggled for a 75.

It looked as if Mahaffey could make a charge after a couple of birdies on the front side offset a bogey and he pulled up with a 35. This put him at 180 after 45 holes and within striking distance. But again he struggled on the backside and doubled bogeyed 13 and 14 and got another bogey at 18.

The wind added to the ruggedness of the 7,002-yard Butler National Course. One of those most affected was R.H. Sikes who had six double bogies, four bogies and an eight on the par 4 14th for a 91 and 242.

One of the best comebacks was by Bobby Wadkins. After shooting a 40 he sank a 187-yard five iron shot for an eagle deuce on the tenth. Then he dropped birdie putts of six and 20 feet and planted a wedge one inch fron the cup on the 16th for another birdie.

DISAGREEMENT — Boston Red Sox catcher Carlton Fish voices his dissatisfaction as homeplate umpire Marty Springstead leaps into air and resignals safe. Springstead had called Tigers' Tom Veryzer safe as he scored on a basehit by Jason Thompson to right-field in Detroit's fourth inning at bat Saturday afternoon at Fenway Park. Boston won, 2-1.

LV routs district foe

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

The second half of District 18 play looks promising for La Verne Post 330 as was the first in which it went 9-1.

District leading La Verne embarassed a Hacienda Heights Legion team 20-3 with powerful hitting and fine pitching from starter Bill Bumstead and Dennis Wetzel Saturday at La Verne College.

Post 330 is now 10-1 in league and 18-4 overall while Hacienda is now 2-9 in loop action.

La Verne slammed three home runs and two doubles among its 17 hits.

Ron Pickenpaugh collected four hits in four at bats and drove in two runs with a home run. Wally Pitts drove in four with three hits including a double and triple.

Bob Alexander homered and drove in four runs while Dave Drury blasted a two-run round tripper.

Bumstead went three-for-four with a RBI and Wetzel was a perfect two-for-two.

On the mound, Bumstead struck out eight batters and walked only one for six innings. He allowed only three hits and a run before yielding to Wetzel.

Wetzel pitched the seventh and eighth and whiffed five hitters but gave up two runs on two hits.

Drury came on to pitch the ninth inning and fanned two of the three hitters he faced.

With the win Bumstead boosts his record to a perfect six wins without a loss.

Hacienda Heights, missing three pitchers, had only nine players and started hurler Jon Matthews on the mound.

Matthews (0-2) was racked for 14 runs on 12 hits in three and two-thirds innings before giving way to Bill Welmon.

Welmon allowed two runs on four hits in three and a third innings yielding to Mike Dadisman in the eighth.

Dadisman was touched up for four runs on three hits in the eighth.

La Verne opened the game with two runs in the first and sent 10 batters up in the second for five runs, three on Alexander's three-run HR.

Post 330 exploded for seven runs on four hits in the fourth and sent 11 men to the plate. Pickenpaugh started the fireworks with two out by bombing a 380-foot homer to left. Pitts tripled with the bases loaded to end the show.

Drury's two-run shot highlighted a four-run cake icing in the eighth.

Pomona Valley Closed Championships

Top seeds advance in searing heat

On a day of 100-degree heat, the seeded players came forth with the hottest tennis Saturday in the Pomona Valley Closed Championships.

The last of the unranked survivors were eliminated in semi-finals action in the tournament's five open events at the Claremont Tennis Club and today's title contenders will be an all-seeded crowd.

Top-rated Dave Waterhouse and third-seeded Geoff Clark advanced to a finals showdown for the men's singles crown, but in contrasting fashion.

Waterhouse eased by unseeded Dave Click, 6-3, 6-2 while Clark was on the brink of defeat against another unseeded upstart, Olarn Issara, before pulling out the match on the ninth point of a tie-breaker.

Clark's winning scores were 5-7, 6-2, 7-6. He trailed his hard-hitting opponent from Thailand by a 3-4 point tally in the tie-breaker, but won the last two while serving. First the Claremonter put away a volley, then — on the point that would decide it all — Issara netted a service return.

Meanwhile, Christy Stafford, No. 2 seed in the women's singles, won her semis match from unseeded Donna Dickenson, 6-4, 6-4, and will meet No. 1-rated Doris Clark today.

Mrs. Clark had already reached the finals Friday by defeating third-seeded Tracy Senior, 6-3, 6-0, but she was busy enough saturday as it was.

With partner Chuck Anderson, she had a tie-breaker of her own in winning a mixed doubles encounter from Jim and Karen Lucke, 3-6, 6-1, 7-6. And in women's doubles the No. 1-seeded Clark-Dickenson team scored a 7-6, 6-1 triumph over Gloria Jones and Laila Low.

It'll be a mother vs. son finale in the mixed doubles as the top-seeded Clark-Anderson tandem meets second-seeded Geoff Clark and Cathie Headley, who were 6-3, 6-4 winners over Rick Roper and Margi Sullivan Saturday.

The Clark-Dickenson opponents in the women's finals will be Margaret Overin and Karen Lucke, second seeds who defeated Doris Cromer and Headley, 6-1, 7-6. That tie-breaker also went to the ultimate ninth point.

In men's doubles the No. 1 team, Stan Clark and Anderson, defeated one unseeded pair, Dale Gelger and Gary Kreff, 7-5, 6-3, while second-seeded Waterhouse and Bill Geary got by another, Don Cromer and Carl Skvarna, 6-3, 7-5.

The women's singles championship contest will be first on today's program at 9 a.m., followed by the men's at 10:30, the women's doubles at noon, the men's doubles at 1 and the mixed at 2.

Two race days added to slate

SANTA ANITA PARK, Arcadia — The Oak Tree Racing Association has been granted two additional racing days for 1976 and will conduct its Thoroughbred meeting at Santa Anita Park from Thursday, Oct. 7, through Sunday, Nov. 7.

Racing will be conducted Wednesdays through Sundays for a total of 24 days of sport.

"We welcome the increased opportunity for the development of young horses, which has been the theme of Oak Tree," Frank E. (Jimmy) Kilroe, Oak Tree director of racing commented.

The California Horse Racing Board allocated the extra days at its meeting this week. The Board's earlier allocation of 22 days was for an Oct. 9 opening.

Oak Tree last year had its best meeting since the 1969 inaugural, showing 13.5 per cent increase in attendance and 17.1 per cent increase in mutuel handle over the 1974 record meeting. Highlights of the 1975 22-day meeting included the new $350,000 National Thoroughbred Championship and the established Oak Tree, Oak Leaf and Norfolk Stakes, each worth $100,000-added.

"With the addition of two days, there will be some changes in scheduling the Oak Tree stakes," Kilroe said. "This is now under study, with the schedule to be announced as soon as it is firm."

AIA signs Forrest

TUSTIN — Bayard Forrest, the second round draft pick of the Seattle Supersonics, has joined Athletes in Action's USA basketball team for the 1976-77 season.

Forrest's announcement came on the heels of a similar move by UCLA's center, Ralph Drollinger to come with AIA, last year's AAU champions.

'Sleepy' Carner manages lead

CHAGRIN FALLS, Ohio (AP) — JoAnne Carner pumped out her second straight two-underpar 70 for a three-stroke lead, but favorite Judy Rankin fired a sizzling 69 to join several close pursuers Saturday after two rounds of the $100,000 Babe Zaharias Invitational.

Mrs. Carner, whose powerful driving and long iron game are ideally suited to the rolling and lengthy Tanglewood Country Club course, moved out of a three-way tie for first despite what she called a "sleepy" round.

"I never really got going," she explained after putting together four birdies and two bogeys, raising her score to 140 at the tournament's halfway point. "I didn't putt well and I wasn't awake or sharp.

"I feel good coming out of it with what I did under those circumstances," Mrs. Carner added.

Early co-leaders Ai Yu Tu of Taiwan and M.J. Smith of New Zealand slipped off the pace. Miss Tu, a leading candidate for LPGA rookie honors, went through the first nine holes one under, but wound up with a one-over 73.

She fell into a second-place tie with Mrs. Rankin at 143. Miss Smith tumbled to a 76 and a 146 total.

Chako Higuchi of Japan shot a 70—the only other subpar round of the day—to move into third at 145. Tied with Miss Smith for fourth were Amy Alcott and Jane Blalock who had 73 and 72, respectively.

Mrs. Rankin, playing the backside first, went out in oneunder 35 as she birdied both par fives.

Diver wins second berth

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— An incredible series of dives, two of them adjudged perfect, gave 16-year-old Greg Louganis the right Saturday to compete for two gold medals at the Olympic Games in Montreal next month.

Joining Louganis, from El Cajon, Calif., as the United States' competitors on the 10-meter diving platform in Canada will be Kent Vosler of Eaton, Ohio and Tim Moore of Cincinnati.

The judges gave Louganis, a Samoan who was adopted when he was eight months old, perfect 10-point scores on a backward dive with pike position and a one and one-half somersault with pike.

"It feels great to be a double first-place winner," said Louganis, who already had won a Olympic team berth on the three-meter springboard.

"I don't think there is any doubt that Greg is the finest diver in the world for his age," said Tom Gompf, Miami, coach-manager of the team.

Louganis scored 610.41 points with Vosler getting 600.10 and Moore 583.89.

Trailing them were Air Force Capt. Phil Boggs, 550.95; Brian Bungum, Bloomington, Minn., 531.12; Keith Russell, Conroe, Tex., 507.30; Robert Cragg, Maple Glen, Pa., 497.46; and Don Craine, 474.30.

Boggs and Cragg will join Louganis in representing America on the three-meter springboard as a result of earlier qualifying.

The women divers, selected earlier, are Cynthia McInvale, Dallas; Jennifer Chandler, Lincoln, Ala., and Barbara Nejman, Pittsburgh, on the threemeter board; Janet Ely, also of Dallas; Deborah Wilson, Columbus, Ohio, and Melissa Riley, 19, San Antonio, Tex., on the 10-meter platform.

Gompf described the team as possibly "the strongest and most talented we have ever assembled.

"Our men and women are going to be up against some very strong competition in Montreal, but I honestly believe we have a fine chance of winning several medals."

UCR coach likes recruits

RIVERSIDE — What head coach Freddie Goss terms "the best group of freshmen we have ever brought in" has been signed to play basketball for the University of California, Riverside, next year.

The eight prospects will join eight returning lettermen, three former redshirts and several junior varsity players in the battle for starting varsity positions next year, Goss' eighth season at UCR.

Heading the list of freshmen recruits are Lorenzo "Rennie" Watts of Centennial High School in Los Angeles, Jack Wheeler of Morro Bay High School and Paul Purvis of Sacramento Highland High School.

Kenny Goldman of Grant High School in North Hollywood, Theron Laudermill of Fremont High in Los Angeles, Mike Howard of Rubidoux High in Riverside, Richard Haussner of San Gorgonio High in San Bernardino and Tony Shaw of Inglewood High complete the list announced by Goss.

Watts, a 5-foot 8-inch guard, was second-team all-CIF 4-A this past season. A fine playmaker, Watts averaged 17 points per game for a team that made it into the CIF quarterfinals. Against powerful Long Beach Poly he scored 25 points.

Wheeler, a 6-2 guard, was first team all-CIF 1-A for the championship Morro Bay squad. He averaged 16 points per game and was named 1A/2A Player of the Tournament.

Purvis was an all-league standout at Highland High School and is a strong rebounder. A 6-7 forward-center, Purvis averaged more than 20 rebounds per game last season while also averaging double figures in scoring.

Goldman also brings impressive credentials to UCR. At Grant High he averaged 20 points and 10 rebounds per game. A 6-4 guard-forward, he was the co-Most Valuable player in his league.

Laudermill, a cousin of UCR senior forward James Laudermilk, was named to an All-Inner City team at Fremont. The 6-3 guard averaged 23 points per game.

Haussner was second team All-Citrus Belt League at San Gorgonio.

Charity grid game scheduled

A special charity football game will be played Friday at Bonita High between the California Razorbacks and the Los Angeles Mustangs, two semi-pro teams.

Gametime is set for 8 p.m. on the Bonita football field. Proceeds from the game will go to Danbury School, a school for the orthopedically handicapped in Claremont.

The Razorbacks and the Mustangs will be opening their seasons on that date. The two semi-pro squads are comprised of ex-college, NFL and WFL gridders.

Tickets are priced at $3 for adults and $1 for students.

For ticket information, call Bill Halderson at (714) 626-2822, Mary Douglas at (714) 593-1077 or Tim Weiss at (714) 624-9041.

Cards on ballot

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The annual baseball All-Star game to be played in Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium Tuesday night July 13 may find five St. Louis Cardinals in action.

Red Birds on the ballot include catcher Ted Simmons, shortstop Don Kessinger and outfielders Lou Brock, Bake McBride and Reggie Smith.

Parsons has surprise in store for Pocono

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Surprise pole position starter Johnny Parsons, son of the 1950 Indianapolis 500 winner, promises more surprises for the start of today's sixth annual Pocono 500, a race which should have all sorts of excitement once the green flag drops at 10 a.m. PDT.

The reason is a jumbled-up field for the $400,000 race, decided by blind draw rather than performance. The result should be a scramble at the start unlike anything ever seen in the history of 500-mile Indianapolis style races.

"It's a surprise, what I have in mind for the start," noted Parsons, who says he's not nervous about his first pole start. "I want to bring them down the way I want to, and you'll see what that is. But that's all I can tell you."

Pressed for more details, he responded coyly, "I'd really better not say."

Finally, he offered this hint: "Mario Andretti is tough and he's a good starter. But if he's going to stay up with me, he's going to have it together.

"Guys will have to be hustling to keep up with me."

That sounds like a fast start, but Parsons won't elaborate further.

Andretti probably has the best seat in the house for the start, the outside of the front row. It will give him the best line going into the first turn, and since it's been almost two years since he started on the front row in this type of racing, he should be plenty eager.

"I'm not really concerned about anyone beating me into the first turn except Mr. Foyt with all his horsepower," Parsons explained about A.J., who is starting fifth and considered the pre-race favorite.

Even though the odds are against him, Parsons believes he has a chance to win.

"By the end of the year I can just about guarantee a victory for our team, and I'd just as soon have our first win right here," said the lean, handsome 31-year-old from Indianapolis. "I don't feel we are a darkhorse. We're a contender."

The real contenders for today's race, the richest auto race in the world besides the $1 million Indianapolis 500, should be Foyt, Andretti, Gordon Johncock, Al Unser and defending Indy champ Johnny Rutherford.

Starting position could be crucial for Unser and Rutherford. They drew 16th and 15th grid positions, respectively, and will be right in the middle of the field. Considering what's happened at Indianapolis on confused starts in recent years, that's not the place to be.

"The race isn't won on the first lap, and starting position is not as important as it used to be," Rutherford advised. "If we can stay in good position until the field starts to string out a little bit, we'll be in good shape to move up."

Foyt has won this race twice, Rutherford once. Unser, Andretti and Johncock have come close each of the past several years. Johncock has twice won the pole position.

Though attention will probably focus around those five drivers, others not to be counted out are Bobby Unser, Mike Mosley, Wally Dallenbach, Tom Sneva and Pancho Carter.

Aztecs to attend camp

Mambers of the Los Angeles Aztecs professional soccer team will be on hand to provide individual instruction during the opening day of Azusa Pacific College's All-American Soccer Camp on August 2.

For the second year Azusa Pacific's athletic staff and coaches from five other high schools and colleges in the area will instruct soccer players between fourth and tenth grade in individual offense and defense, passing, trapping, shooting and team play. The camp will be held in two one-week sessions on the Azusa Pacific campus, August 2-6 and August 9-13.

"Having the Aztecs here to demonstrate and offer instruction on an individual basis will be the perfect way to start the second annual camp," explains Larry Delemarter, soccer coach at Azusa Pacific College and director of the All-American Soccer Camp. "It will be a privilege to have the best soccer players in Southern California participate and show everyone how it's done well."

Other instructors at the All-American Soccer Camp are Otto Rieger, soccer coach from Claremont High School; Don Lawrence, soccer coach at Azusa Pacific and referee of the Southern California Soccer Association; Fritz Rosenvedlt, soccer coach at Chaffey College; Steve Davis, soccer coach at Claremont College; John Wilde, soccer coach at San Gabriel High School and East Los Angeles College; and Andy Silva, soccer coach at El Monte High School.

Age and ability grouping for participants will be used to ensure maximum benefits for each participant. Individual skills will be taught each morning and team play will take place each afternoon. Films, classroom instruction and recreational swimming will be held between the morning and afternoon sessions. Camp begins each day at 8 a.m. and concludes at 5 p.m.

Tuition is $65,00 for one week or $100.00 for both weeks, which includes all instruction, a group photograph, an individual photograph, a camp T-shirt, and the use of swimming and tennis facilities.

For more information or for an application call or write the All-American Soccer Camp at Azusa Pacific College, (213) 969-3434.

TV cage coverage expanded

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Potentially higher viewer ratings have led the National Broadcasting Co. and Television Sports (TVS) to purchase rights for Sunday college basketball games next season, officials say.

TVS President Eddie Einhorn, here for the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics convention, said that NBC-TVS paid $3 million for the 1976-77 college basketball package, which includes weekly regional telecasts.

Spokesmen said the series will begin with a nationally televised doubleheader Jan. 2 featuring UCLA against Houston.

The series will include defending national champion Indiana against runner-up Michigan, Marquette - Michigan, Notre Dame-Marquette and North Carolina State-Louisville.

Secretariat's first offspring to be sold

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Five generations of breeding plus "just a little bit of luck" gave Walter M. Jeffords Jr., the first thoroughbred horse sired by Triple Crown winner Secretariat.

Jeffords, a 61-year-old investor in utilities companies throughout the nation, is selling the prize foal, now a yearling filly out of My Card, at Keeneland's summer sale July 15-20.

"I couldn't even guess," he said when asked what price the filly might bring at auction. "I think she was born pretty much a perfect foal and has continued to progress," Jeffords added.

"She's average or just a shade above average size," farm manager Harry Scott said.

Jeffords' family has been in racing and breeding of thoroughbreds for generations. Along with Samuel Riddle, the Jeffords bought Faraway Farm here in 1920.

About that same time, they also bought a mare called Flying Flower and Jeffords, who was still a child at the time, can't remember now who sold her to his family.

However, that mare was the start of the female line that eventually was to produce a handsome bay filly with the distinction of being the first conceived by Secretariat.

Flying Flower produced Flying Hour, which when bred to the famed Man O' War, who was owned by Riddle, produced a filly named Furlough. Furlough was the dam of Ace Card, who produced My Card, who foaled the Secretariat filly last year.

The Jeffords family owned, raced and bred all five mares.

"It was just a little bit of luck," Jeffords said, explaining that his "mare was ready and was the first to be bred to him." He had obtained the breeding rights "from a friend," Jeffords said.

Mt. Meadows opens Aug. 9

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Golf Writer

WELL SIR, they're not going to open Mountain Meadows Golf Course until Aug. 9, according to Pete Schabarum, L.A. County supervisor. And that's the way it should be. Seems the old grass hasn't grown up yet, and you know what it's like to play on sparse grass.

Dedication ceremonies for the course, a completely reconstructed layout, will be held for July 10-11, along with the dedication of the entire 2,000 acre Bonelli Park.

For those interested, the course will be dedicated at 9 a.m. on Saturday July 10. I'll be hanging around, but I'll leave my sticks at home. I'm kind of anxious to hobble around the new layout though. (My torn tendon is healing but none too quickly.)

OPENING DAY ceremonies for the two new courses in the El Prado area south of Chino will be held on Thursday.

The courses are named Chino Creek Golf Course and Butterfield Stage. I'm looking forward to playing the new layouts.

IT'S TIME to welcome back one of the Progress-Bulletin's top golfers, Bill Duff, back on the Wednesday league trail. Bill played right up through September last year although because of cataracts, he was unable to see the flight of the ball.

Duff last fall underwent an eye operation which gave him back his sight, and he's playing golf again.

A sure sign that he's regaining his ability is his weekly improvement. He opened with a 54 at San Dimas, cut it to a 52, and last week he fired a 50. At that rate he'll be shooting in the 30s in six weeks.

GOOD NEWS for Howard Smith fans. The popular pro at Diamond Bar recently signed a five-year pact with L.A. County to maintain the golf shop and serve as head professional.

For quite some time, men and women's club members at Diamond Bar were deeply concerned that Smith might not be awarded the contract by the county.

But their worries went for naught. Smith is still smiling and ready to serve his admiring public.

MEANWHILE, the county has named David Cink, 34, as head professional at the reconstructed Mountain Meadows course in Pomona.

Cink, a resident of San Fernando and a Class A member of the PGA, has loads of golf experience. He served as an assistant pro at Sepulveda golf courses and held head pro jobs in Van Nuys and at Paso Robles Country Club.

Junior golfers in the area can look forward to three tournaments this summer sponsored by L.A. County.

The dates are: Wednesday, July 14 at Diamond Bar. Wednesday, July 27, Whittier Narrows; Tuesday, Aug. 10, Marshall Canyon.

Entry fee for each event is $2. Ages for junior golfers range from 11 to 17. Entry blanks can be obtained at L.A. County golf courses.

A COUPLE of Claremont golfers, John Holtzman and Mike Bicker, are performing well in the Western Amateur Golf Association.

Stan Pollard, a 20-year-old from Cal State Fullerton, won the second WAGA event Monday at Mission Viejo with a one over par 73.

But Bicker shot a 37-37—74, and Holtzman had 39-36—75, both finishing in the top 10.

Gerry Simoni, the former Upland High star, fired 36-41—77 over the rugged 6,919-yard layout. Jim Vallone of Walnut had a 78.

The amateur tour gives top young Southland golfers a chance to compete on Mondays on many of the best golf courses in the area.

On Monday, the tour moves to Valencia, a 6,788-yard course rated at 73.7.

FRANK SOWIN, captain of the Claremont golf team in 1975, is serving as one of the public relations specialists with the Western Amateur this summer.

Sowin, who's playing near par golf these days, attends Cal State at Irvine. He expects to be ready for varsity golf next season after sitting out a year.

He played at Claremont from 1971-75.

JIM PORTER, who learned much of his golf at the Claremont Golf Center with Pat Patton, has recently taken a job as assistant pro at Bel-Air Country Club in Los Angeles.

It's a giant step forward for Porter, who played out of Red Hill C.C. while he was an amateur. Porter, who prepped at Claremont High, will be working with head pro Eddie Merrins, recognized as a top teacher and player in these parts.

Porter won the 1974 Southern California amateur and was one of the leading players at UCLA for four years. He failed to qualify for the PGA Tour recently, but he's bent on becoming a top pro and is off to a definite start with the Bel-Air post.

I remember Porter first as a class player on Ron Skaggs' Claremont teams years ago, and he burned up the area like a young Arnold Palmer.

LOIS PAULSEN of Glendora CC and her guest Betty Olson of Red Hill C.C. won the recent better ball tourney at Glendora with a low gross of 92.

Low net winners were Dorothy Rogers and her guest Ruth Hoefflin of Annandale C.C. with a 65.

JOHN CUMMINGS of Riviera shot a flashy 71 at Glendora CC last week to win the Reed Memorial Junior event.

David Brokaw, Huntington Seacliff CC was low gross winner among boys 17 and under with a 73.

Other winners were:

Boys, 16 and under — Eric Evans, Los Robles, 75; Boys, 14 and 15, David Games, Al California, 73; Boys, 12-13 — Robert Schwinn, Los Angeles, 83; Girls 15-17 — Cathy Hanlon, Palos Verdes, 78; Girls, 12-14 — Terri Lynn Akazaki, Dominguez, 81; Boys 11 and under — David Rhorer, 41.

A RECORD FIELD of 204, made up of 127 professionals and 77 amateurs, has filed entry for the 24th United States Women's Open Championship. The championship will be held at Rolling Green Golf Club, Springfield, Pa., July 8 through 11. The record entry, surpassing last year's total by 18, has necessitated 18-hole, stroke play, qualifying rounds at three sites: at California C.C. in Whittier, Ohio and Philadelphia, Pa.

The starting field for the championship proper will comprise 150 players.

Seven professionals and seven amateurs will compete for four spots at California Country Club on Monday. Also on Monday, 23 professionals and 10 amateurs will play for 17 places at the Tanglewood Country Club in Chagrin Falls, Ohio, outside Cleveland. On Tuesday, 15 professionals and 25 amateurs will play for 12 places at the Gulph Mills Golf Club in King of Prussia, Pa.

JERRY PATE is a 22-year-old labeled for life. In every tournament he'll be announced as the winner of the U.S. Open. When he's 65, teeing off with the seniors, he'll still be called "winner of the U.S. Open."

Every time he hits a bad shot, some wag will smirk, "Is that the way a U.S. Open champ hits 'em?"

College powers get top prep cage talent

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Defending NCAA champion Indiana and Atlantic Coast Conference perennial contender North Carolina led the way as college basketball's traditional powers grabbed a good share of the top high school talent in this year's recruiting campaign.

The annual survey by The Roanoke Times made for The Associated Press showed that Indiana and North Carolina each signed four of the top 40 high school players.

The top 40 is a compilation of nine scholastic All-America teams, two recruiting services, and the opinions of some of the country's top college coaches.

It was a bonanza year for Indiana, which graduated four starters from its undefeated team. The same was true for North Carolina, which lost only first-round draft pick Mitch Kupchak, a member of the United States Olympic team.

The Hoosiers got Glen Grunwald, a hot-shooting 6-foot-9 forward from Franklin Park, Ill.; Ohio's Player of the Year, 6-5 Butch Carter from the traditional basketball hotbed of Middletown; 6-10 Derek Holcomb, a rawboned center from Peoria, Ill., and Mike Miday of Canton, Ohio, whom one coach termed "a 6-7 Kent Benson."

North Carolinas' quartet of prospective stars included its home state best, 6-4 John Virgil of Elm City; Indiana's Mr. Basketball, guard Dave Colescott; 6-10 Steve Krafcisin of Oak Lawn, Ill., and 6-6 Mike O'Koren of Jersey.

'Kiss and Tell'

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

"Kiss and Tell," F. Hugh Herbert's amiable little comedy about The Bobby Soxer's Role in World War II, is given an amiable presentation by an amiable cast at the Claremont Playhouse at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays.

The play, a curious and nostalgic flashback to 1944, is dated as much by the Andrew Sisters' rendition of "I'll Be with You in Apple Blossom Time" as by the revolution in American mores and morals in the past 30 years. Pregnancy is no longer a whispered word; secret marriages are as surprising for being secret as for being marriages. The basics of the play are timeless, of course — teen-agers fighting into love, neighborhood feuds, bratty kid brothers — but the sex bomb of the '40s, has been defused, and the comedy looks like nothing so much as a TV sitcom, which it soon became: Corliss.

Played on George Gizienski's handsome set (but why an over-stuffed couch on the patio?) "Kiss and Tell" concerns itself with the trials and tribulations of Corliss Archer, a Joan of Arc in saddle shoes, who must bear the brunt of shame when suspected of getting a little bit pregnant, rather than give away her brother who has secretly married — oh never mind. It sounds like "Corliss Archer! Corliss Archer!"

Corliss is played by attractive Kathy Feffer, a persuasive young actress who brings fun and vitality to the pivotal role. At times she seems to be trying too hard, reacting with some exaggeration, but generally gives a convincing and highly entertaining characterization of a storm-tossed teenybopper that all parents will recognize.

The young lovers, who have a hasty, secret, wartime marriage and achieve a pregnancy in what must be an Air Corps record time, are played by a vivacious Lynda Truxell and David Rex, a hulking and engaging young actor. Miss Truxell gives a warm, intelligent portrayal of the secret bride whose parents hate the parents of her soldier husband. Rex is convincing as the Air Corps lieutenant, a L'il Abner in suntans.

A standout in the talented cast is young Russell Stewart playing a sort of brat role as Raymond Pringle, one of those obnoxious smarty-cats who causes a lot of problems for everyone, then ends up solving them. Stewart offers an easy, natural and quite funny performance.

Director Dale White keeps the fragile farce moving at a spritely pace — even when Ping Pong balls fail to materialize — and draws rewarding performances from the cast.

The next production at the Claremont Playhouse will be Woody Allen's "Play It Again, Sam," starring Roger Allen, slated to bow Aug. 19.

Jazz historian

TURK MURPHY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Turk Murphy, who has brought traditional jazz to thousands here and around the world, is more than a trombonist — he's also a student and historian of a uniquely American music.

The gray-haired Murphy has dedicated more than 40 years to studying and preserving the music he plays and has compiled a library that contains 10,000 to 20,000 songs that he transcribed onto sheet music.

Since the musicians who first played Dixieland never wrote it down, Murphy's work represents a historic collection of American music.

"I wasn't able to go to college, so I decided to make the most of my career in music," Murphy says about why he began the library.

He often jots down from memory the chords, melody and harmony lines of a song after a jam session or during breaks, and he has managed to research the origins of many songs.

"High Society," for instance, originally was a Belgian march, and "Careless Love" and "Didn't He Ramble" were Elizabethan folk songs, he said.

"'Didn't He Ramble' was part of the lyrics to a tune called 'Ram of Derby,' which was George Washington's favorite song," he added.

Murphy corresponds with musicians throughout the world, and many ask for his arrangements. It sometimes takes him a half day to locate the song in his voluminous files, but he fills each request.

Traditional jazz, as Murphy prefers to call his music, got its start in New Orleans and was popularized by piano player Jellyroll Morton and trumpeters King Oliver, Bunk Johnson — who claimed he taught "Satchmo" how to play — and "Satchmo" himself, Louis Armstrong.

Murphy says he tries to avoid the term "Dixieland" since it often is used to describe music as "old hat or corny" and evokes certain racial prejudices he opposes.

Murphy, whose real first name is Melvin, was raised in Williams, Calif., a small farming town north of Sacramento. He was nicknamed "the Terrible Turk" on the high school football team, and it stuck. It was during high school that he decided to play the trombone, mostly because "trombone players marched in front of the band."

Murphy began playing local jobs on weekends when he was 15. Unable to attend college during the depression, he instead played with several swing bands and later with a jazz band.

In 1948 in San Francisco, Murphy started his own band, consisting of trombone, trumpet, bass, clarinet, piano and banjo or drums.

In 1955, Murphy was asked to pick out a song and arrange it for Armstrong. He picked a tune from "The Threepenny Opera" that neither Murphy nor the famed trumpeter believed would be successful. When asked whether he wanted the $350 arranging fee or a copyright and future royalties, Murphy settled for the flat fee.

"That was one of my bigger mistakes," recalled Murphy. The song, "Mack the Knife," was successful for Armstrong and later became a million seller for singer Bobby Darin.

"I could have been a rich man," says Murphy with a laugh. "Years later, Louie used to rib me, 'So that tune won't go any place, hey Turk?'"

Murphy's group remained almost constantly on the road until 1960 when Murphy and piano player Pete Cluter opened Earthquake McGoon's night club, where they've been ever since.

They took the club's name from a character in Al Capp's "Li'l Abner" comic strip. When Murphy asked his friend Capp for permission to use the name, the cartoonist set down only one condition — Murphy would have to "play good jazz and keep his nose clean!"

"I think we've done that so far," said Murphy. "We sell happiness. The music is spirited and cheerful. There's no message. It pleases people and they have a good time, sometimes in spite of themselves."

Murphy said about half of his Friday and Saturday night audiences are between the ages of 17 and 30, a "healthy sign" of broadening tastes in music.

Murphy, 60, who has gone on concert tours of Europe, Australia and Japan with the band, says he has no plans to retire.

"I wouldn't do anything else," he said. "For a life that offers no security, I've met many great people and made many good friends."

"25-YEAR-OLD STOMACH ACHE GONE"

Says Mr. George Vessa, L.A., "my wife suffered with a burning in her stomach for a quarter of a century. She vomited often and couldn't keep food in her stomach. We tried many things but did not receive any permanent help. I took her to see Dr. Wing. After a couple of weeks she felt much better. In three months she was completely well. It has been over 5 years ago and she has not had any sign of recurrence."

BACCHANALIA — "Bacchante and Infant Faun" by Frederick MacMonnies is one of the works to be created by live models at the Pageant of the Masters at Laguna Beach July 16-Aug. 29.

Art festival set at Laguna

The annual Laguna Beach Festival of Arts, with its world-famous Pageant of the Masters, to be held at the Irvine Bowl July 16-Aug. 29, will feature 200 years of American art in observance of the Bicentennial.

The festival is open from noon to 11:30 p.m. daily, with the Pageant of the Masters scheduled at 8:30 each night. The festival is expected to attract 300,000 visitors to Laguna Beach, a city of 16,000.

Some 180 Southern California artists, including painters, sculptors, jewelers, potters, weavers, wood carvers and furniture designers, will exhibit and sell their works at booths on the six-acre park. Many of the artists and craftsmen will demonstrate their art during the festival.

The festival also includes a continuing art workshop for children, a junior art exhibit by some 150 Orange County school children, marionette shows by Tony Urbano of Universal Studios, and Sunday afternoon performances on the green by Ballet Pacifica.

The Pageant of the Masters, traditionally a sellout, is the recreation of famous works of art by more than 500 volunteer models. Set in the open-air amphitheater, the pageant is noted for its artistic verisimilitude and professional staging and lighting. This year's pageant will offer such works as "The Road, Winter" by Currier & Ives; Andrew Wyeth's "Young Amercia," "Bacchante and Infant Fawn" by Frederick MacMonnies, Grant Wood's "Dinner for Threshers," Norman Rockwell's "Winter Duet," "Fight for the Waterhole" by Frederic Remington, Winslow Homer's "Adirondack Guide" and others. The Pageant traditionally closes with leonardo da Vinci's "The Last Supper."

The Festival of Arts is a cultural phenomenon. It rents the grounds from the City of Laguna Beach (last year's rent: $160,000) and pours the proceeds from the six-week event into capital improvements such as studios, galleries, a theater, which are donated to the city. In the past 10 years the donations have totaled $500,000.

The festival also lavishes grants and scholarships on cultural organizations such as Ballet Pacifica and on individual students in the graphic and performing arts. Last year's awards amounted to $81,400. Since the festival started in 1932, more than $2 million in grants and scholarships has been provided.

Rally comes to halt but hits 1,000 level

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's June rally came to a halt this past week at a familiar sticking point — the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The widely recognized indicator of stock price trends, which had climbed 37.98 points in the two previous weeks, slipped 2.04 to 999.84.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index eased .04 to 103.72, while the New York Stock Exchange's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks edged up .06 to 55.35.

Big Board volume tapered off to a daily average of just over 19 million shares, down from about 23 million the week before.

Analysts said the week's economic news mostly worked in the market's favor.

Indications from the credit markets were that the Federal Reserve was holding to a moderate credit policy and working to keep interest rates steady.

The Fed's weekly statistical report Thursday afternoon, showing declines in the basic measure of the money supply and in business loans at major New York banks, suggested that chances were good for continued stability in credit conditions.

The government, meanwhile, reported a sharp rise in orders for durable goods orders last month.

A less favorable bit of news from Washington came in the Labor Department report showing consumer prices rising at a 7.2 per cent annual rate in May, for the sharpest rise in six months.

But the figure wasn't very much higher than Wall Streeters had been expecting.

Most observers agreed that the market's biggest problem was the same internal one that has plagued it for months—stubborn resistance to all its efforts to make a lasting run past the Dow 1,000 mark.

Twice in the past week sellers knocked the average back below 1,000, evidently seeing that level as a kind of upper limit for stock prices for the present.

International Business Machines was a bright spot during the week, reaching a three-year high. Other big-name glamors like Xerox and Digital Equipment also did well.

Brokers said investing institutions seemed to be increasing their holdings of such stocks as they prepared their portfolios for end-of-quarter reports. Purolator, on the other hand, fell sharply following the company's estimate of lower second-quarter and first-half profits.

The over-all tally of Big Board-listed issues showed 978 gainers and 835 losers among the 2,076 traded.

New highs for the year totaled 177 against 34 lows.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .17 to 105.06.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 1.5 at 314.6.

Have you seen what's happening in Alta Loma?

The nicest families — the smartest buyers — are moving there. Why?

A striking example of this is our new Lewis Homes-Alta Loma development. The homes are stunning. The lots are large. The view is great.

And the price? Well, you can figure from thousands of dollars less than we could build them for in our other prestige locations. See our display models today!

New split-level and one-story plans on 10,000 sq. ft. lots. Up to 1,969 sq. ft. of actual living area. From $46,900 to $56,000.

A home that does many things

Planning a new home involves more than merely designing a handsome residence. In some instances, it becomes something of a philosophy, in that it combines a way of living for the people that will inhabit the house, with an esthetic accomplishment. Here is a home that does many things, as a well-designed home should.

The planning stage of your home is the best time to provide for the comforts you will want in the years to come. It is also the economical time to make such provisions. That is why we have provided very generous size rooms in this home. The additional square footage cost involved when enlarging room sizes prior to construction is very moderate and this reduces your overall cost

From the wide entry, there is excellent traffic circulation throughout the house. There are no offsets in the 30-foot wide living-dining room so that one can utilize as much space as they desire for each area.

Although both rooms are larger than usual, the family room and kitchen visually appear even larger as only a partial wall separate the two. This well-organized kitchen does not have on inefficient corner cabinet. It features an unusual amount of cabinets including a pantry. Cabinets have been arranged so that traffic does not have to be routed through the huge nook.

The ranch exterior has been achieved through the use of batt and board siding.

Complete working drawings for plan 41087 can be purchased for only $15.85 for the first set and $8.48 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until Oct. 20. Please allow at least three weeks for delivery. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06.

Also available are six home plan books illustrating in excess of 850 plans — a $10.34 value — for only $8.22 plus 60 cents for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P. O. Box 404-P.O. Northridge, CAlif. 91324.

PEGGY ALLISON

RELO eases moving

When a man gets a promotion or a new job that requires the family to move, it is often the wife who carries the biggest burden in uprooting and transplanting the family, explains Peggy Allison, 1975 top woman sales producer for Herbert Hawkins Realtors.

"Almost always the husband is busy with his business, making plans for the new job, and is exhilarated by its challenge," Mrs. Allison said.

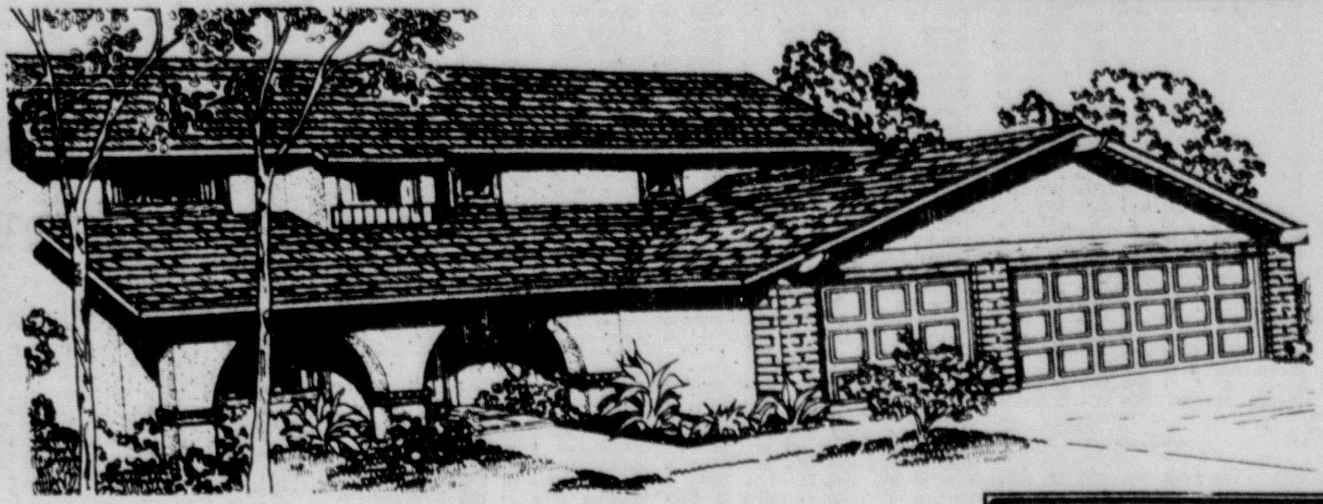
"That's not true with the wife. She has to deal with the packing up, the movers, the fears of her children about a new school and leaving old friends and all the little details, plus her own feelings about leaving her friends and activities."

The best way to handle these problems, said Mrs. Allison, is to get the whole family involved in the planning process for the move at the very start.

"Here is where a RELO (Inter-city Relocation Service) member can be a big help. As soon as we determine family needs, we'll make a phone call to a RELO member in the family's new town and they'll send information about schools, cost of living, clubs, neighborhoods and other information needed to ease the apprehension of a move," she said.

"RELO firms, like Herbert Hawkins, make a special effort to welcome the family, meet them at the airport, get motel reservations for them while they're looking for a new home and try to understand the family's lifestyle so they can find a home in a compatible neighborhood."

For further information on this special service, persons may call the Herbert Hawkins RELO Department at (213) 285-9811.



GRAND OPENING — A new series of Lewis-Homes Alta Loma is marking its grand opening in a scenic location near Carnelian Street north of 19th Street in Alta Loma. Builder Richard A. Lewis said the group is enjoying brisk buying and offers 10,000 square-foot lots.

Lewis' A.L. Homes have grand opening

Homes in the development are priced from $46,000 to $56,000 and are on lots measuring up to 10,000 square feet, Lewis said.

The homes have shake roofs and stone or brick accents, and offer three- and four-bedroom plans with up to 1,969 square feet of actual living area, the builder said. He added that one split-level model has been winning special attention from home seekers. It is among several single-level and multi-level plans available.

Another group of Lewis homes is located at the southwest corner of Carnelian Street and Banyan Avenue. It features refrigerated air-conditioned models with twin-sink master bath pullmans, 14-foot long eating counters and three-car garages. The homes are on 12,000-square-foot lots and feature a variety of floor plans. Prices start at $52,000.

The sales office is open daily and may be reached from the San Bernardino Freeway by turning north at the Vineyard Avenue exit in Ontario. From there the route is north on Vineyard to its junction with Carnelian Street.

Coop City's rent strike is creating national concern

NEW YORK (AP) — The people who live in Coop City are more than a little behind in their rent — more than $25 million behind.

Most of the nearly 15,000 families in the vast apartment complex, the largest in the country, are on a "rent strike." They say the latest hike in their rent — the third in as many years — is just too much and, for a year now, they haven't paid rent.

Their landlord, now a New York state agency, says the new increase of 25 per cent is entirely justified, part of the inflation that has raised not only the cost of housing but that of food, gasoline and almost everything else. The state also says the rents are fair compared with others in this high-rent city.

The legal hassle surrounding the dispute could result in the largest residential mortgage foreclosure in American history and possibly in the hugest eviction. The outcome will likely be of interest to officials dealing with a growing number of rent strikes elsewhere.

Such strikes — more often caused by a landlord's failure to make repairs or maintain apartments — have occurred in luxury housing in Washington, D.C., public housing in Newark, N.J., and in everthing from tenements to luxury apartments in New York.

At its simplest, the Coop City disagreement can be measured in the words of one tenant of the project and those of a state spokesman.

"I can't afford it," says Alice Uysal, a mother of three whose own mother lives with her and whose husband is out of work.

"It's fair ... definitely," says the man from the state Division of Housing.

The disputed increase, again put simply, would raise the monthly rent on the average two-bedroom apartment from $214 to $264.

But the conflict is by no means simple. It has produced several long, drawn-out lawsuits, including one in which tenants claim they were defrauded in the financing of the project. In another, the state successfully claimed the right to foreclose on the huge project, which was financed through state-supported bonds. Its population of 60,000 is as large as many American towns.

The foreclosure suit is the most crucial of the involved legal maneuverings. No foreclosure proceedings have been started since the ruling in early May, but the decision has set off a round of negotiations to end the rent strike.

Foreclosure would mean the tenants would lose $450 per room equity — a total of about $30 million they paid for their apartments. The project would be sold to a private developer and operated as a rental property rather than a cooperative. Exactly what else it would mean is uncertain, but it's possible that many tenants would be evicted.

The strikers have been banking all along that the state is not prepared to evict the 40,000 people involved in the strike.

"Nobody in this community is going to be thrown out," Charles Rosen, leader of the rent strike, said several weeks after the decision in the foreclosure suit. "This isn't Abbie Hoffman and the Yippies. This is 15,000 workers and their wives and children."

So there it stands: The tenants say they won't give up, won't pay the higher rent. They want a limit on the number of rent increases — the latest one comes on top of a 20 per cent hike in 1973 and a 12½ per cent jump in 1974.

They also want some control over the management of the project. Though it is called a cooperative, Coop City was run by a board in which resident members were outnumbered by management even before that management fell apart and the state took over.

George Sternlieb of Rutgers University's Center for Urban Policy Research sees other states and cities becoming more involved in rent disputes because of the increasing number of rent control laws and laws that allow withholding of rent.

Sternlieb lists Maryland and Massachusetts among states to recently adopt such enabling laws. New York and some of its suburbs, Berkeley, Calif., Fairbanks, Alaska, and Miami Beach are among cities with rent controls that would draw the government into any rent disputes.

At Coop City, the strike involves apartments built under a state program designed to provide housing for lower-or moderate-income people. The housing is financed through the sale of bonds backed by the state's "moral obligation."

In this case the bonds were sold — at 6.2 per cent interest — by the United Housing Foundation, a non-profit corporation formed by a coalition of unions. The first tenants moved in late 1968 and watched the complex grow on 300 acres in The Bronx, one of the city's five boroughs. The land had been partly a garbage dump and partly a defunct amusement park called Freedomland.

What grew was indeed a "city." Its 60,000 residents — more than in Bismarck, N.D., or Atlantic City, N.J. — live in 35 buildings of from 24 to 33 stories. There are also, much like Bismarck or Atlantic City, schools, churches, synagogues, shops, restaurants. It even has a power plant.

Almost all the tenants came from New York, most from surrounding areas of The Bronx. They were attracted by low rents and a chance to escape from neighborhoods facing the deterioration and crime that have become the plague of the nation's older cities.

They had found new apartments in buildings surrounded by grass, trees, playgrounds and winding walks, instead of by crowded streets. It was not picture-postcard New York. Apartments were utilitarian, not luxurious. And they were a 45-minute bus ride from jobs in midtown Manhattan.

All that was all right. Rents were cheap. There was the $450 per room equity, returnable if the tenant moved at the end of a lease, and the monthly carrying charge, or rent, was to be $23 per room.

But by the time even early tenants moved in, the monthly rent had gone to $27 per room. And it kept going up until, in spring 1975, it was $43 per room. That was when the 25 per cent rent hike was announced, bringing average rents to $53.50 per room.

"That's when I became active," says Rosen, the 33-year-old printer who has taken a leave from his job to head the rent strike. He is now paid by the strike committee.

"We thought they would stay cheap," Rosen said of the rents. "People expected a clean, safe community, a nice New York community which they could afford. We were poor. The government said it was for poor people. 'That's us,' we said."

Rosen, who has a wife and two children, said the latest rent hike is simply more than most tenants can afford, particularly the more than 11,500 elderly who make up about a third of the project's households.

Myron Holtz, the housing division spokesman, said the average income in the project — exclusive of the elderly — is $15,000 before taxes.

When asked about the average income of the elderly, he said he did not know what it was but that 2,878 families listed income below $99 yearly. That was taxable income, in which Social Security would not count, he said. "Probably all these are elderly."

The elderly tenants already are having it tough living on retirement and Social Security payments in today's economy, said Murray Lerner, 71, head of the project's senior citizen groups.

Rent payments continue, even for the strikers, who send their rent checks to the strike committee. To avoid seizure of the money, the strike committee isn't cashing the checks, Rosen said.

There are inconveniences from the strike, too. Half the maintenance and security workers have been let go because the rent money is not there to pay them, said Holtz.

The tenants also are cleaning hallways in the buildings now and manning their own patrols against crime. Many, particularly the elderly, are worried about crime.

Despite the cost and inconveniences, tenants interviewed say they have no thoughts of moving elsewhere.

Mrs. Uysal, the woman with the out-of-work husband, does not want to go back to her old, deteriorating neighborhood. "This is the last outpost," she said. "There's no place to go from here."

The Portuguese began to explore West Africa in 1415.

DEAR POLLY — To remove that hard-to-get-at mildew that often appears in a tub, shower, on vinyl surfaces, etc., I put some liquid bleach in a clean spray bottle and spray it on the mildew. Let dry about five minutes and then scrub the stubborn crevices with a brush. Wipe away the mildew. Rinse with clear water. I do this once a week. —KATHRYN O.

DEAR POLLY — I tacked a thick piece of styrofoam insulating material inside the kitchen cupboard and another to the cupboard door. On them I hang all sorts of things simply by sticking long pins into the foam for hangers. —M.G.B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those mothers would like to help their children improve in geography. Buy one of those puzzles that is a map, with the state capitals on it, as well as the products the states produce. Hang it in an eye-catching place. The bright colors and the picture will capture the child's attention and he will learn quite a bit without a great deal of studying. —CAROL.

DEAR POLLY — I add a little vinegar to the rinse water when washing men's socks and shirts, so as to remove any trace of perspiration odor. —ANN.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:
LINDA WIETTING OF JOLIET, IL, ASKS:
"HOW DO WATER STRIDERS WALK ON WATER?"
THE WATER STRIDER CAN WALK ON TOP OF THE WATER BECAUSE THE SURFACE TENSION OF THE WATER HOLDS IT UP. SURFACE TENSION IS A FORCE THAT CAUSES THE SURFACE OF A LIQUID TO ACT AS IF IT IS COVERED BY AN ELASTIC FILM. THE INSECT'S SPIDERY LEGS ARE COVERED WITH WATER-REPELLANT HAIRS THAT LET IT STRIDE ABOUT ON THE SURFACE FILM WITH HARDLY A RIPPLE. IF ITS FEET BECOME WET THE INSECT QUICKLY SINKS.

Two Bicentennial projects receive an encore broadcast this week on ABC. "Huckleberry Finn," Mark Twain's immortal classic, starring Ron Howard, airs Saturday from 8 to 9:30PM. Ron's father, Rance Howard, portrays Pap Finn; his mother, Jean, portrays the Widow Douglas; and his brother Clint plays Arch. Jack Elam and country music singer Merle Haggard star in the roles of the King and the Duke, respectively, two con artists whose shenanigans deter Huck Finn and his black friend, Jim, from their road to freedom.

"The Man Without A Country," is the second special on Saturday night, from 9:30 to 11PM on ABC, starring Cliff Robertson. The production recreates the atmosphere of the 19th century, the setting for the tragic story of Philip Nolan, accused of being a traitor for conspiring with Aaron Burr. It was filmed entirely on location at Mystic, Conn., Newport, R.I., and Ft. Niagara, N.Y. Co-stars are Beau Bridges, Peter Strauss, Robert Ryan, Walter Abel, Geoffrey Holder, Sheppard Strudwick, John Cullum and Patricia Elliott.

'THE BOLSHOI'

Mary Tyler Moore serves as hostess of "The Bolshoi Ballet: 'Romeo and Juliet'." Natalja Bessmertnova dances the tragic Juliet, partnered by Michail Lavrovsky as Romeo.

The 200th anniversary of Moscow's world-famous Bolshoi Ballet will be commemorated when GE Theater presents a specially taped performance of "The Bolshoi Ballet: 'Romeo and Juliet'" on CBS, Sunday from 8 to 10PM. Mary Tyler Moore is hostess for the special presentation of the Sergei Prokofiev work, which features leading dancers of the renowned ballet company. The Bolshoi Ballet, together with the Bolshoi Opera, constitute the Bolshoi Theater, which since its founding on March 28, 1776 has fostered the creative growth of some of the world's finest dancers.

Shakespeare's immortal tragic love story has been treated some 14 times by several of the world's greatest composers, including Berlioz, Tschaikowsky and Bellini. But the Prokofiev version, which was first performed in Leningrad at the Kirov Ballet 36 years ago, is particularly prized by critics for the power of its musical portraiture and the dramatic descriptive qualities of its lyric themes.

When Prokofiev, who died in 1953, wrote the now universally acclaimed score for "Romeo and Juliet," he remarked that he had "taken special pains to achieve a simplicity which will, I hope, reach the hearts of all listeners." The composer's goal has been realized: the music is an international concert hall favorite; the ballet has become a repertoire staple of numerous companies and a ballet-film, produced in Russia in 1954, has been seen widely throughout the world.

When "Romeo and Juliet" was first produced at the Kirov in Leningrad in 1940, Galina Ulanova, now the ballet mistress of the Bolshoi, created the role of Juliet. Mme. Ulanova, called "The Wonder of the World," is interviewed on camera on the GE Theater presentation by Mary Tyler Moore. Now dancing Juliet is Natalja Bessmertnova, and Romeo is Michail Lavrovsky, son of Leonid Lavrovsky, the ballet-master who choreographed the original work. They head the Bolshoi's cast of 125 dancers.

The orchestra is under the direction of Algis Shuraitis, who has conducted all the Bolshoi ballets for the past 12 years. Yury Grigorovich is the troupe's principal ballet master.

Emmy-award winning star Mary Tyler Moore loves the sun of Malibu as much as the Russians love caviar. But she loves ballet even more, which readily explains one of the reasons she withstood freezing weather in Moscow last January to serve as guest hostess for this presentation. Only the ardor of the star-crossed lovers in this magnificent work could thaw out television's favorite lady, who started her show business career as a dancer. For Mary, the trip to the Soviet Union was an impossible dream, but one that finally came true. Imagine stepping off a plane in Moscow tanned from the California sun into a snowy wonderland steeped in history and suddenly being assaulted by deep freeze.

"It was really cold, 10 degrees below zero," Mary recalls. "Fortunately, I hide my miseries. I had to have special thermal linings put in my coats.

Such discomfort was quickly forgotten when Mary first glimpsed the Bolshoi Theater, whose 200th anniversary is being celebrated with this gala performance. "It was thrilling," she enthuses. "I was really awed. I vaguely remember a scene from 'Red Shoes' in a theater that at the time I thought was magnificent but it in no way could compare to this theater. There must have been at least six tiers of balconies, all gilt decorated, plus red velvet everywhere, and a stage so large it can accommodate not only the dancers, but the orchestra as well."

What Mary found particularly exciting was the afternoon rehearsal. "Dancers in leotards are universal," she said. They're the same no matter where you go. The leotards were black, soiled and had holes in them. It all had a very familiar look to me."

"When Science Borders On Magic"—See This Week's People Quiz

Too Hot to Cook? Turn Our Snacks Into Full Meals!

Inside:
Our Brassy Bicentennial,
A Birthday Tribute
By Rod McKuen,
To Begin America's
200th Birthday Week.

"It's taken me two hundred years
to come down to this place
I have earned the right to see red, white and blue
not on a battered standard borne in battle
but on my brother's face.

I love my flag.
To me it stands for love
kindness even to my enemy
and most of all, for brotherhood."

From "Colors of the Flag"

Sure, Our Bicentennial Is Brash—And I Love It!

By Rod McKuen
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

So many have by now bemoaned the fact that America's 200th birthday has become a big sales conference, a buy-centennial rather than the Bicentennial.

While red, white and blue toilet seats and caskets—or a California beauty parlor advertising three commemorative hairdos for men: one with 13 curls to represent the original colonies; a second with vertical stripes; and a third with "bonnie blue bangs" to help the Confederacy get into the act—may be stretching taste to its snapping point, make me a minority of one who feels the attention, the overplay, the tub-thumping, the pop art, the parades—and, yes, even the commercialism—aren't altogether unnecessary ways to draw our attention to the nation's birthday.

If America is the capital of anything—and it certainly remains the capital of the free world—it is the seat and capital and starting place of commercialism. Americans have always been entrepreneurs, inventors of the luxury that became necessity—and we're our own best tub-thumpers. I for one like the idea of being referred to as living in a capitalistic country. I wouldn't have it any other way.

It's interesting that some of the critics from within who attract the most attention are those people who have become famous, successful and even rich from the land they live in and off of. Not confined to any political party—the far right, the far left or those who tread water in between—they are perhaps so conscience-ridden that they have forgotten how it was they made their living, by what constitution and standard, under which flag and on what soil they trod as they worked their way to whatever success they have attained.

Yes, I get uptight at tri-colored disposable diapers and starred Bicentennial poker chips (or maybe not uptight, but I do smile slightly and shake my head from side to side). Though the "Star-Spangled Banner," with its reference to battles and gunfire, remains the most difficult song I know to sing and remember, it's nice to see a country displaying its flag so much and so often this year. If it takes commemorative dinner napkins, toys, fashions, shaving mugs, towels, toothbrushes, bed sheets, commercial aircraft, train tickets, preachers in churches with altars draped in flaglike bunting, and people painting their porches—if it takes all that to remember our heritage, our Constitution, what brought us here and, most of all, our birthday, that's just fine.

Ellen Graham

Rod McKuen: "I know my history lesson . . ."

> "If it takes commemorative dinner napkins, toys, fashions, shaving mugs, towels, toothbrushes, bed sheets, commercial aircraft, train tickets, preachers in churches . . . to remember our heritage, our Constitution, what brought us here and, most of all, our birthday, that's just fine."

Maybe the small businessman selling Bicentennial jewelry will have a bigger profit this year. Maybe the jigsaw puzzles commemorating the scenes of Valley Forge, Concord and "The Maine" will cause the children putting them together to ask questions about the country. It could be that the preacher delivering his Bicentennial sermon will remember that the family of man consists of everyone everywhere and not just a chosen few belonging to his church or denomination. I would love it if red, white and blue reminded us throughout our lifetimes that this country has so much more to be proud of than ashamed of, and if some call it sentimental or silly or overly patriotic to be patriotic, then so what?

I love America and what it's done for me and all the people living here I know and don't know. I love my country enough to want to live here the rest of my life.

Bring on your Bicentennial merchandise and memorabilia and minutes, line up your people dressed as Minutemen and Betsy Ross and Washington. Show me yet again America on Parade at Disneyland, Six Flags Over Texas waving proudly, the people of Philadelphia presenting a replica of the Liberty Bell to Washington, D.C., because the real one is too old and weak to be moved. Let me see more children with red, white and blue ribbons in their hair. We're only halfway through our 200th birthday celebration, and I still haven't had enough. FW

By Rod McKuen

Red should not always stand for blood
not even that spilled by our fathers
  and our sons
in the great parade of wars with numbers
  one
    two three.
Red is a sunset color,
a painted desert dye
the color of the Arizona plains
and at certain times, the West Virginia sky.

Pride and purity may use the color white
but snow topped Colorado mountains,
ice across the Great Lakes in December
and Alaska every day of winter time
  claim the color first.
Not to mention that long strand of sandy Utah
and every New York/California beach.

So many uniforms are blue
that we forget the Truckee and the Mississippi
blue sky ocean to ocean, blue ocean sky to sky.

I know my history lesson, learned it well
that this nation to become a nation
ran forward into battle shouting freedom!
and often bore the tattered tri-color home again
for men to mend and start another battle new.

Aware I am
that flag makers make new fortunes
every Veterans/Decoration Day
and broken bodies bathed in canvas
  and the stars and stripes
have slid off ten thousand ships,
  maybe twenty thousand more,
to rest upon the bottom of the mother sea.
Excelsior at Iwo Jima.
  Bully at Bull Run.
One small step for all mankind
  murmured on the moon.
Peace with honor . . . somewhere.

Gold Star mothers have their pride. Me too.
But I would rather paint my colors
  on a bright balloon
children then would wave at me
they never did the moon.

Old men who sit at tables making wars
don't do so in my name.
Not once, not twice, never again.
It's taken me two hundred years
to come down to this place
I have earned the right to see red, white and blue
not on a battered standard borne in battle
  but on my brother's face.

I love my flag.
To me it stands for love
kindness even to my enemy
and most of all, for brotherhood.

Observations™

Man bites dog. It's hardly news that we would oppose legislation in Congress to break up the larger oil companies.

But when editorial writers for some of the nation's leading newspapers make independent judgments that divestiture spells bad legislation, we think that's legitimate news. And so, in the interest of a free flow of information, we present the following editorial comments:

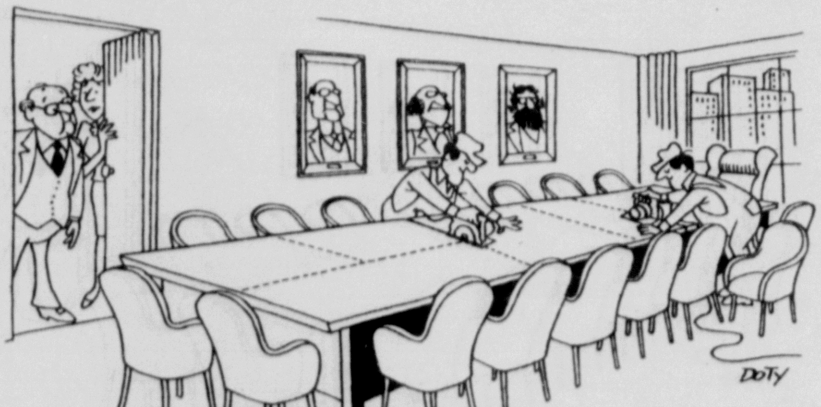
"Breaking up the oil companies would be a national disaster."

THE KANSAS CITY STAR "The people pushing divestiture are not doing anything to ease the energy shortage or bring down prices; they are just playing to the political galleries by trying to sock it to Big, Bad Oil."

The Hartford Times "The effort by some liberal congressmen to force divestiture by the nation's major petroleum companies is so laughable that the initial inclination is to ignore the rantings as petty demagoguery. Unfortunately, history has proven that petty demagoguery, when ignored, all too often can succeed in achieving incredibly destructive ends."

TULSA DAILY WORLD "At a time when the country faces a growing and dangerous shortage of domestic fuel supplies, it would seem incredible that Congress would attempt to punish people who are investing their money and talent in the search for new sources."

THE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW of Spokane: "A Federal Energy Administration study indicates that requiring oil companies to split up would result in less production and higher prices to consumers. If this is true, it would be a clearcut case of cutting off one's nose to spite one's face."



" WE'RE BEING DIVESTED"

THE INDIANAPOLIS STAR "The industry as presently structured has served the nation very well. It could continue to do so if government would let it alone."

San Francisco Chronicle "Once big oil is broken up, who's next? It is logical to expect that the line will form on the left, of course, to bust up the automobile industry, steel, aluminum, the computer industry, and anything else big and inviting."

DESERET NEWS of Salt Lake City: " . . . instead of trying to break up oil companies, the government should get on with the job of formulating a rational and comprehensive national energy policy."

People Quiz

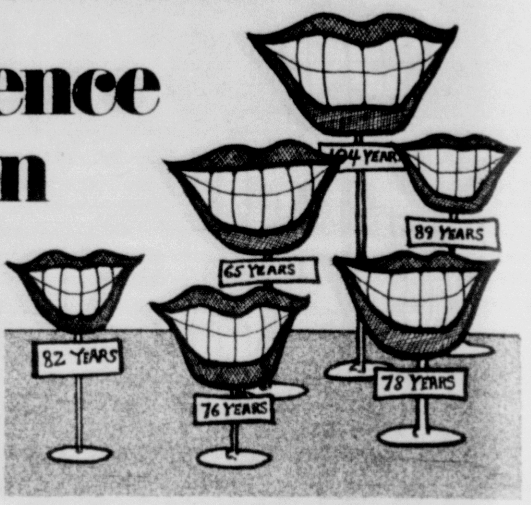
When Science Borders on Magic...



True or False? The longer your teeth last, the longer you're likely to. (See number 5.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It is not unusual for a person to experience a "personality transplant" and suddenly assume the character traits and mannerisms of someone who is no longer alive.

2. If you hear queer, phantomlike music during moments of extreme duress—almost drowning, suffocating or when being given anesthetics—this is simply a hallucination.

3. Warts are responsive to hypnotic suggestion. They will go away if told to.

4. A person's thoughts, feelings and emotions are sometimes broadcast telepathically and received by friends in the form of dreams.

5. The longer your teeth last, the longer you're likely to.

6. Some people believe in a previous existence. But how they view that previous lifetime is likely to depend on whether they are introverts or extroverts.

ANSWERS

1. True. A University of Michigan study shows that for a person "abruptly to assume the physical or personality traits of a person no longer living is neither exceptional nor bizarre." One young man, after experiencing the loss of someone close to him, returned to college with a completely changed personality. He became brash, hearty and assertive—utterly unlike his previous self, but virtually the image of the deceased person. He also adopted many of the other person's facial mannerisms, his habit of pipe smoking, even his gait. This type of "personality transplant" may occur under a wide variety of circumstances.

2. False. A psychological study of numerous cases indicates that "this music is in fact an objective occurrence and not a hallucination." Which is another way of saying that people actually hear this music, coming in loud and clear as though transmitted by some invisible radio. The investigation showed that such music varied with the type of duress and ranged from downright eerie to very beautiful.

3. True—according to studies in which subjects with common warts were divided into two groups. One group was hypnotized and told that their warts would disappear. The other group was untreated. Results: 53 percent of the experimental group responded to treatment, but no change was observed in the warts of the untreated group. Conclusion: The findings suggest that hypnosis has a general effect on the subjects' responses to the causative virus. But exactly how this happens has not been completely determined.

4. True. A University of California study cites a case in which the thoughts and ideas that occurred to a subject while walking during a storm were depicted in the dreams of four friends. Weather conditions have been found to have a definite influence on such occurrences. Some experts believe that the atmospheric ions during a storm "have strong psychological and physiological effects upon human beings . . . and can enhance telepathic performance in subjects already having telepathic ability."

5. True—as indicated by University of Massachusetts studies which show that dental decay—along with such stress ailments as heart disease or diabetes—results from the body's reaction to a destructive lifestyle. This may involve dietary factors, amount of physical exercise, mental attitude or various conditions resulting in emotional stress. It's concluded that dental caries may be controlled by changing one's lifestyle and that tooth decay may be an early indication of one's overall health. Previous studies have shown that worry and anxiety are significant factors in tooth decay.

6. True. In a study conducted at Southern Illinois University, introverts and extroverts were hypnotically regressed through their lives and finally told their present lives would fade and that they would see themselves in a prior life. The introverts saw their previous lifetimes in terms of tensions, frustrations, uncertainties and disappointments. The extroverts saw their previous lives as happy, pleasant and sociable. Whether what they were seeing were fantasies or actual previous lives—well, that depends on your own attitude toward reincarnation.

FIRST DAY COVERS OF THE JULY 4th 1976 BICENTENNIAL COMMEMORATIVE MAY BE RESERVED NOW

ON JULY 4, 1976 THE UNITED STATES WILL ISSUE an historic 4-stamp tribute to America's 200th Birthday.

These stamps are the most important Bicentennial tribute released by the United States Government to date, and are destined to become a treasured Bicentennial commemoration.

A First Day Cover, as shown on the preceding page, with the 4-stamps affixed will certainly be a treasured item for future generations.

WHAT IS A FIRST DAY COVER?

The United States government regularly (on average every 3-4 weeks) honors the important men, events and places in its history by issuing commemorative postage stamps. When a new stamp is issued, one and only one post office is designated to provide the official "First Day of Issue" postmark for that stamp.

A specially designed envelope bearing the new stamp issue, postmarked with the exact date of first issue of the officially designated post office, is a First Day Cover. As the officially designated post office usually bears a particular significance to the stamp ... First Day Covers are valued remembrances of America's past.

SERVICE AVAILABLE ... ACT NOW

A service is available whereby Americans can receive a First Day Cover for every U.S. commemorative stamp issue for $1.65 per month. Included in this price is a specially designed display page which provides all important historical information about the subject matter of the commemorative issue. In addition, subscribers are provided at no extra cost with a collector's album to house and display their First Day Covers in perfect condition.

Americans wishing to begin a collection of First Day Covers with the 4-stamp July 4, 1976 issue ... as shown above ... are urged to mail the order form below.

The Postal Commemorative Society, a division of MBI, Inc. is not affiliated with the U.S. Postal Service or any government agency.

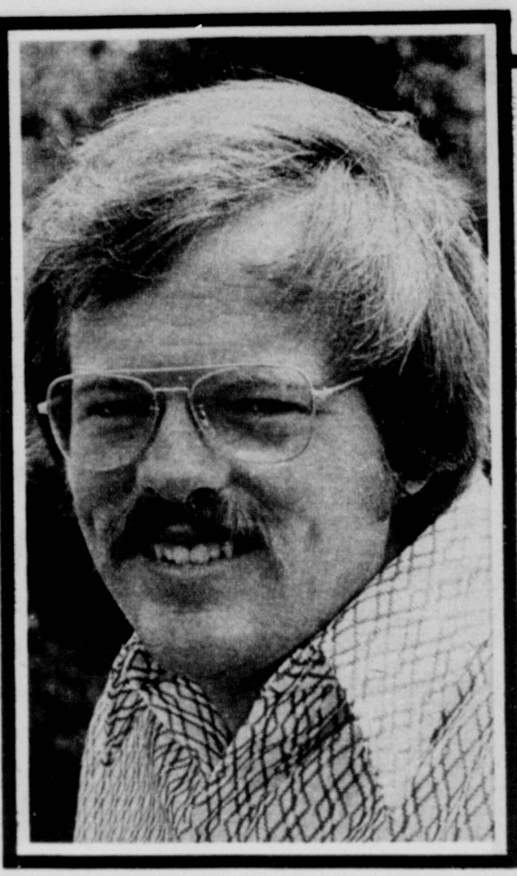
GOLFER ROGER MALTBIE:

He Owes His Success to His Father— And to Epilepsy!



Roger Maltbie is a 24-year-old golfer from San José, Calif., who collected $81,000 in prize money on the P.G.A. tour last year and won honors as "Rookie of the Year." He is also an epileptic. Maltbie came down with a mild form of the disease when he was 8 years old. It caused him to have 30-second blackouts, and when he played baseball, balls went past him in the field. "As a result, I gave up baseball and took up golf because I could play it on my own terms," he recalls. Medication controlled the epilepsy before he entered high school and it has been no bar to his career. But once having found the world of golf, he decided to stick with it. . . . "My dad gave me a membership to a country club when I was in high school, but I had to work after school to get money for clubs, balls and entry fees," he says. "Dad used to tell me, 'Nothing comes free in this world; you have to earn it yourself.' His advice was the chief reason for my developing enough self-determination to prove myself." . . . Maltbie had intended to compete in the major amateur tournaments, but he couldn't afford it, so he jumped right into the pros in 1973. "I didn't have an amateur record, so I had no way of knowing if I was good enough to make it in this sport," he says. "I had a lot to prove to myself." He did. In 1975, he won both the Quad Cities Open in Illinois and the Pleasant Valley Classic. Moreover, he won them in successive weeks—an unheard-of feat for a P.G.A. newcomer. During a celebration held after his second victory, he mislaid his $40,000 first-prize check. Luckily, an honest stranger found it and returned it. . . . Maltbie finished a close second in the Phoenix Open early this year and was tied for third in the prestigious "Tournament Players Championship." He thinks his chances to wind up with a $100,000 year are "very good." . . . Maltbie has the temperament of a winner. He doesn't blow up over missed shots and maintains a calm composure throughout his play. He has also established himself as one of the friendliest and most popular personalities in professional golf.

What Sulfa Drugs Are Really All About

Taking sulfa drugs? Want to know what they're all about? Well, they're quickly absorbed and excreted, so they're still widely used in kidney, ureter and bladder infections. The large dosages must be continually flushed through the urinary tract to prevent their settling there, so patients on sulfas are urged to drink up to two quarts of water daily. Sulfas, modified in the lab, are now used to treat bacterial infections of the bowel, some meningitis and some virus and fungus infections. Sulfas also have chemical cousins used to lower blood sugar for people with mild diabetes, and millions use sulfa-type drugs in diuretics that treat fluid retention. Sulfa drugs still turn up in preparations to treat skin infections, too.

I'll never forget my first contact with sulfa. For weeks, my father lay critically ill, back in the 1930's, with a then-lethal strep infection of the skin. A New Jersey physician sent to Germany for a new bacteria-fighting medication that—yes, miraculously—got my father out of bed and gave him many added years of life. Sulfa drugs deserved their blaze of glory as they conquered stubborn strep and pneumonia germs and some kinds of diphtheria and croup-causing bacteria. But they're slow compared with the penicillin and mycin drugs which kill germs on contact instead of merely arresting their growth, as sulfa does. So sulfa drugs have been all but discarded for use against respiratory infections.

Special Tip: If you develop any side effects while taking a medicine, ask your doctor right away. Discuss any previous drug reactions. Medications you least suspect may be related to the one troubling you now.

People and You

What Gets in the Way Of Enjoying That Vacation

Your vacation isn't meant to impress your neighbors, and you're not obliged to bring back sensational pictures, says psychiatrist Francis L. Clark. To enjoy your holiday fully, he suggests: 1) Stop feeling guilty when you're doing nothing. If lying on the beach is all you really feel like doing, then lie on the beach. Rid yourself of the idea that you "ought" to be shopping for souvenirs or climbing the famous mountain or rushing through a list of sightseeing. It's your vacation. Do nothing if you want to, and enjoy it! 2) Don't expect too much. A simple vacation can't save a marriage. Realize, too, that perfect weather exists only in travel posters. 3) Know people very well before you agree to travel with them. They may be fun to be with for a few hours on a Saturday night, but how will you feel after being with them 16 hours a day seven days a week? 4) Be realistic about extended family visits. Though they can be great times that you wouldn't want to miss, they usually aren't pure vacations, either. 5) Finally, beat the letdown at the end of your holiday by immediately beginning to plan your next one. —By Shirley Sloan Fader

Older People As "Them"–And The Cruel Shock When They're "Us"

"What appears to be a 'must' at the beginning of the month may well become a 'maybe' later. Breakfasts and lunches are skipped. Meat becomes a memory."

The Lord giveth
and Uncle Sam
taketh away

At a Portland hearing, Mrs. Mildred Bailey of Eugene, Ore., protests a proposed cut in retirement benefits.

By Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho)

Chairman of the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging

Know what witnesses are telling the Senate Committee on Aging these days? They're talking about a losing race with destitution.

A doctor in Portland, Ore., told how his greatest problem with elderly patients is hypertension, largely because they can't obtain the medicine he prescribes. "Although their incomes are marginal," he said, they're not on welfare, so their drugs aren't paid for. Their hypertension goes untreated unless I go out and scrounge medicine on my own. If power rates are increased, I suspect these people will turn down the heat or go without heat."

At the same hearing, a man in his 60's spoke up. He told how many people were facing a crisis in Portland because their "sleeping rooms"—usually in old, rundown hotels—were going up from $48 to $60 a month. Tenants are not allowed to cook in their quarters, and it costs at least $4 a day for one outside hot meal and two cold room-fixed meals. That's $120 a month for food, plus $60 for rent. This totals $180, which is $4.30 over the Oregon old-age payment. And that's not counting the costs of clothing, transportation, laundry, over-the-counter drugs and the incidentals of life."

At a hearing in Boston, a 68-year-old man broke into tears when he testified that he would have to wait two more years to become eligible for a State property-tax reduction on his home. He couldn't afford that wait. In Memphis, a silver-haired widow, whose husband had died just a few months before, testified that for years they had paid more than $100 monthly for the prescription drugs he needed for several chronic conditions. And a razor-sharp lady in Boston, who described herself as "way up in the 70 bracket, in age," brought marketplace facts with her to the hearing: oil bills of $550, real-estate taxes of $800, home insurance premiums of $112, etc., etc. "How do you figure it?" she asked. "How are you going to carry on?"

Sen. Frank Church

"Many younger Americans still view the 22 million people now over 65 as 'them.' "

How indeed? How, at a time when budget-making on a retirement is narrowing down to fewer and fewer "musts" and a growing number of "maybes"? Whatever else happens, a roof must be kept over one's head. You must pay for electricity or heating. But what about prescription drugs? Six out of seven seniors have at least one chronic illness. And yet, as the Portland doctor told us, prescriptions are often a "maybe."

Next on the budget is food, and what appears to be a "must" at the beginning of the month may well be a "maybe" later. Breakfasts and lunches are skipped. Meat becomes a memory. And when some people falter and say by way of excuse, "I must be getting old," they really may be admitting that they are sinking deeper and deeper into malnutrition.

How far does Social Security go these days? Even with significant increases since 1970, average monthly benefits are not exactly luxurious. Here is how they stand right now:

A retired worker with no dependents—$204.

A retired couple both receiving benefits—$348.

An aged widow—$195.

And of course, many older Americans don't reach anywhere near these levels because they were low earners during their work years or because they were not eligible for Social Security for one reason or another. For them, Supplemental Security Income, or SSI, went into effect 2 years ago. Some 2.3 million SSI recipients are 65 or over, and they are guaranteed a minimum monthly income of $157.70 for an individual and $236.60 for a couple. These sums, unless supplemented in major ways by state funds, are below official poverty levels.

low poverty levels.

What should be done? This brief article is no place for a complex statement on how to end inflation. But here are six principal actions I would like to see taken:

- Make the Social Security and SSI cost-of-living adjustment payments payable twice a year rather than once. And make the formula on which they are based more realistically reflect the way older persons actually spend their money.
- Raise SSI *at least to the poverty level. It's a shame that this nation has not yet committed itself to that modest goal.
- Get Medicare to cover out-of-hospital prescription drugs. Medicare, in fact, stands in need of many improvements; it now covers only about 38 percent of all health-care expenses of the elderly.
- Protect Social Security trust funds, now under considerable strain because of simultaneous inflation and widespread unemployment. I am sure Congress will take immediate and long-range action before a real crisis develops, but one way not to go is that suggested by President Ford—a regressive, across-the-board increase in payroll tax.
- Recognize that many older Americans resent reductions in Social Security payments if they continue to work past age 65. Even part-time work can put them over the ceiling. Stretching this limit, with an eye to its elimination, would help many people earn the dollars they need to cope with today's prices.
- Don't cut back on necessary services to the elderly, even when the Administration calls for so-called paring down. A group-meals program, for example, now provides sociability as well as nutrition. And subsidized transportation can help other elders stay out of nursing homes and hospitals, while saving them the $5 or $10 a ride which other forms of travel might cost them.

Many younger Americans still view the 22 million people now 65 or over as "them." The extreme fate of "them" was gloomily anticipated in a 1968 novel by Marya Mannes. She wrote that people past age 50 would be institutionalized and ultimately disposed of. Another estimate has been fashioned by psychiatrist and gerontologist Robert Butler, who complains about the "age-ism" of our times. He tells us that even physicians shun the older patient and that most people somehow associate retirement with death. And of course older people are prime targets for crime—not only because they are relatively helpless, but because young people have an overt contempt for the "old crocks" who are their victims.

> "Older people are prime targets for crime—not only because they are relatively helpless, but because young people have an overt contempt for the 'old crocks' who are their victims."

But there is a sunny side to aging, and it is best seen at the community level. There, big but largely unnoticed things are happening. Older people are finding their own voices to shape programs brought to them by government, by private agencies or—more and more frequently—by their own initiatives. Senior centers are turning into headquarters for meal programs and other services, while triggering an esprit unmatched by anything else I've seen.

The best way to right negative attitudes toward aging, even in difficult economic times, is to think in terms of "us" instead of "them," in self-interest as well as compassion. Aging is one of the few experiences everyone is sure to share in, and old age should be a final satisfaction, not just a bitter finale.

MARGOT FONTEYN
Anything can be everything

Margot Fonteyn on our insecurities: "This lack of self-worth people feel so much today comes in part because, although they may be particularly gifted at certain things, those things are not encouraged or considered important. You can't say to somebody, 'You make a wonderful apple pie,' without that person replying, 'But it doesn't matter. I'm not a famous singer or actress or businesswoman or anybody that anybody else has heard of.' Nobody ever told them that making a good apple pie is very important in itself. This insecurity is a result of improper upbringing and education—we must encourage all our children to believe that anything they do well is worthwhile." Does the still very beautiful 57-year-old ballerina feel she has made a special contribution through her art? "I don't think I've added anything to ballet, but I have striven to maintain an excellence of standard that my predecessors set. Dancing should always be an essentially happy pursuit. When you dance for the public, they should leave the theatre with a good feeling. Dance is not something which should depress this already overburdened world." (Miss Fonteyn's autobiography has just been published by Knopf at $12.95).

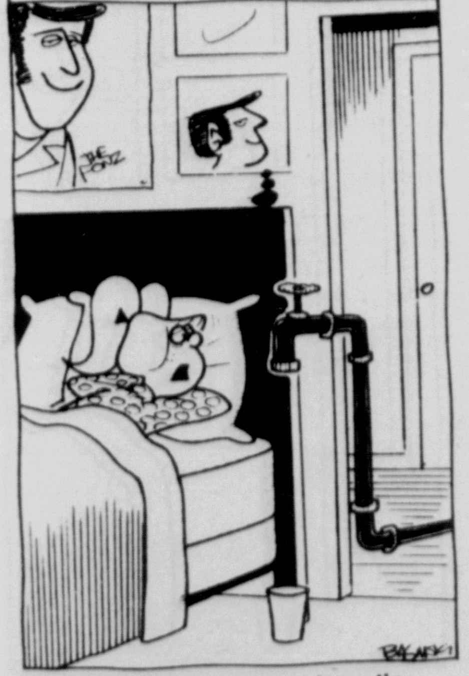
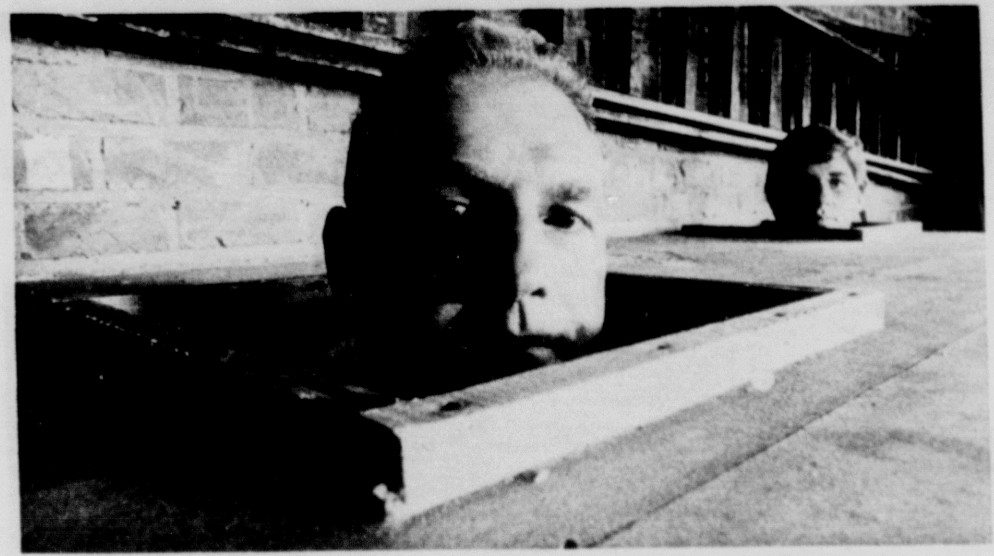
LITTLE EMILY



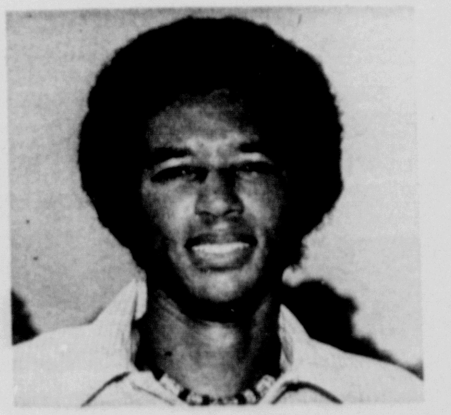
"Cute, Pop. A bit over-dramatic—but cute . . ."



Camera Press

Louis Luypaerts and Marc de Maere come up for air after more than 100 days in an underground "tomb."

Back from "the grave": You can't suffer from claustrophobia and do what Belgians Louis Luypaerts and Marc de Maere did. They were entombed for 101 and 105 days, respectively, in a large wooden coffin. Luypaerts talking: "It was torture. I still can't move my legs properly. After a few days, you stop thinking about anything other than pretty colors and rich food. It isn't anything I'd recommend—it's like being a vegetable." But there were lucrative awards for both—they charged their 50,000 visitors admission. Luypaerts gave his $12,500 to charity and to a local brass band. De Maere, ironically the son of an undertaker, was not quite as generous but did buy a friend a new motorcycle. But after all their pain and suffering, they just found out that two other Belgians are now underground and plan to stay for 180 days.



ARTHUR ASHE
No safety valve

Arthur Ashe on coping with losing: "I take defeat harder all the time. After a defeat, the press and the autograph-seekers make me feel as if I'm on trial. Sympathy for myself comes next. Only after the embarrassment and self-pity does the disappointment set in. It's only after I leave the locker room that I begin to see the defeat in cold technical terms. I waver between extremes, between the emotional and pragmatic solutions. First, I decide that I must break my game down and go out like a tiger and practice every component part three hours a day. I will overcome my weaknesses, defeat them, I tell myself. And then, I wonder why I don't just give it up and take a regular job and collect my gold watch 35 years from now? I think losing is tougher on single guys, maybe because I'm single. My chief focal point is tennis. I have a lot of other interests, but no one single counterbalance, like a family. The married guys seem to have more of a safety valve. How many times have I seen a guy come off the court really down after a hard loss, and he walks out of the locker room, and his pretty little daughter runs up to him, and it's all forgotten. I'm not one for drinking my disappointment away. I just have dinner and maybe gamble a little." From Arthur Ashe: Portrait in Motion," by Arthur Ashe with Frank Deford (Ballantine, $1.95).

SIGNING OFF

"Next window" says the P.O.
sign
Or maybe it's the bank's.
And as I wait and wait I think
Of certain playful pranks.

"Next window," I might change the sign
Of which above I speak,
Or, as I stand there, better still,
I'd make it read, "Next week."

A young man ordered a pizza for lunch. "Should I cut it into six or eight pieces for you?" asked the waitress.

The man thought for a moment, then replied, "Better make it six—I'd never be able to eat eight." —Anne Dirkman

"Thank heavens, here's one bill we don't have to worry about any more," said the bride to her husband. "It's marked 'Final Notice.'" —Lucille S. Harper

My 5-year-old grandson was telling about the fun he had at the county fair. He explained, "There were ponies there—and I rode the biggest one. But, Grandma, I couldn't reach the pedals."
